STATE MUST GIVE ILLITERATES AID

This Must Be Done, Says Brooks Or Adults Will Never Learn to Read.

RALEIGH, Feb. 2.—"The illiterate adult population of North Carolina will never learn to read and write, in my judgment, unless the state gives special aid. Making these schools a part of the public school system is not sufficient. This is a peculiar class that needs special attention. Not only the state and county officials but our churches, fraternal organizations and women's clubs should co-operate to eliminate illiteracy from this class of our population."

This statement is contained in the biennial report of Dr. E. C. Brooks, superintendent of public instruction, based on a study prepared by Miss Elizabeth Kelly, commissioner of adult illiterates.

"The census of 1920 shows that the native white illiteracy has decreased within the past ten years from 14 per cent to 8.2 per cent," it is stated, "and for both races from 18.5 per cent to 13.1 per cent. By far the larger part of the illiterates remaining today are of an education 20 years ago. The census of 1920 shows the illiteracy of children of school age between 10 and 21 years of age, inclusive, and we may see from these figures how effective the schools have been. In 1920, the illiteracy of white children between 10 and 21 years of age in 25 counties, was two per cent and less; in three counties it was less than one per cent; in 19 counties between four and 6 per cent; and in the other 22 counties between six and nine and one-half per cent."

The school system was reorganized in 1919-20—the term was lengthened, more teachers were employed and the compulsory attendance law was made effective—and the records show that practically 100 per cent of the children of compulsory school age were enrolled in school, it is stated. The illiteracy of the next generation, it is asserted, will practically disappear.

"During the scholastic year 1920-21," the report continues, "52 counties organized schools or classes for adult beginners and had regularly paid teachers."

teachers, the state paying one-half the expense and the counties the other half.

"Beginning with the scholastic year 1921-22, the schools for adults were made a part of the public school system and were financed as other schools of the counties were financed. Ouring the biennial period, special texts peculiarly suited to these schools have been prepared and published. Perhaps the most noticeable piece of work done in the state is to be found in Buncombe county. I have received letters from mothers, who heretofore had been illiterate in which they express appreciation for this work and a joy in the fact that they learned to write to their children."

"The need of a stricter enforcement of the compulsory attendance law is very apparent. For example, we found in one county 402 pupils from 14 to 16 years of age now attending school that had not completed the fourth grade. In other words, boys and girls of high school age have not been in school long enough to learn to read and write with ease and use numbers intelligently. Therefore, I believe that children under 16 years of age who have not completed the elementary course should be required to attend school until they have completed at least the seven grades of work as outlined in the elementary school.

"Our compulsory school law requires the attendance in school of children between the ages of seven and 14. But in our towns and cities and mill villages, continuation or part time schools can be provided with little additional expense, which would permit children between 14 and 16 years of age to attend school half a day, or follow the alternate week plan. This is being tried successfully in North Carolina and in most states of the Union," the report reads.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung troubles, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.

Unskilled Negro Labor is Moving Northward

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—A noticeable movement of unskilled negro labor from the south to northern industrial centers, which though neither widespread nor general, was regarded as unusual because of the negro's moral reluctance to move northward during the winter, was announced today by Secretary Davis, of the labor department, on the basis of a report by Phil H. Brown, commissioner of conciliation.

Payrolls at a number of northern and central western industrial points, it was said, are being slightly swelled by the employment of these workers and, while some cities reported no increase, and a few show small declines in the employment of this class of labor, continued migration appeared to be indicated.
