Wetzler says

I see by the papers that the big nations have decided to scrap their scrappy navies—to save money—and to save trouble, too! Scraps are always expensive, especially when you find them in clothes. Garments made of "scrappy" woolsens (shoddy) can not give service.

Only the very finest imported and domestic woolsens are used in making our suits and overcoats—even the most inexpensive ones—that's why they are such truly phenomenal values!

Court of Honor and "Father of Scottish Rite Masonry in Wilmington," was laid to rest Friday afternoon in Oakdale cemetery. Despite his rank in Masonry it was his wish that no ostentatious accompany his obsequies and that wish was carried out.

Hundreds of Wilmington masons attended the funeral and went with the body to its last resting place. There was a sadness among his brothers and his host of friends in this city, throughout the day, and even the courts were adjourned in deference to the noble spirit that had passed into the great beyond.

Dr. W. H. Milton, rector of St. James Episcopal church, of which Mr. Munds had been a devoted member, pronounced the last and rites over the lifeless body, assisted in the service by the Rev. W. H. Wheeler.
