MARKETS

NEW ORLEANS COTTON REVIEW NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27 .- The trend of prices in the cotton market this week was strongly downward and after the middle of the week new low levels were made, with the lowest of the week and season on the close, when March fell to 11.17 and July to 12.01 Losses in the contract market amounted to 132 to 158 points. In the spot department middling lost 125 points in the net results, closing at week last year. The heaviness of the spot markets of the interior was the main reason for the slump. Spots led at the decline constantly and at the end of the week Fort Worth, Texas, in the extreme western belt, quoted middling at 10.65 cents a pounds, while Augusta, in the extreme eastern belt, quoted middling at 11.00 cents. There was very little demand for spots at any time in any section of the belt while telegrams from the interior constantly referred to forced liquidation of spot holdings. Two lots of cotton, one of 100 bales and one of 1,000 were heard of as befrom Liverpool to be tendered against March contracts in the New York mar-

First notice day for March on Wednesday went off-better than expected particularly so in view of the large amount of tenders estimated at 1..000 bales in this market and 75,000 bales in the New York market.

COTTON MARKET REVIEW

NEW YORK, Feb. 27 .- Following the weakness in coton and the continued lack of demand for the future deliveries that will keep mills em ployed, the cotton goods markets in the primary division, have been weaker. The jobbers are doing a steady business in small lots for immediate and nearby delivery, and in turn, they are reordering from mill agencies for prompt shipment.

The scarcity of goods for immediate delivery is confined largely to the staple standard branded merchandise but it is also true that many lines of wash fabrics and summer specialties are not in stock, although they are now being produced more freely. In mill channels, there is further talk of curtailment of production, due to the wiping out of the profit margin on unfinished goods. In distributing channels, nothing more than a steady filing in business is anticipated, and until something more developes among retailers, the absence of incentive to place mill orders, lends color to curailment discussion.

Bleached and brown cottons, branded, sold for the next 30 days. Ginghams are selling steadily. Fine wash goods printed, and yarn dye, are moving better each week from jobbers stocks. White goods are steady. The yarn markets have weakened and prices are at the low points again. Lines of fall underwear will be opened in another week or two, and there are signs of some improvement in knit goods generally. Agents prices are as follows: Print cloths, 28 inch 64x64's, 5 3-4c; 64x60's, 5' 3-8c; 38 1-2 inch 64x64's, 8c; brown sheetings, southern standards, 11c to -- 1-2c; tickings 8 oz., 20c; denims, 2.20's indigo, 17c; staple ginghams, 13 1-2; dress ginghams, 15c and 17c; standard prints 11c.

NEW YORK FINANCIAL REVIEW and industrial companies and fresh ed, but it surely was worth trouble." signs of labor disturbances.

The policy of retrenchment instituted by the railway companies has reduced the working forces of the country's transportation systems to a level diately preceding the world conflict and the production of steel and iron of the terribly undeceived, suddenly is less than at any time since 1914. cess of further price readjustment, cial conditions.

Shares of the many shipping companies having oil connections suffered severely in the week's reversal, but in they must pilot it past." several instances impairment was due less to trade influences than to their precarious or untenable speculative position.

Forecasts of the country's foreign trade for the month now ended offered little ground for optimism. Extensive shipments of grains and cotton are expected, however, to effect some improvement over January exports, which disclosed a shrinkage of more than $66,000,000.

Bankers are hopeful that events of the coming week-the change of administration in Washington and the reparations conferences in Londonwill be accompanied by developments of a constructive character. The fate of various international underwritings now under consideration here hinges on the results arrived at in London.

SOLDIER BONUS SLOW BUT CIVILIAN GOES THROUGH

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27 .- Senate forces lined up for a spirited clash over soldiers' bonus legislation when the senate finance committee reported the house bill favorably after striking out the provision for special taxes to pay the cost, a subject left for action by the next congress.

Republican leaders announced their intention to call up the bill early this week with its passage admittedly in doubt, while a bi-partisan attack was made upon the procedure with the bill by Democrats and a few Republi-
