CHICAGO DEFEATS BOSTON, 2 TO 0

Larry French Hurls Two Hit Ball To Best Strincevich In Pitcher's Duel

BOSTON, May 15.—(AP)—Larry French's two-hit pitching gave the Chicago Cubs a 2-0 edge in a tight-lipped hurling duel with Rookie Nick Strincevich of the Boston Bees today before a slim crowd of 1,919.

Both hurlers were in fine fettle and up to the seventh inning each had limited the opposing batting lists to single scratch hits. French himself started the blowoff with two out in the eighth, when "Rabbit" Warstler, filling in at second base for "Bama" Rowell, messed up his easy roller.

French scored from first a minute later on Stan Hack's booming triple to deep center. Hack crossed the plate with Chicago's second run when Billy Herman singled. Jim Gleason followed with a single, but Hank Leiber ended the rally by striking out for the third time in a row.

Strincevich, who had limited the Cubs to six hits and struck out seven, gave way for a pinch hitter in the Bee half of the eighth, Dick Erickson finished up for him, but Bee batters could do nothing with French's delivery and ended by losing their fifth straight game.

Tar Babies Track Team Wins Over Duke Freshmen

CHAPEL HILL, May 15.—(AP)—North Carolina's freshman track team brought its season to a successful close by easily defeating Duke 59-13 to 45-23 here today.

It was the Tar Babies' third victory in four meets this spring. They nosed out Duke 64 to 62 in an earlier meet and also won the junior championship of the annual Carolinas A. A. U. meet. Their only defeat was at the hands of Navy ten days ago.

A'S AL RUBELING IS ARCHERY FAN

High-Priced Rookie Third-Baseman Shoots Bow, Arrow To Strengthen Arm

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—(AP)—In all the hullabaloo over Connie Mack's signing of Benny McCoy, the free agent second baseman, another high priced infielder slipped into the Athletics' fold almost unnoticed.

Mack outbid a flock of other clubs, contracted McCoy for $45,000 and got reams of publicity for his A's. But no one dug out black headlines when Al Rubeling joined the Southern association and cost $35,000, a pretty penny for Connie. Only two or three of the rookies brought up last Spring cost more than the A's young third baseman. Connie thinks he is a great prospect.

Al is happy to be with Philadelphia because as a youngster he idolized Joe Boley, A's shortstop during the championship years of 1929-30-31.

Rubeling had a comparatively weak throwing arm while in the minors and adopted a unique method of strengthening it. He took up archery.

"I'm no William Tell," he says and grins. "My best score was 589 out of a perfect 810."

He thinks he can handle the bow and arrow well enough now to hunt with them.

"I've been told that arrows are more effective than shotguns in getting deer," he says.

Al shoots around 80 in golf, bowls and plays billiards. His hobby is collecting pipes. He has nearly two dozen.

Al is a bachelor but he is "thinking of getting married in the fall."

ALMADA OPTIONED
SAN DIEGO, Calif., May 15.—(AP)—The Sacramento Solons reported today that Mel Almada, veteran major league outfielder, had been obtained on option from the Rochester club of the International league.

Almada was sent to Rochester by the Brooklyn Dodgers this year.

HUBBELL PITCHES NEW YORK TO WIN

Veteran Hurler Gives Up Eight Hits In Giants 5-2 Win Over Pirates

NEW YORK, May 15.—(AP)—The New York Giants gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 5 to 2 thumping today with 36-year-old Carl Hubbell going the route on eight hits for his second victory of the season.

The only runs he gave up were homers by Les Handley in the first and by Bob Elliott in the fourth. Joe Moore started the Giants to win their goal with a two-run circuit blow in the third and they went on to get a run in the fifth and two more in the seventh.

In the fifth Frank DeMaree beat out a bunt and stole second, raced to third when Arky Vaughan fumbled a grounder and scored on a single by Babe Young.

Mace Brown, who was charged with the defeat, was removed for a pinchhitter in the sixth and the other runs were off Duck Lananah on a walk, a bunt, a double by Harry Danning and an infield out.

Jenkins Moves From Spectator Seat To Ring In Ten Months

DALLAS, Tex., May 15.—(AP)—The leathery Texas cowhand, riveted to his rim row seat by the elbows of his companions, squinted through smoke at the white man and the black man that sweltering New York night last August.

Down below, miles away the cowhand swears, Lou Ambers and Henry Armstrong were slugging.

The cowhand was a newcomer in New York. The $1 he paid for that birds-eye seat represented considerable capital stock.

Ten months later the cowhand had moved from the rim to the ring. Lew Jenkins, the gaunt ex-cavalryman, cowhand and carnival fighter, cut Ambers to shreds to win the generally recognized world lightweight title.

Today Jenkins came back home. The fight mob crowded around him at the train. He grinned, shook hands all around and protested rather feebly that he "wasn't a good fighter."

Galento Wants To Bet On Tony

There's nothing modest about Tony Galento, the roly-poly fighter, who will referee tonight's wrestling program at Legion stadium. He is shown above offering to bet that the next time he faces Joe Louis in the ring he will emerge as the new heavyweight champion.

Galento To Appear Here Tonight As Mat Referee

Colorful Fighter To Arrive In City This Morning; Tour Part Of Training

Tony Galento, the most colorful character to dot the fistic horizon in many years, brings his antics to the wrestling ring at Legion stadium tonight when he will referee the Scotty Dawkins mat program.

He will arrive in the city early this morning. The Beer Barrel Piker says his refereeing tour through the south is his way of training for his fight with Max Baer in Jersey City on July 2. Out of this fistic melee is expected to come the next challenger for the heavyweight crown held by Joe Louis.

Although Galento will be the main attraction on the program tonight, there are two corking wrestling headliners also on the book. The headliner will pit the clowning Chief Chewchki against handsome young Tom Mahoney. Paul Lopez, the Spaniard, will meet BlackJack Hager in the semi-finals.

Chewchki once did a turn in the boxing ring and has to his credit a knockout over Max Schmeling when the German heavyweight was making his debut in this country. Last week the Gypsy grappler riddled Ginger the bear and although he won he came out of the tussle minus two front teeth.

Lopez appeared here for the first time last week. Hader and Mahoney have exhibited their wares on the local mat before.

But with Tony Galento on the program, Dawkins is expecting a sell-out house. The roly-poly bar-keep-fighter has about as many followers in Wilmington as in any other city of like size. He is a natural so far as getting into the public gaze is concerned and at no time is he at a loss for a statement.

Galento will likely get a chance to use that murderous left of his a time or two tonight. And that left hand of his along with his stout heart is about the best in the business.

Doors to the exhibit building at the stadium will open at 7 o'clock and the first bout will get under way at 8:30 o'clock.

"Only time I ever saw Armstrong fight in my life was from that last row seat last August," he says. "I had a buck seat that night; couldn't see him very well.

"I'm gonna be ready for Armstrong, though. I've seen him in the gym a couple of times. He can be hit."

All Jenkins wants is that opportunity. He owns the two most dangerous hands the lightweight ranks have known since Joe Gans. He was the first man to knock out Ambers.

Quaint Hymie Caplin, Jenkins' New York manager, pared the champion's conversation to a minimum with his own version of Jenkins' greatness. He said: "Most improved fighter in the business.

"Armstrong? Just a little tougher than Ambers. Harder to hit, I'd say. But Lewie can hit anything that walks. And Armstrong's normal; he walks."

"That team is selected strictly for hitting ability," he said. "On a defense standpoint I'd take Luke Appling, Chicago White Sox, or Arky Vaughan, Pittsburgh, over Cronin, and Joe Gordon, Yanks, or Bob Doerr of our club over Gehring. But when the chips are down I'll take Cronin and Gehring at the plate."

Foxx again modestly sidestepped when he named Mize, Williams, Joe DiMaggio and Charley Keller (Yankees) as the four greatest natural hitters now in baseball. Exclusive of pitchers, the collective lifetime major league hitting average of his mythical team is .323 plus.

At 32, Jimmy is in his 17th season in organized baseball, his first having been spent with Easton of the Eastern Shore league. Now hitting an even .300, his lifetime major league plate mark is .337 and his World series average .344. Those are but a few of his many remarkable accomplishments, but by now you are probably ready to insist that Jimmy join his own team.

If he does, Jimmy knows the problem of figuring out who to bench is going to produce a terrific mythical headache for his club's mythical manager.

IN THINKING

THREE RIVERS, Mich. (AP)—The City club of Three Rivers wants the local fire whistle to sound twice—once when the fire starts and then later on when it's out. Too many citizens, they claim, do a lot of needless worrying after the initial alarm.

"They always used to toot the whistle at least once—and sometimes they'd give it a couple of tingshouts—to show the blaze was extinguished, and there was no need for worry," explained L. S. Dooley, a merchant.

"Now you go about for hours after the alarm is sounded, fearing that the town may be burning down."
