SOCIAL EVENTS DURING WEEK IN FAYETTEVILLE

Number of Enjoyable Affairs in Cumberland City and At Camp Bragg

(Special to The Star)
FAYETTEVILLE, Feb. 26.—Mrs. Bischoff entertained informally at a tea Saturday afternoon for her mother, Mrs. George Howard, of the boro. The living room in which the guests were received was attractive with spring decorations of yellow jonquils and apple blossoms. Mrs. Harry Cochran poured tea from a beautifully appointed table. Silver candlesticks held candles of pink. The mints and cakes served were in pink and white, and a large silver bowl of pink snapdragons completed the color scheme. Mrs. Howell was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. D. W. Currie and Mrs. C. W. Rankin. About thirty guests called during the afternoon.

The following announcement has been received by friends in Fayetteville: "Mr. and Mrs. William T. Jones announce the marriage of their daughter, Marion Elizabeth, to Mr. Philip O. Hoffer, on Saturday, February 13, 1921, at the home of Mrs. W. M. Rankin, Fayetteville, N. C."

An attractive luncheon was given Thursday afternoon by Mrs. C. M. Alister in honor of the 80th birthday of Mrs. Addie Worth McAllister, of Asheville, at her home on Haymount. The luncheon was in the form of a family gathering, relatives from Fayetteville and Lincolnton being present. Many good wishes were showered on the guest of honor, who bears her 80 years so gracefully.

A party of friends from Overhills were entertained Thursday by Col. R. C. Foy, commanding officer of Camp Bragg, with a luncheon at the service club. The little gray tea-room was exceptionally pretty, with rose hedges and decorations of pink japonicas. A six-course luncheon was served. The members of the cast of the Eika minstrel, "Hoop La," were delightfully entertained at the Eika home on Hay street Thursday evening. Dancing and bridge and other games were enjoyed while a number of solos were sung by Eric Massey, whose singing stirred a brief and appropriate talk was made by W. M. Walker. Music for the dancing was rendered by the Camp Bragg orchestra. Refreshments consisting of sandwiches, cake and drink were served. The chaperons were Mrs. Medlin, Mrs. James E. McIver, Mrs. R. M. Lightfoot, Mrs. T. B. Reynolds and Mrs. G. F. Gahr.

Miss Katherine Reynolds entertained at two tables of bridge Monday afternoon at her home on Haymount. Miss Reynolds' guests were Misses Virginia Sowers, of Washington, D. C., Sallie Haign Underwood, and Sara Ellen Lightfoot, and James MacRae, William D. Holt, James Moore and Fenner Sandford. After the game a salad course with coffee was served.

An unusually enjoyable affair was the George Washington dance given Tuesday evening at the hostess house at Camp Bragg. Quite a number of Fayetteville young people attended. Music was furnished by the 21st field artillery band, while Eric Massey delighted the guests with his singing. Refreshments were served.

An informal dance given Saturday evening at the Officers' club at Camp Bragg by Col. R. C. Foy, camp commander, and other officers of the camp, was much enjoyed. The dance was attended by a number of young people from the city. The Camp Bragg orchestra rendered the music for the dancing. Miss Ruth Thomas, of this city, and Sergeant C. C. Owensby, of Camp Jackson, were married Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Maynard on Campbell avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Joel S. Snyder, the ring service being used. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Curtis Benton sang beautifully "Believe Me." To the strains of Lohengrin little Louise Norden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Norden, entered, bearing the ring in the heart of a white rose, followed by the bride and bridegroom. The bride was attired in a becoming trailing suit of navy blue with accessories to match and carried a lovely bouquet of bride roses.

Mrs. Owensby is the attractive daughter of Mr. D. A. Thames, of Eolton. She has made her home in Fayetteville for the past two years, holding a responsible position with the Atlantic Coast Line railroad. Sergeant Owensby, whose home is in Asheville, spent the past year here but is now stationed at Columbia.

A $50,000 JUDGE; $90 MONTH BANK CLERK

of bars; he bites assets out of bankrupt frauds; he files loan sharks into human beings.

Having his life threatened is one of Judge Landis' most familiar experiences. He does not see that as a form of parlor amusement, and dares his enemies to do as they please.

Take the case, way back in 1911, when John Alongi was arrested for sending threatening letters to a fellow Italian. The case came up before Judge Landis, the jury disagreed, and the judge ordered Alongi held for a second trial.

A "Black Hand" Threat
The Black Hand sent Judge Landis a letter, mailed in Chicago's North Side Italian district. It said:

You discharge John Alongi or we will kill you as we did to others. Black Hand.

Judge Landis tossed his head back and laughed. Addressing the jury at the second trial he said: "The man who is influenced the fraction of a hair's breadth by having received a threat is as guilty of corruption as though he had taken a money bribe. Nowhere in the whole wide world is there room for a man corrupted."

Then came the time in 1916 when the judge was investigating the operations of federal court bondsmen. Timothy Curtin, one of the bondsmen, was on the stand.

"Do you know the fellows who have been pestering me at night, calling me up on the telephone and saying things to scare me?" Judge Landis asked.

"No, sir," Curtin answered.

"Well, if you happen to run across any of them, you just tell them to save their nickels," Judge Landis said. "They are only wasting time."

When Big Bill Hayward's flock was sentenced to prison the judge received threats beyond number, but he laughed at all of them.

"Do your worst," he challenged. "I have no yellow streak."

He received one of the May day bombs in the general distribution anarchists made of them to widely known citizens, May 1, 1919, but was out of town when it arrived, and before he returned the bomb had been discovered and his bomb had been confiscated. It was shortly after the sentence of Hayward and his 92 companions to prison that a bomb exploded outside of Chicago's federal building. Several persons were killed by the explosion, but Judge Landis was on the sixth floor of the building at the time and was not hurt.

Judge Landis had a run-in with Senator Thomas once before and it is probably the most memorable of this that still are ranking in the Colorado senator's brain.

The trouble started January 11, 1919, when a young attorney appeared in Judge Landis' court to argue a motion. The man was very much wrist-watched and Judge Landis, whose son, Reed, was an American "ace" in the aviation service overseas, noticed the lawyer's constant reference to his arm.

"What particular military service have you performed for your country and when were you discharged?" the judge asked.

The attorney blushed and admitted that he had not served in either the army or the navy.

"Hereafter I don't want lawyers who have not served in the army or navy to wear wrist watches in my courtroom," Judge Landis remarked.

The case would have been closed there if the lawyers had taken the hint, but they didn't, and soon several of them appeared in court, all wrist-watched, but all of whom kept practicing law during the fighting.

Wrist-Watchers Waiting
It was then that the limit of Judge Landis' patience was reached, and he turned to his court clerk.

"Enter an order requiring all 'wrist-watched' attorneys to notify you what branch of the service they represent," he said.

The clerk agreed solemnly, no more "wrist-watched," non-fighting attorneys plead their cases in Judge Landis' court, and the incident was closed to all except Senator Thomas, who brought it up in the senate at Washington.

"It was a clumsy joke," Senator Thomas raged. "Judge Landis ought to be impeached."

Senator James Hamilton Lewis, then at Washington from Illinois, defended Judge Landis and classed the affair as a "joke." The senate agreed with Senator Lewis, deciding that a man who had nerve enough to send 93 death-threatening letters to lawyers shouldn't be removed from the bench because he wore wrist-watches.

Senator Thomas evidently never got over the incident, however.

I heard the snow in my garden—
It sang a melting song.
I spoke to someone I can not see
And said, "It will not be long—
It will not be very long!"

I looked over my gray garden
And saw a gray chickadee
Feeding the purple berries
On a dark green cedar tree—
A friendly cedar tree.

I thought he seemed to listen,
And like the dripping sound
The melting snow was making,
To something underground—
Some listener underground.

It may be some one answered
With words I do not know
(I've never heard a crocus bulb
Stir under the soft snow—
Under the melting snow).

I have a wide, white garden
Without perfume or sweet;
No bright wings flutter to it,
No little skipping feet
No small, adventuring feet.

But bulbs and roots are waiting
And hear the melting song:
In musical, slow numbers
It says: "It will not be long—
It will not be very long."
