

MARSHALL SPEAKS AT LIONS MEETING

Urges Increase Of Recreational Facilities As Means Of Reducing Delinquency

Alan A. Marshall, juvenile court judge, urged an increase of recreational facilities as a means of reducing juvenile delinquency cases from homes that are substandard socially. The real problem is keeping them out of court rather than dealing with them after they are brought into court," he said.

Marshall said the disposition of cases was dependent upon the individual child, whose case history is investigated, and whose health, home life, associates, and environment are studied to determine which factors are responsible for juvenile delinquency tendencies.

Donald L. Sewell, president of the club, presided; The Rev. James T. Lawson, pastor of the First Christian church, was introduced as a new member; W. J. Wann was the guest of Lion Earl Sneed. David Sinclair was program chairman.

Marshall termed astounding and shocking the number of young men and women being in the local criminal courts. The majority of these young persons, he said, started on the path of crime in their early teens and their background is the problem of juvenile delinquency.

"From 85 to 90 per cent of our juvenile delinquency cases come from homes that are substandard socially. The real problem is keeping them out of court rather than dealing with them after they are brought into court," he said.

Roderick Is Cleared Of Reckless Driving Charge

A motion to dismiss was allowed in the trial of John W. Roderick, of 1500 Marsteller street, charged with reckless driving with personal property damages resulting, in recorder's court yesterday morning.

The trial of Don Housand and Donie Ward, charged with giving a worthless check after they allegedly attempted to give I. Miller, operator of a store on Fourth street, a check for $15 drawn on the Peoples Savings Bank and Trust company, was continued until February 26.

Appearance bonds were required as follows for each of the defendants: Housand, $300; and Ward, $100.

CALL FOR TRUCK PROGRAM ISSUED

Seitter Asks Farmers To Attend Gathering In New Bern February 26

An appeal to truck farmers of Eastern North Carolina to get together and draft a program to be presented for action in Washington this year was issued yesterday by A. G. Seitter, chairman of the truck and marketing committee of the Farmers' club, who stated that as a condition of the truck farmer has grown steadily worse under the AAA program.

The condition of the farmers, Seitter, said, "has been aggravated by the control of tobacco being voted on by tobacco farmers.

"Since it is apparent the tobacco farmers are planning to plant their retired acres in truck, we think it necessary and highly important" that the truck growers take action, he said.

Seitter issued an invitation to all growers of truck crops in eastern North Carolina to attend a meeting to be held in New Bern on Monday morning, February 26, at 10:30 o'clock, the place to be announced later. The county agents in that city will tell farmers upon their arrival where the gathering is being held.

"In order that we may get a greater share in the AAA funds and much needed protection and assistance we are presenting the following points for discussion:

"1. A raise for the truck payments from $1.50 to $10.00.

"2. The truck allotments for all farms in the state be put at zero and allotments to old growers based upon their 1937-38 plantings. This zero allotments to apply to all counties in the state whether they have formerly planted truck or not.

"3. We are asking that the Surplus Commodities Corporation, instead of buying only No. 1 products, buy No. 2 and lower grades in order that we might have our No. 1 products to sell to the discriminating trade so that by purchasing these surplus commodities they will not destroy the markets we already have but help to build a market.

"4. We also wish to discuss the position in the agricultural program of other commodities, namely, flowers, bulbs, and strawberries."

Retired Letter Carrier Spending Winter Here

Homer L. Coxhead, 75, retired letter carrier of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and a Spanish-American War veteran, is spending the winter months in Wilmington.

Coxhead, who decided to stop here and spend the winter while on route to Florida, retired after 25 years as a letter carrier in Poughkeepsie and served with the South Dakota volunteers during the Spanish-American War in Cuba and the Philippines.
