GRAND "The Sutor," a Larry Semon comedy which will be shown at the Grand today, is one of the most striking productions of its type ever seen.

To begin with, Larry takes the role of his sweetheart in a big mirror for the real girl, and, rushing at her, he strikes the glass. Then, when the little lizard hidden unbeknown to him in the bouquet he brought, crawls there is a tremendously striking scene in which Larry is the thing struck. At the end of this he is thrown out of the many buckets of home. He arises and assumes a striking attitude, which is lost when a large policeman with a striking personality strolls up.

This is the last Semon comedy to be seen for some time to come, and is said to be the very greatest he has ever made for Vitagraph. Hoot Gibson in another thrilling two-reel drama of the great outdoors, also "Topics of the Day" and "Hoot Gibson" magazine completes the big six reel novelty and variety bill at the Grand.

BIJOU "The Two-Fisted Judge," the second of the great Holman Day Saturday Evening Post stories to be made by Pathe, is the topliner attraction at the Bijou today and is one of the greatest two-reelers ever filmed. Edgar Jones, the husky, good-natured hero of this wholesome tale of the woods, is a peace-loving judge who believes in securing justice whether or not it is technically written in the law books. Set in charming scenes of great natural beauty, this powerful little drama, with charming Edna May Sperl playing opposite Mr. Jones, is one of the most powerful short length treats ever presented at the Bijou.

Hank Mann will be seen in another one of those great two reel comedies, "The Lost Detective," two full reels of roars, and International News will bring up the rear with the usual big batch of fresh news items in pictures.

ROYAL There is no star in "Midsummer Madness," the feature picture at the Royal, which opens Monday, but the leading roles are played by four film favorites who are considered of star caliber. Jack Holt will be remembered for his picture as "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," "Held by the Enemy," and Ethel Clayton's "Crooked Streets" and

SOUTHPORT NEWS ITEMS Woman's Club Planning Benefit for the Library (Special to The Star)

SOUTHPORT, Feb. 25.—The Army and Navy club will be the attraction again March 4 when the Woman's club will give a benefit for the local library. Thirty-five women of the club and their friends will present an entertaining music program.

The annual celebration of Washington's birthday, always "ladies night" with the Pythian lodge, No. 249, has been postponed until March 1. With Mrs. J. W. Ruark as chairman, the Women's club Wednesday entered into a program on the subject of "Interior Furnishings and Decorations," illustrated by pictures. Mrs. Fields discussed color schemes for walls, rugs and hangings, and was followed by general discussions on renewing old furniture, etc.

Encouraged by the success of the first dramatic performance, the high school is rehearsing with different groups for plays to be given at the Army and Navy club at an early date. About 25 boys and girls helped Ingraham Fields celebrate his 16th birthday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fields. Games were played and refreshments served.

Mrs. E. R. Wood, after spending the winter with Mrs. J. J. Adams, returned to her home at Malone, N. Y., Wednesday. She plans to return here in the fall.

Many friends of Capt. Julius Newton, Cape Fear pilot, regret to learn of his serious illness. His daughter, Mrs. Merrill of Wilmington, was called here Wednesday by his illness.

FORDSON PULLS FIRE ENGINE A Fordson tractor, rubber tire equipped, is being used by the city of Albany, Oregon, for pulling its fire engine. The tractor is said to make between 15 and 20 miles an hour. When the Ford camera man was in Albany recently, he asked permission to photograph the engine. The mayor had the engine dismissed, declared a holiday, and had the fire department pull its equipment into Main street for photographing.
