FAILED TO REACH AN AGREEMENT ON BONUS CHAPEL HILL CHURCH

Senate Finance Committee Expects House Bill to Be Reported Today

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The senate finance committee failed to reach an agreement Friday on the soldier bonus bill, but Republican leaders predicted that the house, shorn of taxation provisions, would be reported tomorrow to the senate. Doubt was expressed, however, that the legislation could be passed before adjournment of congress next week. Though failing to agree on the bonus bill, the senate today acted favorably on the Watson bill, another measure for the benefit of former service men. This bill, which has been passed by the house, would extend privileges of war risk insurance and compensation benefits. The bonus bill caused a long controversy today in the committee. Opposition to the cash bonus plan was led by Senators Smoot, Republican, Utah, and Thomas, Democrat Colorado, both of whom called attention to the deplorable condition of the treasury. Senator McCumber, Republican, North Dakota, presented figures to show that cash bonus would entail a minimum cost of $1,400,000,000. The increased insurance plan, Senator McCumber estimated would cost considerably more. Advocates of the cash bonus, however, argued that the fund necessary under that plan would not be payable for two years and that by that time economies would be effected which would relieve the strain on the treasury. While the committee was considering the legislation a flood of telegrams from American Legion posts all over the country advocating the legislation reached senators' offices.

Structure to Cost $175,000 and Religious Subjects Will Be Taught

(Special to The Star) CHAPEL HILL, Feb. 26.—Important developments by the North Carolina board of Baptist missions whereby a new Baptist church is to be built at the University of North Carolina at a cost of $175,000 and instruction in religious subjects provided for which university credit will be sought were announced in Chapel Hill recently by the Rev. W. N. Johnson, retiring secretary of the board. The announcement, coming on top of the decision of the Methodists of the state to build a new Methodist church here and the recent completion of a new Presbyterian church, is regarded as an important extension of denominational work at the university, and the news has been received with great interest and satisfaction. Largely under the lead of the Rev. Charles E. Meddy, corresponding secretary of the Baptist state convention, a new lot has already been bought for the new church on Columbia street, and plans are under way for raising the money. The lot is centrally located and will serve admirably for church purposes. "The present plan of the state board of Baptist missions," said the Rev. Johnson here recently, "is to obtain a well known preacher and professor of Bible and religion to co-operate with the university in giving courses. The church will be equipped with classrooms and being near the campus can give courses in Bible and religion not given by the university. Arrangements will be made, we hope, so that the university will supervise and give credit for the courses." Mr. Johnson said that $30,000 had already been raised for the new church, that more was coming in all the time, and that there was little doubt but that the new church would be completed here recently. He said he had already been consulted and the new building will be of the most modern type, fully equipped for the peculiar kind of service that it will perform. Part of the money will be raised in Chapel Hill, but the bulk of it will come from Baptists all over the state who wish the 356 Baptist students at the university to have a large enough church for their use.

THE FIRST WIRELESS INTERVIEW

Count Witte in the World's Work for March: From mid-ocean one of the press correspondents flashed over the wireless telegraph his interview with Count Witte in the history of the world of an interview transmitted to a newspaper by wireless from a ship on the high seas. The interview appeared in all the European papers and contributed a great deal toward acquainting the world with my views on the nature of my task.

FRENCH WILL OPEN PURSE OF GERMAN FOR ALL TO SEE

PARIS, Feb. 26.—(By Associated Press)—The questions of reparations is dominating the minds of the French delegates to the allied conference, Louis Loucheur with the French, and J. Austen Chamberlain with the British, spent the day in work preparatory to the approaching meetings with the German delegates. M. Brand, the French premier, received the news-paper correspondents and talked with them on the situation. "France made all possible sacrifices in the Paris agreement," said M. Brand, French premier, who received the newspaper correspondents and talked with them on the situation. "France made all possible sacrifices in the Paris agreement," said M. Brand, French premier, who received the newspaper correspondents and talked with them on the situation. "But if Germany comes moaning that she has nothing in her purse, then that purse will be opened, forcibly if necessary, to see whether it is empty, or otherwise it will be recognized as a fact in international life that a people may attack, pillage and burn, and if arrested, simply say: 'We are very sorry that we are not in a position to pay.'"

AN EFFECTIVE POLITICAL TRICK

Herbert J. Spinden in the World's Work for March: "It was customary, during the last Cuban election, to line up the voters for Zayas and the league in one line and the voters for Gomez in another line. In order, it was explained, to prevent the fights that would occur if they mixed. When the polls opened it was customary to take one man from one line and then one from the other. Nothing could be fairer! But if the polls closed about the time that the conservative voted, it is evident that any surplus of liberals would lose their votes. It is surprising how many polls were closed with part of the liberal voters, outside with their ballots still uncast, especially as the conservative majorities were never caught this way."

ACROBATS IN THE JUNGLE

Carl E. Akeley in the World's Work for March: "An elephant hunter in Uganda shot a buffalo for meat. The bullet did not kill the animal and it retreated into the thick bush where there were even some good sized trees. The hunter followed along a path, suddenly the buffalo caught him and tossed him. As he went into the air he grasped some branches overhanging the trail. There he hung unable to get up and afraid to drop down while the wild bull beneath him charged back and forth with his long horns ripping at the hunter's legs. Happily the gun boy came up in time to save his master by killing the beast."

FOR NORMAL PROSPERITY

Charles W. Elliot in the World's Work for March: "The important step toward natural and stable prices remains in large part to be taken, namely, the reduction of wages. For example, there has already been a considerable reduction in the price of wheat, despite the farmers' resistance; but the price of wheat cannot become stable, or what is called normal, so long as wages in all the farmer must pay for his labor remain unreasonably high, that is, at war rates. Again, prudent owners cannot build so long as wages in all the building trades continue at their present rates."

FEW DO

Mrs. Biffkins met Mary Smith whom she has recommended to a neighbor for a situation. "Good morning, Mary!" she said. "Good morning, ma'am." "How are you getting on at your new place?" asked Mrs. Biffkins. "Very well, thank you," was the reply. "I am glad to hear it," remarked Mrs. Biffkins. "Your employer is a very nice lady, and you can do too much for her." "I don't mean to, ma'am," replied Mary.—Exchange.
