PURPOSE OF KIWANIS LAUDED BY SPEAKERS AT ATLANTA MEETING

Work of Helping Child at Bar of Juvenile Court Shown Vividly

DELEGATES SPEND DAY SIGHTSEEING

At Night They Are Presented Tableaux of the Old South As It Was

ATLANTA, Ga., May 29.—Under the leadership of the crippled, the diseased, the child who "stands baffled and confused at the bar of the juvenile court," have found a staunch friend in Kiwanis International, that organization was told by Dr. Owen R. Lanyon, general secretary of the national child labor committee, in an address at the national convention here last night.

The speaker told the Kiwanians their work in the past year or since they have gathered upon the single approved activity of "service for under privileged children" has helped to make the work of the child labor committee easier.

Added from the general session of the association, at which reports were received from several standing committees and addresses made, the activities of the delegates today were centered in a series of tableaux.

Every phase of Kiwanis work was discussed in these smaller gatherings. A glimpse of Old South. Tonight the delegates and visitors were entertained with a glimpse of the old South in a series of tableaux, staged by the local committee under the name of "Plantation Days."

Help Children. It is the long, slow beating of the heart and the deadly circumstances which surround the life of the child who presents the most appalling picture to his well being, he said, adding that to the crippled, the diseased, the juvenile court product must be added all children who are denied the advantages of a real system of education.

"MUST REVIVE FLAME OF PATRIOTISM"—OWSLEY

ON this day, sacred to the memory of America's brave fighting men who lie buried in the cemeteries of Europe and America, the American Legion joins the great body of American citizenry in reverent thought at home and in the lands across the seas, legion men, the comrades in arms of those who sleep, are making pilgrimages to the burial places upon their graves the flowers of remembrance.

As we pause in reverence at the shrines of our dead, a feeling of our own unworthiness must make itself felt. Our comrades have made the highest sacrifice; they have given their lives to perpetuate the ideals of peace and good will. The cause for which they died has not prevailed. We who survived the fight have been unable to accomplish the holy tasks bequeathed to us by those who fell.

It has thrown the weight of its influence on the side of the right during the uncertain days following the return to America of our overseas fighters and has assisted in preserving the nation from the perils of those sinister forces which have brought disaster and ruin to the largest nation in the world and which today threaten many other lands.

IN FLANDERS FIELDS (By Lieut. Col. John McCrae)

In Flanders fields the poppies blow Between the crosses, row on row, That mark our place; and in the sky The larks, still bravely singing, fly, Scarce heard amidst the guns below. We are the dead. Short days ago We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow, Loved and were loved, and now we lie In Flanders fields. Take up our quarrel with the foe! To you from falling hands we throw The torch. Be yours to hold it high! If ye break faith with us who die, We shall not sleep, though poppies grow In Flanders fields.

GRAY AND BLUE JOIN HANDS IN HONORING LIANT HERO DEAD

Confederate Veteran of Virginia Made Member of Attleboro, Mass., G. A. R. Post

TO ENCOURAGE BOND BETWEEN SECTIONS

ATTLEBORO, Mass., May 29.—A gray cape with scarlet lining appeared among the blue uniforms at the headquarters of William A. Streeter post, Grand Army of Republic, tonight. The wearer was a veteran of the Confederate army, Captain Carter H. Bishop, of Petersburg, Va., who today with simply ceremony, made an associate member of the post.

Some months ago the suggestion was made that this city should make memorial day of especial significance this year by inviting a representative of the south to participate in the observance. Selection of a resident of Petersburg was decided upon because the siege of that city was conspicuous in the records of the Massachusetts regiments.

ARRESTED UNDER BENCH WARRANT

ASHEVILLE, May 29.—After being allowed to go free by a coroner's jury, following the shooting of Jake Rush, negro worker, on a highway project in Henderson county last Thursday, C. N. McMillan, member of the firm of Platt and McMillan, Florida contractors, was arrested yesterday on a bench warrant, returnable before Judge P. A. McElroy and was bound over to superior court on a charge of second degree murder and released under bond of $3,000.

LAY wreaths upon their resting place and let the words be said in memory and honor of the gallant soldier dead: For these are ceremonies which we owe ourselves to give For those who died in battle that our liberties might live To keep alive within our hearts the spirit that they knew We gather here about the graves to pay the dead their due!

Oh, the happy souls of them, these valiant lads and brave, Are not beneath the wreaths we lay upon each grassy grave: I like to think they're out somewhere, beyond our utmost ken, Not clay beneath a monument, but first-class fighting men Who gather in the army gray or in the khaki brown To march along the milky way as through a conquered town.

LIKE to think of these that died, as swinging through a street Somewhere up there in Paradise, with rhythmic tramping feet, With shrilling fifes and thudding drums to set the marching time For youthful brown-skinned veterans forever in their prime.

THINK they'll be like other souls up there among the blest Where earthly tribulations never break their peace and rest. But—say on Decoration Day—I fancy that they come Together at a bivouac, and all the heavens hum With soldier-talk and laughter, and the astral spaces ring With bugle calls these fighters knew, and songs they used to sing!

AY flowers on their sacred graves—but think of them as Men Who fock together 'mid the stars to meet their pals again, Who smoke and laugh and reminisce with faces all aglow; Lay flowers on their sacred graves, but think of them as though They still are lads or grizzled vets who in the night would creep Are swapping jokes and stories 'round a campfire in the skies.

POINCARÉ RECEIVES VOTE OF CONFIDENCE ON HIS RHUR POLICY

Chamber of Deputies, by Majority of 438, Grants Occupation Expense

This Action Thought to Be More an Effort to Shake Than Destroy Cabinet

PARIS, May 29.—(By Associated Press.)—Any doubts as to the solidity of Premier Poincaré's position were set at rest tonight when the chamber of deputies by a majority of 438, expressed confidence in him and his government and voted him the money needed to carry out his policy in the Ruhr.

Only the extreme left voted against the premier. His other critics did not even resort to the common practice of abstaining, but added their votes to the premier's triumphant majority. The chamber's vote on the appropriations of 35,000,000 francs for the expenses of the Ruhr occupation for the month of June was 505 to 67.

The debate took the appearance of an assault on the Poincaré cabinet. M. Tardieu severely criticized the government's methods and demanded of M. Poincaré whether he would change them, at the same time declaring to the chamber he would vote for the appropriations.

The premier showed plainly he interpreted this method of debate as an attempt to shake the cabinet without immediately overthrowing it. He called on M. Tardieu and his friends to vote as they talked and said he would not admit that orators could shake the confidence of the country in the cabinet.

This summons to the opposition to come out in the open put the chamber into a dilemma; many of the deputies showed by their applause they approved of M. Tardieu's words, yet were not ready to attempt the overthrow of the Poincaré ministry.

The premier declared flatly he would change nothing in the methods decided upon in common with the allies, that he would not call out another to reinforce the occupying troops, as demanded by M. Tardieu, asserting that any increase there would add to the expenses without adding to efficiency. He challenged the chamber to decide between the government and the government's critics.

CLARA PHILLIPS, IN COMPANY OF OFFICER, ARRIVES IN AMERICA

Hammer Murderess Rests in New Orleans Before Trip to California

NEW ORLEANS, May 29.—(By Associated Press.)—Clara Phillips, who escaped from jail in Los Angeles last December after her conviction for the murder of her husband, is expected to arrive in this country today from Honduras in the custody of California officers and tonight was resting in the Orleans parish house of detention preparatory to starting tomorrow on her long journey to the Pacific coast.

Instead she seemed to be in buoyant spirits and lost little time in telling newspaper men that she was returning home voluntarily to establish her innocence and that she was confident this end would be accomplished.

Mrs. Phillips was on the deck as the Malabar placed his personal car at the disposal of the California officers and prisoner. The prisoner talked freely with reporters, but was careful not to say anything that might tend to hamper her fight for freedom.

At the time of her escape she was in jail pending the outcome of an appeal after she had been sentenced to an indeterminate term of from 10 years to life imprisonment. Mrs. Meadows was beaten to death with a hammer and Mrs. Phillips was convicted largely upon the evidence of Miss Peggy Caffee.
