USE FRUIT BREADS TO SET OFF YOUR SUMMER DESSERTS

BY MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer
Of course you like to bake your own fruit breads. But in hot weather it's easier to open a can and turn out orange or prune bread when you want it. Yes, these breads now come in cans. The types are: orange, date and nut, prune, and Boston bown.

These fruit breads served with fruit make perfect summer desserts. They are excellent for salad luncheons, too. Spread with creamy cottage cheese they make nourishing treats for children.

BRADLEY CREEK CLUB HEARS DR. MEBANE

Dr. W. C. Mebane, Jr., was the guest speaker of the Bradley Creek Service club at its last meeting, held at the home of Miss Rosa Lee Brown.

Dr. Mebane addressed the members of the club as future wives and mothers.

The first point brought out by Dr. Mebane was the importance of sanitation in the home. He said it is the duty of the wife to keep the home clean at all times, as germs breed very rapidly. He then made a distinction between the family doctor and the specialist, as many people often confuse them.

Dr. Mebane stated that the best book of guidance for anyone, especially those who are raising families, to use is the Bible. He pointed out the fact that in the New Testament Jesus, the master physician, teaches us to displace fear with faith, and hate with love.

In conclusion Dr. Mebane emphasized that the happiest and healthiest homes are the Christian homes.

After the business meeting, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. Those attending were: Misses Gracie Lee Bennett, Beverly Ballard, Anne Elizabeth Bowden, Nell Sellers, Bert the Smith, Maybelle Jackson, Rosa Lee Brown, Mrs. J. O. Bowden, Mrs. W. R. Brown, and Dr. Mebane.

Common Courtesy --About Radio Playing

Listening to the radio is fun for you. But do you ever think about how it sounds to the neighbors, especially when you turn it on loud so you can hear it while you're getting breakfast?

There may be someone next door whose job keeps him working part of the night. An extra half-hour sleep in the morning is impossible for him if your radio is screaming. Some of us get used to a loud radio and don't realize the din it creates next door.

There's a comparatively new thump-like a magnified echo—that comes from the powerful radio or phonograph. It's a matter of thoughtless adjustment of the tone. That thumping penetrates walls and is often enough to spoil conversation and concentration as well as sleep.

Maybe there are others guilty of another careless habit, but it's father who is getting a lot of blame for annoying his own family. He sits by the radio to read his paper or book and lets the radio go on, never trying to regulate the tone or decrease the volume.

Since the radio is no longer a baby invention, the noise it makes isn't a mechanical responsibility. It makes a din, the blame rests on the person who controls the dial; that's the person who should adopt a good neighbor policy.

Love Laughs At Earnest Counselors ---Which Is Probably A Good Idea

BY RUTH MILETT
Middle-aged people are forever warning young people, particularly young girls, to listen to their heads instead of their hearts.

Such a warning recently was handed out to girl graduates of a Brooklyn high school by Supreme Court Justice Thomas J. Cuff. "The ceremony takes a longer to marry a man with a job and a future than it does to marry one not so equipped," said the Supreme Court Justice to the no doubt romantic-minded young girls.

That is always sane-sounding advice, from the point of view of the person giving it, whether that person is a loving parent or an impersonal counselor-of-the young.

But it fails to take into account the fact that young people have always put love above common sense—and probably always will. And perhaps the young are following the right hunch after all, even though their choice of a mate often doesn't make sense to older people.

The girl who loves a young man enough to marry him even though his future doesn't seem destined to unfold as a Horatio Alger story, probably won't find any hardship too great a strain on her love, the Joneses.

The couple who marry because they love each other and for no other reason are more likely to have a good and happy life together than the couple where either the husband or wife deliberately made a "good marriage."

In a world as uncertain as the world of today, it is probably safer for a girl to invest in love than in any young man's bright future.

Not all the debts are being criticized, by any means. Among those who are extolled are these: Joan Achelis (left), Adele Hagerty and Patricia Suydam.

little wash dresses of cotton with out hat or gloves and with their long bobs flying in Fifth Avenue's breezes. Aunt Sylvia complains that the dresses seem to have been chosen without much thought for color and less regard to fit and their mothers say their hair looks as though "it had not been near a beauty parlor in weeks."

At night the debts run into some of the most exclusive country clubs to dance, wearing those same little cotton frocks and low-heeled sandals without stockings. Their papers are pretty bitter about the whole thing because many of the debts have allowances bigger than their beaux' salaries and father would like to know where the money goes.

Nor is that all. The parents of lots of the glamor girls complain that they don't see enough daylight and take almost no exercise. "They play all night," says one, "then they get up just in time for lunch, go out for shopping or bridge, dash somewhere for cocktails and rush home just in time to dress for the evening — if they dress. Such things as tennis and swimming seem to be out of the picture completely."

To the complaints of their aunts and parents, the major domos of New York night clubs add a few words. Says one, who has seen a good many debutantes come and go:

"All the debts seem to fall into two classes. Either they are just plain dowdy as a shop girl wouldn't dare to be. Or else they dress in too worldly a way, wear too much make-up and lipstick so dark and thick their lips look almost black in a night club's light. It's one thing for a famous actress of 30 or more to come hotsy-totsy in here in a low-cut sequins dress, but it's quite another, when

During the first two years he owns an automobile, the average owner spends about 48.8 cents of his service dollar for lubrication.

Stevens, of Wilmington, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jones here this week. — W. M. Brown and Miss Mozelle Cox, of Salisbury, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cox here. — Mr. and Mrs. Tom Simmons and Mrs. Thad Jones attended the Cotton-Davis wedding in Wilmington last Saturday. — Miss Adelaide Simmons, of Rocky Mount, spent the past week-end here with her mother, Mrs. Blanche Simmons. — Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Littlefield and daughter, Dorothy, of Fairmont are spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Holleman, here.

Miss Beatrice Mann of Whiteville, is a visitor of Mrs. Fannie Margolis for several days. — Mr. and Mrs. Ed Seidel and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Frischkorn, of Altoona, Pa., are guests of Dr. and Mrs. G. E. Gurganus at Montford Point. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lewis are in New York attending the World's Fair with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ferguson. — Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Weeks and daughters, Eleanor and Sarah, of Maysville, are at Hurlst beach for the week.

MISS MINNIE B. THOMPSON and Mrs. Mary Lily Blake spent Wednesday in Kinston. — Mrs. E. J. Dietrich and daughter, Sally Shepard, of Baltimore, are visiting Mrs. Dietrich's father, I. E. Ketchum. Miss Ann Ketchum of Annapolis, Md., is also visiting her grandfather. — Mr. and Mrs. George Wycle, of Charlotte, are visiting Mrs. Wycle's mother, Mrs. M. M. Murrill, at Onslow beach. — Mrs. Timmons Jones is visiting at her former home at Hobgood.

Mr. and Mrs. Norris Reed and Robert Murrill, of Washington, are here for several days. — Mrs. Walker Bellamy, of Wilmington, is spending sometime at Onslow beach. — Mr. and Mrs. Royce Baldwin went to Charlotte last week to attend the wedding of Mr. Baldwin's sister, Miss Eunice Baldwin. — Mrs. Mamie Frank Hayward, of New York, is here with her sister, Mrs. Leah Franks.

Park Avenue Is Wondering What's Come Over The Debs

BY ADELAIDE KERR
AP Feature Service Writer
NEW YORK, July 4.—Park Avenue papas and mammas would like to spank some of their debutante daughters.

Cousins, uncles and aunts, too, of some of the debts are worked up over their manners. Either they are gawky and meek as mice, or else they are inclined to talk too much and comb their hair into other people's soup.

"It's a strange thing, but the debts from out of town—from Houston and San Francisco and Chicago—who come here for parties, are generally better dressed and better mannered than those in New York.

What's the cause of it all? Nobody seems to know. Many Park avenue parents seem to feel that it's part of a smart-to-be-casual trend, which the debts took up and are afraid to drop lest they be considered "high-hat." Some say "Youth," others say "War" and "Changing times." The rest just worry and shrug.

But the picture isn't all black. In every chorus of complaints some voices are sure to rise in solos of approval of girls who are exceptions. Among the 1939 debutantes who get their applause as "beautifully dressed and well mannered" are Joan Achelis, Patricia Suydam, Adele Hagerty, Dorothy Stafford and Joan Morgan. There are a lot more.

And one of this summer's debutantes — Pamela Tower — drew a lot of applause when she asked her grandmother, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, to cancel the glittering coming-out party which had been planned for her on the Whitney Long Island estate because she couldn't bear the thought of thousands of dollars spent on froth and fun, while millions suffered in Europe because of the war.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(AP)—The civil service commission disclosed today that mechanics and other skilled workers up to 55 years of age were being given jobs to speed the national defense effort. The age limit on employees for arsenals, navy yards and other defense agencies was lifted from 48 years.
