"ALLEGHENY UPRISING" IS FEATURED AT THE ROYAL

"Allegheny Uprising" has the rare quality of universal appeal if the film's initial showing yesterday at the Royal theatre revealed all the entertainment ingredients of the outdoor action film, the historical epic and the romantic drama.

Claire Trevor and John Wayne have the leading roles in this picture of Neil Swanson's best seller, "The First Rebel," and turn in performances that top their sensational work in the recent "Stagecoach." As a hardy frontiersman and an impulsive daughter of a colonist, they make an ideal romantic team.

The story concerns itself with the dramatic uprising of the Pennsylvania settlers against the British army approximately 15 years before the fateful Revolution of 1776. When indifferent army officials failed to heed the protests that crooked traders were supplying Indians with munitions, which in turn were being used in savage raids, the desperate frontiersmen openly revolted.

James Smith, portrayed by Wayne as elected leader of the "rebels." With his faithful followers, he tried to expose the illicit traffic of the traders, but the arrogant officer in charge of Fort Loudon ignored the charges. Through the treachery of Callendar, leader of the unprincipled traders, a warrant was issued for his arrest. From this point on the tattered frontiersmen were obliged to take up arms against the British garrison, a siege that showed the Mother country the resourcefulness and courage of the colonists which later broke the shackles of her rule.

"BALALAIKA" FEATURED AT CAROLINA THEATRE

"Balalaika," spectacular musical which opened at the Carolina yesterday, deserves the plaudits of reviewers and the patronage of the public on many points, but on two in particular. It offers Nelson Eddy the best screen vehicle of his career and it presents importantly for the first time Ilona Massey, a new and radiant singing star who, if this critic's judgment means anything, is here to stay for a long, long time.

A vigorous story of the Russia of the Czars before, during and after the revolution, "Balalaika" has color, action, drama, romance and comedy in abundance.

The supporting cast of "Balalaika" includes Charlie Ruggles, Frank Morgan, Lionel Atwill, C. Aubrey Smith, Joyce Compton, Walter Woolf King and Dalles Frantz, and all are excellent. Reinhold Schunzel directed the picture with a skilled hand.

"RED SALUTE" FEATURED ON THE BIJOU'S PROGRAM

If you're in the movie market for a smart-paced, sparkling comedy, chock full of the season's brightest dialogue and heartiest laughs, hie yourself down to the Bijou theatre today and see "Red Salute," starring Barbara Stanwyck, with Robert Young lending chief support, the latest offering of Edward Small and Harry M. Goetz, producers of Reliance pictures to whom we owe such varied and memorable cinema treats as "Palooka" and "The Count of Monte Cristo."

"Red Salute" gives Barbara her first opportunity to doff the familiar garments of tragedy as a pretty, modern co-ed, blessed with a quick tongue, a venturesome spirit and a rollicking sense of fun.

From the moment when this headstrong maiden, Drue Van Allen, is tricked by her United States Army general father into flying across the Mexican border to save her from harmful publicity arising from her association with a young campus agitator of a decidedly "pinkish" cast, the story moves swiftly from one thrilling and laugh-provoking adventure to another. In her efforts to get back into Uncle Sam's territory, she involves not only a wisecracking young buck private on furlough, in the person of Mr. Young, but a henpecked husband (Cliff Edwards) and his pursuing wife (Ruth Donnelly), the Border Patrol and even the federal authorities.

The program also includes a musical short with Vincent Lopez and orchestra and a color cartoon.

Rain And Snow Freeze On New York Highways

ALBANY, N. Y., March 4.—(AP)—Rain and melting snow which slopped over upstate New York today froze tonight, transforming highways into hazardous lanes of ice.

Intermittent snow and rain increased driving dangers. State police reported a minimum number of traffic accidents.

Horace S. Evans, technical adviser to the New York State Flood Control commission, said a flood was "possible" in southern New York around Binghamton, Elmira and Hornell "if the ice in the rivers goes out at the time of a heavy run-off." He emphasized this is only a "possibility."
