IN THE MAJOR LEAGUE TRAINING CAMPS

(The Ninth Article of a series in which James Crusinberry, famous Sports Writer, will size up the various Big League Squads for the readers of The Star. Today he writes of the Cleveland Indians).

New Orleans, La., March 23.—Nothing but a pennant will satisfy the Cleveland baseball players this year. If they finish second they will consider the season a rank failure. They believe they can win the flag. They are all set for it and eager for the race to start.

The Indians have all the confidence in the world and Tris Speaker, the brilliant player-manager, seems to have perfected a most harmonious machine that looks as if it might turn the trick. Barring an overdose of bad luck, the Indians are sure to be in the fight. One needs to spend only a day in this camp to realize it.

All Depends On Hurlers

Before training began, every expert was giving Cleveland a chance to win the flag and all were saying that it depended upon Speaker's pitching staff. The experts figured he had Stanley Coveleskie as a sure start, but couldn't bank on any of the others. Speaker himself was a bit doubtful of the pitching strength when he first began work at Pelican park. His hopes for success have risen daily since that first practice because he has seen splendid possibilities in his hurlers, and now he believes he will have four or five first-class men to help Coveleskie.

From the start he looked upon Jim Bagby with favor because he has been through the mill with credit. Now it looks as if Bagby has gained some added strength and not only that but that some of the other doubtful ones seem sure of success, thus enabling Bagby to have his needed rest between games.

This Big League Calibre

George Uhle, a lad picked off Cleveland lots, who already has shown big league stuff with the team, now seems just about ready to be a real big leaguer. Then there is Ray Caldwell, formerly of the Yankees. After more or less eccentric jumps and wild exploits, Ray seems to have settled down and become filled with that same pennant fever. There's no doubt about his ability to pitch. If baseball has become more important in his mind than outside things, he is sure to be a high class man.

A couple of three years ago, Guy Morton was a slab wonder. Afterward he fell down in his work because of a bad arm. Speaker even holds great hope in the return of Morton to his old-time form. But if he is good enough to take a game a week or a game every ten days and finish up some others, he will be of great service.

Myers Looks Great

Elmer Meyers, two or three years ago, was one of the pitching phenoms dug up by Connie Mack. He is a tall and lean, right-handed, who had a genuine curve. He went to war in 1918 and he got back from war last year and joined the Indians late in the season. He wasn't a great success. This year, he looks great, having had a winter to build up and with a spring training, it seems he's likely to make things hum after April 1.

Only One Holdout

The only holdout on the club is Joe Harris, who took Johnston's place at first last season during the race. So far he hasn't come to terms, and may not, as he has a big offer from the Industrial League. His ability to hit might drive in a few nalls during the grind for the pennant.

With Speaker in center, Eddie Gray in left and Elmer Smith in right, the Indians have a great trio of outfielders both in hitting and fielding. It looks like a championship set. Speaker still is the peer of them all in his position. Garney is a great fellow after a fly ball, a pretty fair hitter, and a splendid leadoff man, and Smith is a slugger. Joe Wood seems to be chief utility man and is likely to be in many games against left-handed pitchers. Charley Jameson, once with the Athletics, is another extra man for service in the outer garden, and Larry Gilbert, a product of New Orleans, is a sixth.

"Bunch of Hustlers"—Speaker
"It looks as if the boys are all making it tough for me, predicting I will win the pennant, but I do think I have a gang that can do it, barring a lot of bad luck," was the way Speaker put it. "I've got a bunch hustling for me. That I am sure of. I know we are pretty strong. It looks now as if the pitching staff will be all right. My left-handers may make some mistakes, but I think I have a couple who will be ready when the bell rings. "We have had great practice down here, and though we haven't played many games, I have lined up the regulars against the Yannisians almost every day, and it has been a battle for blood. We play those practice games just as hard as if they were championship contests. That is better than playing against some weak minor league outfit. I don't know what will happen when the race begins, but I am

GEORGES CARPENTIER IS NOW IN NEW YORK

Expected To Sign Contract To Fight Dempsey While Here.

New York, March 23.—George Carpentier, heavy-weight champion of Europe, who served France in the war as an aviator, arrived here today on the steamship La Savoie and was cordially welcomed by a throng of sporting enthusiasts and an enthusiastic delegation from the French colony. He was accompanied by his 17-year-old bride and his manager, Francois Des Camps.

It is expected Carpentier will sign a contract to meet Jack Dempsey for the heavy-weight championship of the world during his stay in this country. Many promoters have made tempting offers, but Manager Des Camps has not yet indicated his probable decision. Carpentier will be entertained here for several days and then will make a trip to the Pacific coast.

FIFTY SHARES ATKINSON HOSIERY MILL STOCK AT PAR

Now is the chance of a lifetime for a good investment. This mill is situated on the railroad at Atkinson, N. C., just twenty-five miles above Wilmington. The reason for this issue is to enlarge the plant to take care of more business. The plant was built at low cost over three years ago and is worth almost double now. The company will furnish power to run a planing mill, which will pay for the fuel used. This will cut almost half the overhead expenses. Now is the time to buy shares, $100 each.
