

TOIL AND PATIENCE ARE THE PRICE OF SUCCESS IN EGYPT

VALLEY OF THE KINGS, LUXOR, Egypt, March 24.—(By Associated Press.)—While the world has been following with unabated interest and curiosity the wonderful archaeological discoveries in the Valley of the Kings, little thought has been given to the years of toil, research and patience given by the archaeologists in these far-off lands in order that these wonders of a vanished civilization may be made available to present generations. It is perhaps little understood that the present unearthing of the tomb of King Tutankhamun, which Howard Carter, the British excavator, represents a continuation of 23 years of research and excavation. Carter began digging on the site of Thebes, the ancient capital of Egypt, when he was 18 and has ever since been rich enough to conduct his own excavations, but has invariably worked for others. Some of the most notable work was done under Theodore M. Davis, of Boston, who from 1897 to 1914 discovered six royal tombs and a wealth of rare and valuable antiquities. In more recent years Carter has been associated with Lord Carnarvon, who financed the excavating work of Tutankhamun's tomb. Carter has derived no pecuniary reward from his years of research. A friend has described him as "poor as a church mouse." American visitors at the newly-found tomb have remarked that the now famous excavator wears the same suit of clothes, the same hat and shoes, daily, Sunday, and throughout the year.

Aged German Magnate Never Shuns His Work

HAMBORN, Germany, March 24.—Unemployment may rule in the Ruhr, miners be idle and railroad men on strike, bricklayers working half time and jewelers not at all, but there is one man who works on forever. His name is August Thyssen, aged 81. Founder of the steel dynasty bearing his name. Promptly at the stroke of eight the venerable old man is at his desk. Eleven at night very often finds him still at work. This steel man is indeed a man of steel. Personally, twice a day, he visits one or the other of his large plants, either at Hamborn, Mulheim, Duisburg, Dinslaken or Fussesdorf. Tall and gaunt, walking with a brisk, springy step for one so advanced in years, stopping here and there to exchange a word with some of the veteran employes in his service, his progress through the works seems to assume the sacredness of a rite. Frugal and modest, this millionaire spends less for his personal upkeep than many of his yard bosses or section foremen. The correspondent met him the other day at the conclusion of his tour around the Hamborn works. "I don't know what I can tell you about the situation," he said in response to a query, "ask this man there, he is much more competent than I am," he said, pointing to one of his managers. "Have you ever met Clemenceau?" the correspondent asked, apropos of nothing except the extraordinary similarity of expression of the upper part of the face of both men. Thyssen is much taller than the "Tiger."

Women Can't be Equals Of Men Outside Home, Woman Preacher's View

CLEVELAND, March 24.—Women never will attain equality with men in politics, business or other interest outside the home. Yet the men of America treat their countrywomen more like equals than ever they have been treated before, more like equals than they are treated by the men of any other land. These are the conclusions of Miss Agnes Maude Royden, noted London preacher, a visitor in the United States. She reaches them in the light of long experience and active participation in women's affairs in her own country. "Your men's attitude toward women," she says, "is most civilized in the world. Women are treated here more as human beings, more like equals, than anywhere else. It's Only Social. "But that is socially. "Outside of social relationship, women can not be men's equals. "Take business, politics, religion, art. The women who equal men in these fields always must be in a minority because children have the first claim on women. Their vital forces always will go, as now, into the making, not of art and politics, but of men and women. This does not mean, Miss Royden adds, that women should refrain from any part in public affairs. In fact, she herself has been active in the English movement for wider recognition of representatives of her sex. As for the matter of a double standard for the sexes, she says: "The church stands for a double standard in teaching that women should be chaste and men brave; women submissive and men independent. "How, then, can religious leaders criticize the double standard outside the church? They can not, and their criticism is without authority so long as they themselves give a continual object lesson in their belief in women's supposed inferiority. In urging more freedom in the relationship between husband and wife, Miss Royden concluded: "Marriage is permanent and should remain so, but the old way in which married people used to be shut up in just one another was an awful mistake. "A woman, like her husband should have friends—men as well as women. Only one husband, but more friends! And she should have interests outside the home. It would make husband and wife appreciate each other more and help to keep them together. DOCTORS WILL TOUR ITALY. "This sincere letter," says Peterson, "gave me another happy day and as nearly every mail brings praise of Peterson's Ointment, is it any wonder that I keep cheerful all the time?"

PHILIPPINE YOUTHS DISPOSED TO GO EARLY TO THE ALTAR. MANILA, P. I., March 24.—The marriage laws of the Philippine islands face revision. A bill now before the house provides, among other things, that males may not marry before they are 14 and females before they are 12 years of age. Males under 20 and females under 18 must have the consent of their parents. The bill also would liberalize the divorce laws of the Philippines. Desertion by either party for a period of not less than six years would be a cause for divorce. $16,500,000 COST OF A MODERN BATTLESHIP. LONDON, March 24.—The cost of building a first-class battleship in 1914 was approximately $10,000,000, but today a similar ship today is about $3,000,000, or about $16,500,000, according to Commander Eyres-Monson, parliamentary secretary to the admiralty. Explaining this increase the expert says it must be borne in mind, however, that a modern capital ship embodies features found necessary in the light of war experience which involve a considerably greater tonnage, offensive and defensive armament, and consequently cost.

By day nothing disturbs the deep repose of the place except the sound of the pickaxes and shovels of the crowds of native boys and men employed in combing the earth for its still hidden archaeological treasures. By night the stillness of the valley of death is broken only by the hooting of owls and the cries of jackals and wildcats. In the midst of the silence and solitude one feels himself standing upon the brink of two worlds, with eyes gazing into a vista of the unknown. Sleeping in the heart of these mountains are Tutankhamun and his royal kinsfolk. Some of the tombs go down 150 feet and extend back a distance of three city blocks. The ancients believed these were the portals to heaven and everlasting life. American visitors to the charis of death get a fleeting sense of eternity and immortality as they enter the innermost recess of the tombs and look upon the wan and pallid features of a Pharaoh just as he was laid away 3,000 years ago. A modern electric light throws its rays upon the emaciated face and gives the beholder a thrill of awe and trepidation. Day after day, throughout the years, the silent, patient archaeologists pursue their patiently calling, finding here a broken statue of a sovereign, there the tomb of a high priest, here the shattered skeleton of a human, there the crumbled figure of a goddess, and everywhere small tokens of a civilization that gave the world its rudiments of culture, art and humanity.

Depressed Feeling. "I AM now using Cardui," said Mrs. Flara Daniels. "It was recommended to me for change of life. I have taken two bottles and am feeling so much stronger than I have in a long time. The depressed feeling is gone. I enjoy working my yard and garden and visiting. I am going to keep it up, for Cardui is helping me."

Mother and Daughter. "I USED Cardui for a weak, run-down condition," said Mrs. I. J. Williams. "I used to suffer quite a bit with pain in my left side, a great deal of soreness in this side. I suffered several years with this trouble. I heard of Cardui and it certainly did relieve me. I was strengthened and helped and felt much better after taking it. I cannot say enough for what it has done for me. I used it for my daughter for . . . trouble and she was much benefited. Cardui has been my stand-by and we take it, when we need a tonic, with good results."

Womanly Weakness. "I WAS A SUFFERER for some time with womanly weakness," said Mrs. L. F. Walker. "Each month my back and sides would ache, and I had pains in the lower part of my body. When in this condition I felt so cross and bad. I tried teas and going to bed, but the next month I had to go through with it all again. A lady friend told me of the Cardui and I sent for it. I took two bottles and it helped me. I did not have the pain at . . . I have taken it twice in the Spring, as a tonic. I think it is a splendid builder. After taking I would have a good appetite and feel more like doing my work."

Cramp & Pain. "I USED TO CRAMP . . . and have pain in my back and shoulders and I would have headache," said Mrs. Lonnie Sutton. "I would suffer so I did not feel like doing my work, and I felt like I would like to sit down to do my work. I didn't sleep well, turning and twisting. I would imagine I was worse than what I was, especially when I would cramp. My mother had used Cardui, so I sent for a bottle. It helped me right off. I felt so much better until I used it for a few months at . . . I did not cramp after this and I slept so much better at night. I would take an occasional dose of Black-Draught, and that with the Cardui, was of great benefit to me."

Pains in Sides. "I HAD the worst pains in my sides and bearing down on each side imaginable," said Mrs. A. L. Staggs. "I felt at times when I would step off of anything quick like there was a boil in my side. My hips were sore and when I would stand I suffered misery. I tried . . . anything any one told me. Ease was what I wanted. A friend told my husband of Cardui and I bless the day. I took a number of bottles. Now I ride, walk, and go and feel fine. The soreness disappeared from my sides. I . . . gradually got my strength back. I believe I owe my good health to Cardui. With the Cardui I took an occasional dose of Black-Draught. It is good to regulate the bowels and cleanse the system."
