

SMOKE RINGS Boxing Needs Remedy

By SAM RAGAN

The fight business has always had its ups and downs (and we're not punning, either) but to all appearances it's now down and without any remedy in sight to bring it back on its feet.

Some of the boxing experts say that it's not because of Louis and the opponents he's been fighting, but because the heavyweight champion is too good. That hardly states the case, we think, for there's been good fighters before—better than Louis—and the sport still stayed healthy.

Jacobs To Blame

If blame is to be laid to any one person's door, it should probably be that of Promoter Mike Jacobs, who has all the fighters in the business in a bothneck, and it's mainly because of this fight monopoly by the New York promoter that no better battles than the one staged by Louis and McCoy Monday night are on the program.

It has been suggested time after time that the boxing business be supervised by a commissioner, just as baseball is supervised by Commissioner Landis. This certainly would help. And if the persons connected with boxing won't do it, then congress should enact a law to put a commissioner in power.

If you don't think something's needed just listen in to some of the fights that will be broadcast in the next few months. You'll smell 'em even through the loud speaker.

Nova Talks

While we're talking about the boxing business, let's offer you the talk of several hundred words long that Lou Nova is putting into print in the Collier's magazine of Dec. 20.

Nova says he's ready to take over the heavyweight championship from Louis. He says he's right now and he can do the job.

"I will never fight Louis twice, let alone three times, because the first time will be last. After that Joe will permanently retire," Nova says. That's right smart talking, fellow.

AGGIES TO MEET IRISH OFFENSIVE
Norton Sends Boys Through Drill Against Fordham's 'Notre Dame' Staff

BY FELIX R. MCKNIGHT
COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Dec. 19.—(P)—Seven sturdy Texans, known hither and yon as the stingiest line in college football, worked in the rain and chill today on a problem that is theirs to solve, come New Year's day.

For two years now, the Texas Aggies have rated as the nation's top defensive team. The big test comes Jan. 1, against Fordham university in the Dallas Cotton bowl game.

Once more the Aggies will encounter a solid Notre Dame offense somewhat of a rarity in an Aggie line man's life.

Coach Homer Norton reviewed past experiences against Irish offensives in a talk with his boys today. Norton didn't stress the point with his players, but a little research and prodding from the mentor revealed that the Aggies' success against Notre Dame stuff has touched on brilliance.

Last season the Cadets walloped Villanova, 33-7, and took in Santa Clara 7-0. This season they encountered the dancing Irish shifts twice and came out 41-6 victors over Tulsa and 26-0 winners over stout little Texas A. and I.

"We've met the Notre Dame offense, but not often," said Norton. "We'll just have to adjust ourselves to something we know little about."

The great senior line that last season established a new all-time record for college football by holding ten opponents to a net gain of 67 yards per game by rushing and passing, and again ranked as the top defensive team against rushing this season with a stunning "hold 'em Yale" average of 44.3 yards, went out in the rain to work against Fordham—our Notre Dame—plays worked by reserves.

Coach Norton, just out of bed after an attack of influenza, didn't venture out into the dampness. He peered through a window at the practice field and mused: "It will take us at our best to win this one. We must reach top form in every way during the next few days. We are going to let the boys go home for Christmas for three days and that leaves little time to get them in shape. There will be no scrimmages after their return from the holidays."

"We are handicapped by lack of scout information on Fordham, but we're working at what we think they'll spring on us. I'd say our boys are looking very good at the moment. Look at the zip in that workout."

'CATS' CAGERS WIN FIRST TITLE

Varsity Defeats Clinton, 46-31

Junior Quint Wins Over Clinton 'B' Team, 28-22 In Twin Bill At Armory

New Hanover High school's cage teams opened their 1941 season at the Cape Fear Armory last night with a double victory over the Clinton High school quints, the local varsity winning 46-31 and the junior club coming out on the long end of a 28-22 score.

Substitutes were plentiful in both games for the Wildcats. Cliff Owensby with 12 points and Johnny Oliphant with 8 markers were the offensive leaders in the varsity affair.

The first quarter was a see-saw affair, with Clinton holding a 11-10 advantage at the first rest period. However, the 'Cats put on the steam in the second stanza and were leading 24-14 at the half. They increased their lead to 38-22 at the end of the third quarter and were never in danger of being overtaken.

Jones with 12 points and Turlington with eight led the Clinton scorers. The Wildcat Juniors got off with a flurry that saw them out front 8-3 at the end of the first heat. They held an 18-5 advantage at halftime. The third quarter saw the locals fall to notch a point and the visitors were still short, 18-12 at the end of the third quarter.

Dick Dunlea with 16 points set the pace for the Kittens, with Auld trailing with six points. Price and Smith with seven markers each led the visitors.

Shaughnessy Named Grid Coach Of Year

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(P)—Clark D. Shaughnessy, who guided Stanford's football team to an undefeated season and into the Rose Bowl, was named the coach of the year tonight by the New York World-Telegram.

Shaughnessy's success in his first year as coach of the Indians after they had finished in the Pacific coast conference cellar in 1939, earned him 253 first-place votes out of the 365 cast by head coaches of college football teams. In point scoring on a 5-1 basis, his total of 1,423 led other coaches far behind.

Bernie Bierman of Minnesota's Big Ten champions was second with 33 votes for first place and a total of 366. Frank Leahy of Boston college was third, polling 18 first-place votes and a total of 238. Other coaches who received more than 100 votes were Fritz Crisler, Michigan, with 162; Homer Norton, Texas Aggies, with 130 and Carl Snavely, Cornell, with 109.

ZIVIC, JENKINS BATTLE TONIGHT

Welterweight Champ Rates 5 To 8 Favorite Over Sweetwater Slugger

BY SID FEDER
NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(P)—By any way you add it up, including algebra and the finger-counting system, Fritzie Zivic figures to take good care of Lew Jenkins in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night—except that one of Lew's punches might connect.

Fritzie is welterweight champion of the world, and, as such, will have a ten-pound weight pull over the lightweight boss from Texas when they go to work at 10 p. m. (E.S.T.) in their ten-round non-title tussle.

Fritz recently dethroned Henry Armstrong as head man among the 147-pounders, not long after "The Hammer" had stopped Texas Lew.

And Fritzie has so much more experience than the Sweetwater swatter, he probably already has forgotten more tricks about bashing beaks than Jenkins has learned to now.

Yet, the fact the Texan has a kick in either hand like the army mules he used to shoe down in the Panhandle has the betting men and the fistie faithful all in a stew about it. The gambling fraternity, although forced to install Zivic as the choice, are taking no chances and have him at a 5 to 8 price only.

The faithful are responding to this most-talked-of punch party of the year so vigorously that Promoter Mike Jacobs expects the Garden gate will break all records for a sock show so close to Christmas. Ordinarily, the ushers and the hot-dog hawkers are mighty lonesome in the Garden for a fight within a week of the holiday. This time, however, "Uncle Mike" looks for upward of 15,000 customers with a gate ringing the $50,000 bell.

Despite all signs pointing toward the Pittsburgher, this corner likes Jenkins. Even some of Fritzie's best friends tell you the youngest of the five flying Zivics has made some poor showings during his career, and just about every time he has "looked bad" it has been against a puncher. Such being the case, this corner strings along with the skinny socker to flatten Fritzie in about four rounds, because no one along Bash Boulevard denies he can put a fellow to sleep about as fast as ether, and just as convincingly. He did it a few weeks ago, when he stiffened Pete Lello with about three of his Sunday punches.

Bees President To Be Honored For Finest Contribution To Diamond Game

By GAYLE TABOT
NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(P)—Bob Quinn, 70-year-old president of the Boston Bees and one of the beloved patriarchs of baseball, will be honored this winter by the New York baseball writers with their 11th annual award for the person making the finest contribution to the sport over a long period of years.

The award, announced today, will be made to the white-haired, crickety veteran at the annual dinner of the chapter on Feb. 2.

Quinn's contribution to baseball has been a merry as well as a valuable one since he began his career managing the Columbus club at the turn of the century.

"Baseball's really a goofy business, but I like it," he once was quoted as saying. "It's been keeping me young for years."

Quinn was at Columbus for 17 years before the late Phil Ball brought him into the big leagues as vice president and general manager of the St. Louis Browns. Once during his long, stormy stretch in that job, Ball complained to a friend: "That Irishman has never agreed with me on anything yet."

When Ball offered Quinn the job, he wrote: "I'm holding it myself at present, and it seems to be mainly bunk and bluff." To which Quinn replied starchyly: "In my long baseball experience I've never had a job of bunk and bluff. I claim no qualification for such a job. I'm not the man you want." Ball composed another letter.

Quinn's jump from St. Louis was a disastrous one. He purchased the Boston Red Sox, and by the time the club was sold to Tom Yawkey in 1922 Quinn was cleaned out. During the losing financial struggle he walked to a bank and borrowed $350,000 "on his face."

But "Old Bob" was far from beaten. After a year with Reading in the minors, he came back as business manager at Brooklyn. In 1936, when the Boston Braves' franchise was tossed into the National league's unwilling lap, Quinn was the magnates' first and last choice to take command.

To the comment that he was a glutton for punishment in taking over his present outfit, Quinn replied: "I've never had a club handed to me yet that wasn't shot."

If he hasn't won a flag with the Bees, Quinn has at least come up with some interesting teams. The first thing he did was hire the colorful Casey Stengel as manager.

Army Coach Transferred To Duty At Fort Bliss

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 19.—(P)—Capt. William H. Wood, head football coach at the Army for the last three years, today was ordered by the War department to duty at Ft. Bliss, Texas.

Lieut. Col. Louis E. Hibbs, graduate manager of athletics who made the announcement, said the poor showing of the Army team last fall had no bearing on the transfer. The cadets beat only Williams and tied Harvard while losing to Cornell, Lafayette, Notre Dame, Brown, Penn, Princeton and Navy for their poorest season in 51 years of football.

Last year the Cadets won three, lost four and tied two while in 1938, the first year under Capt. Wood's direction, they won eight and lost only two.

LIFE WILL TAKE ORTON PICTURES

The plantation, H. Churchill Bragaw, manager of the Orton plantation, was advised yesterday by Judith T. Chase, of the editorial staff of Life.

For the past two years the plantation owners have held a Christmas party for the people working or residing there. This year plans call for an all-day affair on Tuesday, lasting far into the night.

Bragaw said plans included the importing of a famous old negro preacher for a sermon during the morning's program, followed by a dinner, and a galaxy of old time rural sporting events during the afternoon.

The party will be topped off at night, Bragaw said, with a moon hunt, in which a whole cornfield full of negroes will take part. There will be only a few invitations extended to persons outside of Orton, he said, since it will be quite a job looking after the large number there.

palace at which Kallio had appeared animated and happy at the prospect of quiet farm life.

It seemed that at least half of Helsinki's population of 330,000 stood on the streets to cheer the little caravan as Kallio rode to the station. Some held flaming torches; the bands played the Pori March, the Finnish National song, and that melody resounded in the railway station as Kallio died.

He had stood with a quiet firmness through all the crises that beset his land, and he suffered his first serious attack last August. Some months later, he returned to work but on Nov. 29 he resigned after it became clear that his health was permanently impaired.

Fyrl, who became prime minister on Dec. 1, 1939, was chosen to fill Kallio's unexpired term and now, by vote of 288 of the 300 cast in the electoral college, assumes a full term.
