ROYAL
It is seldom that motion picture-goers are afforded so rich and rare a treat as was given the audiences that yesterday filled the Royal theater to see "The Great Redeemer," the impressive Maurice Tourneur super production which closes its run today. All who attended the showing of this picture came away with something to think about, after having been held spellbound by a powerful and intensely human narrative.

For "The Great Redeemer" is no ordinary photoplay. There is no trace of mediocrity in it. The whole thing is superb.
An all-star cast enacts "The Great Redeemer." Principal honors go to House Peters, who is rugged, manly and appealing as Dan Malloy. This actor, so much at home in western roles, imparts a new touch to his work as Dan Malloy. He gained and held the sympathy of the audience throughout his appearance on the screen. The girl is played by the beautiful young Marjorie Daw. Others in the excellent cast are Jack Macdonald and Joseph Singleton.

GRAND
Another one of those great Big V comedy creations which have been chosen for the Grand Saturday programs is the ton-ner on today's bill. It features James Aubrey in the greatest comedy filmed since Larry Semon's last comedy was shown here, a comedy original in theme and treatment with picture backgrounds and novel settings. Beautiful mountain vistas

GRAND OPERA AT ACADEMY
The New York English Grand Opera company will be the attraction tonight at the Academy of Music presenting "Faust."

An important and equally attractive feature of the entertainment that the association presents is the fact that the solos, trios and duets are all given in English instead of usual foreign tongue. There is a large element of music lovers who might be converted into a vast army of grand opera patrons, but their invariable excuse is that grand opera is always sung in Italian or French, the native tongue of their various composers, and they cannot understand either language, in consequence of which thousands of dollars that might be counted as part of the profits never find their way to the box office.

Tickets are now selling at the Wilmington Talking Machine company.

BIJOU
The Bijou today offers its patrons the best bill ever presented in that theater, which goes for a guarantee from the management. The management is delighted to announce the presentation of the big series of dramas of the Maine woods, based on Holman Day's famous dramas of the big outdoors which are appearing in the Saturday Evening Post at frequent intervals. Holman Day is one of the best known writers of the great outdoors. His stories of the Maine woods are famous the world over. In this series he has created strong virile characters of rugged romance of the

GERMANS DUMP THOUSANDS OF DYE STUFFS IN ENGLAND

LONDON, Jan. 26.—(Correspondence Associated Press).—Many thousands of tons of German dyestuffs were poured into the United Kingdom in anticipation of the coming into force on January 15 of the dyestuffs act, which placed an embargo upon the importation of foreign dyes, except under a strict licensing system. This German dumping will now be stopped.

The embargo does not apply in the case of dyes entering this country for re-exportation or in transit.

The importation of single consignments may be authorized by the board of trade which issues a special license for this purpose, in each case subject to the approval of a committee of 11, consisting of three dyestuff manufacturers, five consumers and three persons not connected with the dye industry.

Shipments of German dyes under the reparations act will not be affected by the new law, and the prescribed deliveries will continue to be made for distribution to the trade here.

The productive capacity of British dye manufacturers already exceeds 25,000 tons a year as compared with only 1,000 tons in 1913.

During the next decade, British chemists will be put on their mettle to secure for Great Britain a complete independence from foreign producers for the life of the present act is limited to ten years.

FOSTER PARENTS SENTENCED FOR MISTREATING A CHILD

(Special to The Star)
WILSON, Feb. 11.—In superior court here today, Judge T. H. Calvert sentenced William and Nursery Davis, negroes, formerly of Danville, Va., to three years and 18 months, respectively, in the penitentiary for the inhuman treatment of their eight-year-old adopted daughter. They hung the child up by the wrists for hours at a time, unmercifully whipped her and left her thinly clad in the home without food or fuel.

lumber camps and the borderland.
The first release "Lochinvar o' the Lines" is the headliner on today's bill at the Bijou and is guaranteed to be one of the greatest two reel dramas ever released. This is the personal guarantee of the management.
Hank Mann, the most popular comedian on the Bijou program, will appear in his very greatest two reel comedy creation "Naughty Nurses" in which he is surrounded by the bunch of bathing beauties, in the guise of nurses, that have ever been seen on the screen.
International News is also on the bill, and this little reel all alone brings several hundred to the Bijou each Saturday.

PRESIDENT DECIDES TODAY ABOUT PART IN INAUGURAL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—President Wilson is expected to take up tomorrow for decision the question of whether he will participate in the inaugural ceremonies at the capitol March 4. Two plans, one providing for his presence and the other for his absence, will be submitted to him by Secretary Tumulty to whom they were given today by David Barry, sergeant-at-arms of the senate.

White house officials previously have said that the President was prepared to go to the capitol not only to sign bills passed in the closing hours of the session, but also to participate in the inaugural ceremonies.
