TARS TAKE TOP PERCH FROM MT. OLIVE CLUB

Win Hard Hitting Seven Frame Affair by Lopsided Score, 11 to 3

Wielding a wicked willow, to which fact both Edwards and Southard, victimized by Captain Stewart, will bear evidence, the Tars hammered their way into league leadership yesterday afternoon by lambasting Mt. Olive 11 to 3 under a dazzling sun whose rays wilted and withered as they blazed down on the field.

The game itself was a weird affair and played along in connection with the dance of the monkeys the sun called out. It could have terminated either way but for the big sticks of the home club. With the score 11-3 at the end of the seventh the Olivers realized the futility of their purpose and called it a day, conceding the win and hurrying to the train.

The game began with Lefty Dew opening Big Edwards and Dew was the first to go. He was not driven from the peak but rather was driven into a hole by his club and was hooked when his control wavered. Boushee, hero of the league's only no-hit game, relieved Dew and also relieved Edwards, for it was his stinging single to center that untied the count and saw Edwards' retirement.

Southard, of spittah fame, came in from left field and assumed the pitching burden, but was even less effective than Edwards. Realizing the futility of trying to use his spitter since the blistering rays of a pitiless sun would have dried the moisture before any effect could have been had, he simply did his spitterless best, which was not half good enough.

The Tars should have won without the necessity of changing pitchers, but then with the mercury crowding the top of the tube ball players do queer things. The heat is probably the explanation of Hughie Bell's fifth inning homer, but it was a prize affair.

With the bases crowded Burnett threw his body in front of a savage smash down the first base line. The man on third shot for home and was safe. Though Burnett detected the ball and promptly recovered it, making the play home. The second base occupant had been digging in the meantime and he was hearing the plate when Burnett cast. At this juncture Bell lost track of things and simply took the throw with his foot on the base, playing for a force out when he had ample time to tag. It gunned things and for a time gave the game a blivious appearance, which shortly was lifted under pressure of exceptionally heavy stick work.

McNeal, Griffith, Trust, Burnett, Bundy, Bell and Boushee claimed stick work honors and their attack, launched on the wavering Southard in the seventh, was a nature to tickle the crowd immensely because the crowd likes to see Southard get hit.

Today's game will be played at the thirteenth and Ann street park with the same admission in effect that was charged yesterday. Falson, tall enders, will be the goat in this instance and the Tars fully expect to strengthen their position since club members like to win up there.

BODIES OF 11 MINERS TAKEN FROM ILLINOIS COAL MINE

HARRISBURG, Ill., Aug. 31.—Bodies of 11 miners were recovered tonight from the Harco mine, following an explosion this afternoon. More than 400 men had been working, but had been warned and escaped when a dynamite charge broke down the wall of an old room, loosing black damp.

Seven men who escaped the explosion, but are suffering from the effect of black damp, were taken to a local hospital. It is believed they will recover. Volunteer rescue teams were organized by miners but their efforts were futile. The mine will be sealed tomorrow by state authorities.

The Eva, a small harbor boat, was observed blowing smoke rings from her funnel, as she was plying down the river opposite the customhouse yesterday afternoon. The rings, uniform in size, were noted by many observers along the water front, and the smoke circles retained their formation for time after the Eva had passed from beneath them.

FARM AFFAIRS TALKED BY MEN AND WOMEN

Co-operative Market Thoroughly Discussed at Farmers Convention

(By JULE B. WARREN)
RALEIGH, Aug. 31.—Co-operative marketing was given a big place on the program of the farmers and farm women's convention at the state college Tuesday. This new plan of marketing was presented to the convention from many different angles by speakers who have been actively engaged in the work of organizing these marketing associations and the impression made on the farmers and their women folk was very good.

The plan will bet the indorsement of the convention without much opposition, and probably no opposition at all. Co-operative living is the keynote of the success of the modern farmer, these speakers declare, and co-operative marketing associations and the indorsement of the convention will help to get better prices, but will cut out some of the profits between the producer and the consumer, and will naturally make the price to the consumer less.

All of the day, however, was not spent in consideration of the purely utilitarian side of farm life, and the women heard Mrs. Jane McKimmon, head of the home demonstration department, discuss ways and means of beautifying the home at a small cost. Mrs. McKimmon talked and gave demonstrations of what she was talking about. She showed pictures of the well decorated rooms, illustrations of the proper use of draperies and the repainting of old furniture. Miss Helen Louise Johnson, authority on household economics, who has made quite a hit at the convention, talked to the joint session Tuesday morning on "The Farmer and His Wife—Homemaking."

That was followed by a talk by Charles Gillette, well known landscape gardener, of Richmond, Va., on "How to Beautify the Home at Least Expense."

Mr. Gillette, of the University, on the relation of food to health. He said that a great many people, even if they knew the part the proper food played in better health, did not abide by their knowledge in the preparation of their food. We pay much more attention to the balanced ration for the farm animal than we do to properly balanced meals for the family.

The convention set back to the material side of farm life at the joint sessions in the afternoon, when livestock was up for consideration, demonstration of standard bred poultry, cattle and other animals, there was a demonstration of slaughtering and cutting animals. At 6 o'clock the area breeders' association held its barbecue at the fair grounds, and all farmers and their wives had supper there. No supper was served at the college dining hall, which has been furnishing the meals for the farmer folks.

The evening was given over entirely to fun. Following the concert by the First infantry regimental band, which has been playing on the campus every night, the remainder of the evening was turned over to the community service clubs of Raleigh, who staged community sings, community plays and other stunts. These were not only given for the entertainment of the delegates to this convention, but were also demonstrations of the things that can be done in the different communities to stir up community interest and spirit, and to bring the people together at community centers.

Consideration of the various matters that need concerted action.

TWO AIRMEN BURNED TO DEATH IN THEIR PLANE

Flames Break Out When Ma- chine Hits Tree

HAMPTON, Va., Aug. 31.—Cadet Aviators Adolph Forenchak, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Samuel C. Chapkowitz, Patterson, N. J., were killed when their airplane was wrecked near Indian Head, on the Rappahannock river about 4 o'clock this afternoon, according to advices received at Langley field.

The report said that a forced landing had been made and that in attempting to take off the machine struck a tree. Officers from Langley field have been sent to take charge of the bodies.

Officials at Langley field believe that the fire was started on the DH-4, in which the cadets were flying when the gas tank was punctured by wreckage in the crash. Flames broke from the tank and before the machine's occupants could extricate themselves, they were burned to death. Neither of the bodies were recognized.

The cadets were said to have been on their way to Washington to bring another machine back to Langley. An investigation of the accident has been ordered by the commanding officer at the field.
