Why Our Move

Because of the continued growth of our Men's and Boys' Departments, we have decided to move them over to the first floor of our present wholesale building, 214 North Front street, and to make this floor an exclusive Men's and Boys' Shop, where we will feature good quality, medium priced garments of every character for men and boys.

Our Wholesale Department will be continued on the second and third floors of this building.

In our main store additional space will be given to Notions, Hosiery, Domestic and Shoes. A new department of Children's Shoes will be opened, where the kiddies will find every kind of shoes they need and a special service devoted to them.

The third floor of our main building will be devoted to House Furnishings: Carpets, Rugs, Draperies, etc., and this department will be enlarged and made complete.

We are making these changes, adding new departments because our business has grown until we are now congested and we believe the trade in Wilmington will continue to grow just as fast as the Wilmington merchants prepare for it.

This is our step towards Preparedness!

State Witness Hurls Bomb Into Camp of Prosecution; Dallas Trial Nearing End

Q. On the same side as Mr. Southwell and yourself? A. Yes, sir. Q. You say that was just after Mr. Southwell passed you? A. Yes, sir. Q. How far were they from Mr. Southwell, do you think? A. That would be hard for me to answer, probably 60 feet. Q. Were they standing in the middle of the concourse? A. No, sir; just to the inside of the gate. Q. How far from the gate? A. About five feet. Q. Was there an automobile, or anything of that kind in the concourse? A. Yes, sir. Q. Do you know whether Mr. Holloman was in the concourse at this time? A. About the time Mr. Southwell passed me, Mr. Holloman was standing in my office door. Q. Did you remember whether Mr. Dallas, or Mr. Fournelle left their positions first? A. They left practically together. Q. In the same direction? A. No, sir. Q. After Mr. Fournelle left Mr. Dallas, what did Mr. Dallas do? A. He turned and went back north to the concourse. Q. How far? A. About 25 feet. Q. What in the meantime was Mr. Southwell doing? A. Going south on the concourse.

Q. Did you see anything in Mr. Dallas' hand? A. Yes, sir. Q. What was it? A. A pistol. Q. The pistol that you see lying there? A. I can't say; one similar to that. Q. How close was Mr. Dallas to Mr. Southwell when you first saw that pistol? A. I would say from 10 to 15 feet. Q. On him, or did he not advance toward Mr. Southwell after you saw the pistol in his hand? A. Mr. Casler: I object, if your honor please. That is leading. The court: Just state what each one of them did as you saw it. A. Mr. Dallas, when I saw him with the pistol, went a little to the right of me, or to Mr. Southwell. Something was said, and Mr. Southwell rushed Mr. Dallas and grabbed him. Q. How much closer was Mr. Dallas to Mr. Southwell, if any, at the time Mr. Southwell rushed him, as you say, than he was at the time you first saw the gun in his hand? A. That would be hard for me to say, because they were both moving toward each other. Q. What did Mr. Southwell do with the grip he had in his hand? A. Dropped it. Q. Mr. Kelly, could you hear what was said between these men? A. No, sir. Q. What did you do, if anything, after you saw Mr. Dallas with the gun in his hand? A. I started toward them, and realizing that Mr. Dallas had a gun in his hand in my direction, I changed my course, and went back over to the east wall, in front of the machine as close as I could get, until I got up to just where they went together. Q. Why did you change your course? A. On account of that gun in Mr. Dallas' hand. Q. How were you moving, Mr. Kelly, at the time you started to them—were you walking? A. No, sir; I was going pretty fast. Q. You were on duty at that time, were you? A. Yes, sir; 24 hours to the day. Q. Why were you running up to where these men were? A. The court: He says he saw the pistol in Mr. Dallas' hand. Q. Mr. Clark: I just want to know what his purpose was. Mr. Casler: That is immaterial. The court: He can state why he went to them, or prevent any trouble that would arise. Mr. Casler: Move to strike it out. The court: Overruled. Exception. Q. Why, Mr. Kelly, did you not prevent these people? A. My objection, overruled, exception. Q. I didn't have time, sir. Q. How close were you to them when the gun fired? A. I was about 15 or 18 feet. I had gotten, practically, when the gun fired, to where they were standing when they went together. Q. Will you please state to his Honor and the jury in what position Mr. Dallas had this gun, if you know, at the time you first saw it in his hand? A. The first time I saw the gun in Mr. Dallas' hand, he was holding it about waist high. Q. Will you mind just standing up and showing us? A. That's a hard thing for me to do. The only thing I can say is he was holding the gun in his hand. Q. Just take the gun in your hand and illustrate it. A. That's a thing I couldn't say. I couldn't tell whether it was pointed (holding the gun in different directions) this way or that way or where it was pointed. "All I can say is Mr. Dallas had the gun in his hand, holding it about waist high. Q. About how far was Mr. Dallas from this iron gate at the time you observed the pistol in his hand as you have just described it? A. Why from 10 to 15 feet. I would say probably half the distance from the gate to where they went together. Q. How far was he from the iron gate the last time, if you saw the pistol, that is, in his hand prior to the shooting? A. Well, it was all practically at the same time, as after I saw the pistol, I explained just now, Mr. Dallas went a little to the right of Mr. Southwell which threw Mr. Southwell between me and Mr. Dallas. Q. Could you see the pistol at the time Mr. Southwell rushed upon Mr. Dallas? A. No, sir. Q. Now you say that Mr. Dallas went to the right, was that to the east or west of the concourse? A. That would be to the west, just a very little to the west; I would say a foot, or probably two feet, just enough to get Mr. Southwell between me and I. Q. I believe you say on account of the gun that you didn't go directly to them—which way did you go, to the east or the west? A. I went east. Q. Could you see the pistol at the time the shooting was actually done? A. No, sir. Q. Mr. Kelly, will you please give his honor and the jury the advantage of your best idea as to how much time elapsed between the time Mr. Southwell rushed at him and the time the gun fired, if any? A. Mr. Clark: I don't know that I can do it. It was done so quick. From the time they clinched, Mr. Southwell pushed Mr. Dallas and they went back (they went back in a southwestern direction about 15 feet where the gun was fired. Now it was all done pretty quickly. As to the length of time, I couldn't give it. Q. Did you see Mr. Holloman there when the shooting occurred or when the gun fired? A. Yes, sir, Mr. Holloman came up when I had taken hold of Mr. Dallas' arm and that gun. Holloman came up on the other side. Q. When Mr. Southwell moved toward Mr. Dallas, will you describe if you can how he was moving and tell just as nearly as you can what took place as you saw it from that moment? A. The time when they went together. Q. Yes, sir. A. Mr. Dallas, when he got in what-ever distance it was, 10 or 15 feet apart or a little closer, not closer than eight feet anyway—Mr. Southwell dropped his grip which he had in his left hand and rushed at Mr. Dallas, throwing his left arm across Mr. Dallas' shoulder and his right hand was between them. They went back while they were in the scuffle in a southwestward direction 15 feet to where the gun was fired. Do you want me to finish it on that? Q. Yes, sir. Witness: When the gun was fired I was in about 15 feet of them. Mr. Southwell turning Mr. Dallas loose, turning to me and said: "Kelly, I'm shot," passing by my office door, going down the alley which leads between the building my office is in and the express office, west. Mr. Dallas went some little distance, probably ten or 15 feet from where the shooting taken place, going in the same direction. I taken the gun away from him when I got hold of him. Dallas said to me, "Mr. Kelly, don't take my gun away from me. If you do, that man will kill me." Mr. Holloman came out on the other side, and I arrested Mr. Dallas and put him in the station master's office. When I got to the alley, Policeman Munn got there about that time, and I unlocked the office door and we got Mr. Southwell in there and sat him in the chair. I went out to call the ambulance but found it had been called and come back in there. He said: "Kelly, I've got to lie down." I had a folding cot there which we opened, someone helped me and we laid him on that cot until the ambulance came. Q. From the time they went together and from then on until the gun fired did you have a side view of them or a back view? A. Something of a back view. Q. Whose back was toward you? A. Mr. Southwell's. Q. Cross examination: By Mr. Casler. Q. Mr. Kelly, how long have you known Mr. Southwell? A. Why several years, I don't know just how long. Q. How tall a man was he? A. I would say Mr. Southwell was a man six feet tall. Q. How much would he weigh? A. I would say possibly 150 pounds.

Q. Was he a muscular man? A. Yes, sir. Q. Did he appear to be in vigorous health? A. Yes, sir. Q. How long had you known Mr. Dallas? A. Why two or three years, just how long I don't know, sir. Q. How much do you think he would weigh? A. I would say 150 or 155 something like that. Q. Was he apparently a strong muscular man? A. No, sir. Q. I will ask you if he didn't, at that time, have the appearance of being a delicate man? A. Why, yes, sir, he has always had that appearance since I have known him. Q. And when you saw them go together you immediately started toward them? A. Yes, sir. Q. Swerving a little to the east, or left, as you approached them? A. Yes, sir. Q. And you got to about the point where they first got together, when you got to that point the gun exploded? A. Yes, sir. Q. These men, Mr. Kelly, they must have been struggling with that gun, or between themselves, the time it took you to go 60 feet? A. That's true. Q. That's right? A. Yes, sir. Q. How far southwest of the place where they first got together were they when the gun exploded? A. Fifteen feet. Q. Did you observe them struggling that distance, while they went together and while the gun exploded as you approached? A. Yes, sir. Q. Now, I will ask you if during the time this struggle was going on Mr. Southwell didn't have his left arm around Mr. Dallas' neck and have Dallas bent over? A. Yes, sir. Mayor James H. Cowan was on the stand for a few minutes testifying to the application of Chance; Holloman or a place on the police force. This was an attempt of the part of the state to contradict the testimony of George Harris relative to Holloman's character. The affidavit signed by Harris, recommending Holloman was admitted.
