IN BETHLEHEM.
 'Twas night in ancient Bethlehem, All calm and clear and mild,
 And tenderly with voice and touch, A mother soothed her child:

"Sleep, little one, the day is done, Why do you wake so long?"
 "Oh, Mother, dear, I seem to hear A wondrous angel song!"
 "Not so, my son, my precious one,
 'Twas but the wind you heard, Or drowsy call of dreaming bird, Or osters by the streamlet stirred, Beneath the hillside trees;
 Some bleating lamb that's gone astray, Or traveler singing on his way His weariness to ease.
 Rest, little son, till night is done,
 And gloomy darkness flees."

Yet while she spoke, the shepherds In haste the road along,
 To find the Mother and the Babe, For they had heard the Song.

"Rest, little son, the night's begun, Why do you toss and sigh?"
 "A brighter star than others are O'er yon low roof hangs high."
 "Not so, my son, my darling one, I see no gleaming star That shines more bright than others are;

'Tis but a lamp that burns afar, Or glow-worm's wandering spark; Some shepherd's watch-fire in the night,
 Or traveler's torch that blazes bright To cheer him through the dark, Sleep, little son, till night is done And upward springs the lark."

Yet while she spoke, three kings had come,
 Three kings who rode far,
 To lay their gifts at Jesus' feet, For they had seen the Star.

And so today beside our way
 The heavenly portents throng, Yet some there be who never see The Star, nor hear the Song.

NEWS OF THE SOLDIERS.
 Sergt. Charles R. Rogers, who left Wilmington with Captain Gillette's boys on November 24, when he was "Dad's day" in the army, wrote his father, Charles Rogers, Castle Hayne road, a long and interesting epistle in which he expresses his pleasure over the ending of hostilities. He was then at the first corps school, Gondrecourt, France. He says it seems like a score of years, instead of less than one, that he has been away from home. He tells of his trip over seas, his good night sea-sick, going through England to France they finally got into Belgium where wooden shoes, and the dogs hitched to carts caught his eye, as well as the wind mills standing everywhere.
 Hun air attacks were frequent around Ypres and the first big gun shell that he heard coming over scared him "some," which he freely admits, anybody would be scared, he adds. He was sent to a school for a week and then returned to the Ypres front.
 Later his command was sent to France, to the Arras and St. Quentin front. Belgium he had been with the English and the "Kitties" whom he says were good ones, and in France with the Australians. He was at the "busting" of the Hindenburg line and just before the war ended was made assistant instructor in gas at Gondrecourt, where he was when he wrote. He sends a photo of his "bunch" and a tempting menu of a banquet they had.

First Sergeant C. D. Jones, or "Davy" Jones, as he is more familiarly known to his friends in Wilmington and among members of the old Wilmington Light Infantry, has written his father, Sol. J. Jones, 2017 Woodcock avenue, a most interesting "Christmas letter for Dad" in which he says that he is all well and getting on nicely.

"I just received a nice letter from you last night, and certainly did appreciate it," says Sergeant Jones to his father. "You said that you had written me twice; well, I have received one letter from you before the one last night and I answered it so I guess you have received it by this time, and I am living in hopes of going back to the good old U. S. A. before very long now. We arrived in Le-Harve, France, on 22nd of last June, stayed about a week and moved to Fort De-La-Bonnelle, near Longras, where we went into training until the first of August when we moved to St. Gionnes, which is only a short distance from Bonnelle. We stayed there until Aug-25th and from there we went to Vitry, France, where we built a trench artillery school and awaited orders to go to the front. Well, orders came on October 13th and we boarded the train on the night of October 14th, loading all of our equipment in the dark which consisted of 85 mules, 20 horses, 18 wagons, one water cart, one rolling kitchen, six big guns and 18 combatants and a great deal of other equipment besides our personal equipment."

"I am giving you these figures to give you an idea what one company of army men is against when they move. All of this done in one day as no lights were allowed to be shown on account of aerial raids. Well, we started on our journey for the front where we reached St. Gionnes, France, and all of this had to be unloaded and we started on our journey for the front which consumed about two days' hiking before we reached our position where we stayed for one day and then moved to another position where we established our two echelon and on the 18th of October we proceeded to move our guns into place for firing.
 Well, we were lucky in getting our guns in place as the weather was cloudy and we did most of our work in the daytime. No teams were allowed to go up to gun positions in the daytime unless it was cloudy on account of aeroplanes flying around at all times, so, therefore, most all hauling was done at night and no lights were allowed and believe me it was a bit of a job at times as this country is very hilly and it has rained quite a bit since October 1st and the roads would certainly be in bad shape and our teams would get stuck in the mud and, of course, we would just have to load them out, and the German artilery would shell the roads quite a bit.
 It made it hard to navigate with mules in the dark.

"Well, we did not do very much firing. The only time we fired at all was at night, but we were preparing to pour it to them as we had just hauled up great quantities of ammunition two days before the armistice was signed."

"Well, I was in the battery office when the major called on the phone, asking for the captain or one of the lieutenants. I could not locate one of them at the time, so he gave me the order to cease firing at 11 a. m. and have the men stand by in case of emergency. So it was the 11th month on the morning of the 11th day at 11 o'clock that we fired our last shot. Our men stayed up to the gun positions for about a week; then we were moved back to a place named Mauney, France, which was a French town before the war but which is nothing but ruins now. We stayed there until last week when we moved where we are at now, though there is nothing left here but a few buildings and I am staying in a dug-out. The French civilians are returning one or two every day and are starting to build up again.

"This is a railroad centre and I am expecting to get orders to move from here every day now as it is easy to get to trains. Our battalion was not put in the army of occupation, so we will not go on to Germany and I am living in high hopes of their sending me back to the states, because it is all over now and I am ready to go back."

"I feel that I have done my duty and I wouldn't take anything for the experience that I have had and I surely died of injuries.

The remains of William Crosby, who died at James Walker Memorial hospital Monday afternoon, were sent to the residence of his family in Hallsboro yesterday morning. Mr. Crosby was brought to the hospital Monday morning after having been caught in the machinery of a saw mill in Hallsboro yesterday morning. Mr. Crosby his head and chest. He underwent an operation at the hospital, but without successful result, succumbing to his injuries Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.
 Funeral service was held and interment made at Hallsboro yesterday afternoon.

 dren with many of their elders attended the exercises, and Santa Claus distributed fruit and gifts to the smaller

SALVATION ARMY TO ENTERTAIN CHILDREN

Christmas Tree and Dinner at the Opera House.

Exercises Will Be Held in the Academy of Music Beginning at 3 O'clock This Afternoon—Good Program to Be Rendered.

Many little hearts will be made happy this afternoon when several hundred children assemble at the Academy of Music to be the guests of the Salvation Army at a Christmas dinner and tree, which will be held from 3 to 5 o'clock. During the afternoon a special program, including Christmas carols, will be rendered.
 Rev. Dr. W. H. Milton, rector of St.
 James' church, Mayor P. Q. Moore and others will take part in the exercises, the latter delivering the opening address.

It is customary for the Salvation Army to give Christmas dinners to children of the poor every Christmas but nothing so elaborate as that been planned for today has ever been attempted here before. Last Christmas the exercises and dinner were held in the Salvation Army hall but the building was so small that many of the little ones could not get in the building and had to go home disappointed.
 Having this in mind Commandant George Morris, of the local post, determined that he would have no repittion of this condition and secured the use of the opera house which assures plenty of room for everyone who cares to be present.

The Scripture lesson will be read by Dr. Milton. The opening address will be delivered by Mayor P. Q. Moore.
 A feature of the program which is expected to prove of unusual interest is the play "The Magic Mantle," a delightful little farce, which will be given under the direction of Miss Clara Sackett, recreation secretary of the local Y. W. C. A. Miss Sackett has been busily engaged during the past several days rehearsing the play preparatory to its presentation this afternoon.

The program will open with the singing of "America" by the assemblage, which will be followed with the opening address by Mayor Moore.
 The presentation of "The Magic Mantle" will then be given by Miss Sackett, assisted by Miss Margaret George and a group of children, and Miss Messick as accompanist. This will be followed with the presentation of the Christmas tree by Dr. Milton and the distribution of the presents.

Beaufont the Best Drink at All Founts

Stepped up to the fountain the other day and when the man behind asked me what I would have I couldn't think of anything that would satisfy me—was sick of all the other insipid, zestless drinks that I had been getting, so I told the man to serve me the drink he thought was best. And Oh—Boy! talk about your drink that hit the spot I got it. It looked like Champagne and had the sparkle—I asked the clerk what it was. He told me it was B-E-A-U-F-O-N-T Ginger Ale, one of the most popular drinks he served and you can bet I believed him.

Take my advice and don't let yourself go by a fountain without going in to give this real Ginger Ale a trial—you'll be "delighted" just as I was. "Beaufont Ginger Ale is real Ginger Ale."

Yours truly,
