LARGE CROWDS ATTEND FIRST CHURCH REVIVAL

Thirteen Additions Have Already Been Made to Church; Services Tonight.

With 13 additions to the church and over half of the first week gone, the Wicker-Wolsigal revival meetings which are being held at the First Baptist church, continue to draw large crowds both afternoon and night. All departments of the church have been organized and are now doing personal work in the meetings.

Last night one of the largest crowds of the week was in attendance to hear Dr. John J. Wicker deliver his sermon on "A Midnight Revival," the conversion of the father." Preceding the sermon E. L. Wolsigal and his large chorus led the congregation in a spirited song service. Mr. Wolsigal also sang as a solo "He Knows the Way," which was greatly enjoyed.

Dr. Wicker took his text from Acts 16:30-31, reading, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." He said: "This was a wonderful night. It was a time of singing, preaching, earthquake, fear, threatened suicide, conversion and baptism. All between midnight and day.

"The question was that of an ignorant man, 'What must I do to be saved?' He was a heathen; he had never seen a Bible, nor a minister. Nor had he ever heard of Jesus Christ. He was rough, tough, cruel and untutored, and yet he had the sense that there was a question of fear, and he asked it in the first person." Dr. Wicker said the man "didn't discuss others; he was too busy with himself. He did not want any delay in his salvation on the spot. He did not consider his job, or disfavor of the politicians, but, as he stood in the old trembling Philip-plan jail, he wanted salvation, and Paul told him how to get it. Simply believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, Jesus saves from sin, from selfishness, from death eternal and hell. He saves to love, to service, to sacrifice. He saves for the glory of God, the glory of man and He saves eternally."

In the afternoon Dr. Wicker preached a most interesting sermon on "Converting People." He said that "this is our first business. Sociology undertakes to feed, clothe, educate, clean up, and then convert people. Theology undertakes to convert people by calling them to repentance and then they'll do their own cleaning up." The preacher declared that "the institutional church is a failure." "Get men saved and all other problems will be settled," he said. "A hungry man needs salvation before he needs soup, and if you get him saved, he'll get the soup for himself. Seek ye first the kingdom of God and all these things shall be added unto you."

"I have traveled all over Europe during the past summer and I tell you the people over there need salvation more than they need bread. Their souls are suffering more than their bodies. Ameliorating the sufferings caused by sin is a poor business for the church of God. It is like putting salve on a cancer when the surgeon's knife is needed.

"If some milk and water preachers, or silly sisters could have gotten to the prodigal in the far country and fed him up, and clothed him up, and financed him up, he never would have gone home. He would have left the hogs for further fields. When you feed people and clothe them it soon ends, but when you give them salvation, they will feed and clothe themselves and the salvation will never end."

Tonight Dr. Wicker will preach on "Pompeii, or Does God Save From Sin?"

COUNCIL ADJOURNS
CANNES, Jan. 12.—(By Associated Press.)—The allied supreme council adjourned indefinitely tonight after receipt of the news of the resignation of the Briand cabinet.

Adjournment was taken after Walter Rathenau, German financial expert, had finished addressing the council and no action or compromise was made upon his remarks concerning Germany's default at her January reparations payment.

The council, however, will hold an informal meeting tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock probably meeting for the last time. The members of the reparations commission will not be present now will the Germans be heard.

M. Laroche, assistant director of the political section of the foreign office, will represent France. He has received instructions from M. Briand to act as observer and not to take part in the discussion.

NEWBERRY IS DECLARED ENTITLED TO SEAT IN SENATE BY 46-41 VOTE

$195,000 as was fully reported or openly acknowledged by any of these were some few thousand dollars in excess, the amount expended was in either case too large, much larger than ought to have been expended.

"The expenditure of such excessive sums in his candidacy either with or without his knowledge and consent being contrary to sound public policy, harmful to the honor and dignity of the senate and dangerous to the perpetuity of a government, such excess expenditures are hereby severely condemned and disapproved."

Mr. Newberry's supporters definitely answered statements made during the closing hours of debate that he did not most approve of the resolution in its final form. His supporters had held that the condemnation of the use of excessive sums of money, appended to the original resolution, merely restricted the authority of the investigating committee to write in its report and what senator Newberry himself had said.

Democrats and Republicans opposed, however, contended that it placed the majority of the senate in a cloud and there were insistent demands that he be "voted out or in" on a clear cut issue.

The end of the Newberry controversy came at 9:28 p. m. and the vote of the battle which had been waged incessantly on the floor and under the surface for days, quit work until Monday.

The final vote was taken after a day of combative wrangling, recent months and after the Democrats and the nine Republicans had made strenuous but futile efforts to upset the program of the Newberry supporters. Three resolutions differing in phraseology, but each declaring the seat vacant, were voted down by exactly the same lineup which established Mr. Newberry's title to his seat. The outlier resolutions were those of Senators Walsh, of Montana, and Owen, of Oklahoma, Democrats, and Norris, of Nebraska, Republican.

With the disposition of the three resolutions, Senator Cummins of Iowa, president pro-tem, began to put the question which was to decide the controversy. He did not complete the sentence, however, before Senator LaFollette, Republican, Wisconsin, rose and addressed the chair. He had not hitherto taken part in the debate but in the rush that had settled down in anticipation of the final roll call, the Wisconsin senator loosed a barrage of denunciation of the stand his party colleagues were about to take.

He made a lengthy comparison of the Newberry case with that of the ousting of former Senator Lorimer, of Illinois and contended that the comparison was favorable to Mr. Lorimer.

"The question and the only question here," Mr. LaFollette declared dramatically, "is whether a seat in the United States senate can be bought for a quarter of a million or for half a million dollars."

Then, almost with the suddenness that he began, Mr. LaFollette sat down, saying as he did so that he had desired to speak longer but that he would yield to the one-hour speech limitation imposed on each senator by a unanimous consent agreement.

The last day fight brought a continuation of the conditions which had prevailed practically all week. The resolutions were begun made continuously by the leaders to report an agreement for a vote to get together and end the strain. Party whips were busy. They knew where every senator, if he were not in the chamber, could be reached at a moment's notice. There was no foretelling when a vote would come.

The first roll was accepted as decisive of the issue. It developed the position of several senators whose attitude had not been disclosed and there was a buzz of comment when these senators voted. It spread to the galleries and brought a rap of the gavel by the presiding officer who demanded order.

The change in the form of the majority resolution came just before the voting began. Senator Wilder, Republican, Ohio, offered, and Senator Spencer, Republican, Missouri, in charge of the Newberry forces, accepted the proposal for a severe condemnation of the case. It developed that a substitute for the original clause declaring that the charges against Mr. Newberry were unfounded. Democratic leaders contended that the change was made to secure a few more votes for Mr. Newberry.

MILLERAND CALLS ON RAYMOND POINCARE TO SELECT NEW MINISTRY

was one of the French delegates at the Washington conference said: "Under present circumstances, the life of a statesman in France is impossible. I fully approve M. Briand's attitude, but we shall do our best to help his successor in the work of restoring France. The country will not find us in the way with petty personal quarrels."

It is the custom, M. Millerand said, and the members of the cabinet to continue to conduct the business of the departments, until the new ministry is formed.

When the Associated Press correspondent called at M. Briand's modest apartment at six o'clock this evening, he was told by the maid: "The president (premier) sleeps; he is very tired."

Later in the evening, after resting, M. Briand met the newspaper men and told them that he was definitely out of power. Under present conditions he declined "to row in the republic's galleries."

"Anyways," he added, "it would be indecent to remain longer than a year in power. It is just a year since Leygues' cabinet fell. One can govern only with a solid majority. It is not enough to have one's speeches applauded."

M. Briand expressed regret that the parliament and the country had not appreciated the value of the achievements at Cannes.

CITY PLANNING BOARD CONSIDERS BUILDING PLANS

Contemplated plans of Hughes Brothers, automobile dealers, for the erection of a service station at 11th and Market streets were laid before the city planning board and city commissioners by representatives of the council at a conference held in the mayor's office yesterday afternoon, but no announcement was made as to whether or not permission will be given to erect the building.

It is the intention of the commission, however, it is understood, to keep that section of Market street exclusively for residences, as it is claimed commercial houses would detract from the beauty of the community.

J. L. Becton, chairman of the board with Roger Moore, Mearns Harris, B. Lynch and C. VanLeuven as members. All were present yesterday except Mr. Van Leuven, who is ill. Mayor and city commissioners were present.
