

MONGER THROWS SUPPORT TO HUX

Sanford County Young Democratic Club Presidential Aspirant Withdraws

RALEIGH, Aug. 27.—(P)—Ralph Monger, Jr., of Sanford, reading clerk in the 1941 house, withdrew today as a candidate for the presidency of the Young Democratic club of North Carolina, and announced that he would run instead for secretary.

He said also that his support for the presidency would go to A. Leonidas Hux of Halifax, who also has the support of three others who had been mentioned as possible candidates—Alan Marshall of Wilmington and Gene Simmons and L. H. Fountain, both of Tarboro.

Hux is now the only announced aspirant for the post.

Clarence B. Hood of Dunn, who had been listed as a potential candidate, has said he would not run but has not announced his choice for president.

Officers will be elected at the Young Democrats' convention in Winston-Salem September 18-20.

Monger said he had just completed a trip into western North Carolina and felt certain that "the strong pledges of support offered my candidacy for state president in that area" would join him in supporting Hux. Monger changed his plans, he said, to preserve party harmony among young Democrats.

One other candidate, Dr. J. R. Saunders, of Morganton, has announced for the secretaryship.

No one has said he would run for treasurer. Henrietta Price of Asheville is seeking to become vice-president, and Patsy Davenport of Greenville is the only announced candidate for national committeewoman.

There are two candidates for national committeeman—Charles Gold of Rutherford county and James Kessler of Rowan county.

Broughton Dissatisfied With Fortified Wine Law; Hints Stricter Regulation

RALEIGH, Aug. 27.—(P)—There have been many complaints of violations of the 1941 law regulating and restricting the sale of fortified wines, and the State Board of Alcoholic Beverage Control is considering strict regulations to correct the situation, Governor Broughton said today.

He conferred with Robert Grady Johnson, chairman, and the two other board members on the subject, and told them that he would support regulations to curb the traffic.

The last legislature limited the sale of fortified wines to the 26 counties with liquor stores and placed the sale of such beverages under the supervision of the state board.

Council Urged To Action In Decision On Meters

Representatives of two nation-wide parking meter sales organizations stressed the need of speedy action by the city if the devices are to be installed here before current stocks are depleted. They pointed out that the scarcity of meters needed in the manufacture of the machines has forced an almost complete halt in their production.

Councilmen also were informed that the minimum cost of the devices would be approximately $42.50 each, plus the charge of erecting them after they are received here. It was estimated that two months would be required for their installation.

However, the council brought out the point that the meters would cost the city nothing off hand in as much as they were being tried out as an experiment on a rental basis where by the company would receive a certain percentage of the "take," and the city the remainder.

All revenues derived from the provisional general headquarters tank destroyer battalion—went into action with blank ammunition against four light tanks in a demonstration before government officials, newsmen, photographers and newsreel cameramen.

All but four tanks were declared put out of action, while the attackers lost several "jeeps."

The "jeeps," small, fast, flat-bodied cars, darted out at the tanks, peppering them with 37 millimeter blanks and drawing them within range of the 75 millimeter guns carried on half-tracks, steel-sided cars with wheels in front and caterpillar treads behind.

Observers declared the tanks were put out of action when the 75s opened up.

The new battalion is an offensive, rather than a defensive, outfit. It is designed for more fire-power and mobility than other anti-tank units.

U. S. ARMY SHOWS NEW TANK KILLER

FORT GEORGE G. MEADE, Md., Aug. 27.—(P)—The army's new "tank killer" battalion made its bow in mimic warfare today and the tanks came off second best.

The "tank killers"—officially the provisional general headquarters tank destroyer battalion—went into action with blank ammunition against four light tanks in a demonstration before government officials, newsmen, photographers and newsreel cameramen.

All but four tanks were declared put out of action, while the attackers lost several "jeeps."

SCREWY NEWS

By GLADWIN HILL
BOSTON, Aug. 27.—(The Special News Service)—If you don't have luck fishing, maybe your trouble is that you're using too old-fashioned a technique.

Recent piscatorial reports indicate the fish have grown sophisticated and flighty, making traditional tactics obsolete.

You've probably heard you should use bait. Not necessary at all. Rhudy downs of Emporia, and cast a nice, fancy plug after bass. Up came a three-pounder and lunged at it, and plopped right into the boat—missing the plug completely.

At a recent fishing contest in Miami, Okla., as the starting gun went off, before a fisherman even could get his line in the water, a 1-2 pound black bass jumped into his boat. And in Wilson, N. Y., a man and his wife were out for a quiet boat ride, without even a line, and a bass jumped into their boat.

A Topeka, Kas., man, caught in a flood, picked off a dozen carp with a golf club. . . A Hickory, N. C., man trapped two nine-inch catfish in a pickle jar. . . And two boys in Beaufort, N. C., caught a 45 pound porpoise with their bare hands.

Even assuming bait's a good idea, there's no telling what the fish may go for—

A lady in Dearing, Mo., caught a carfish on a bag of cottage cheese she had lowered into the well to cool. . . A fish in Indianapolis tried to swallow an 18-inch sashweight. . . A fish caught in El Paso county, Texas, turned out to have swallowed three corned beef cans. . . And in Plainfield, N. J., a 2-1/2 pound weakfish was discovered with a gold watch in its stomach—still running!

It's getting so that when you go fishing, you can't even be sure you're going to get fish. A fisherman in Palmer, Neb., cast his hook into a river and pulled it out with an owl on it. . . And a fisherman in Baraboo, Wis., landed a four-foot rattlesnake.

Amid all this confusion, the safest course perhaps is that taken by a parson in Goldsboro, N. C., who stopped in at the market and asked them to toss a couple of fish at him—so he could say he'd caught 'em.
Oh, Sam! . . .

20-YEAR PRISON TERM METED BUCK

Slayer of Negro Draws Long Sentence; Plea of Self Defense Is Shattered

Silas Buck, alias "Salty Boy," maintaining his innocence to the end and contending that he struck only in self-defense, was convicted of murder in the second degree yesterday morning by a 12-man jury in Judge Walter J. Bone's superior court. He was sentenced a few minutes later to serve not less than 20 years or more than 25 years in the state prison at Raleigh, to be assigned to the road gang.

Buck was charged with the ice-pick murder of Thomas Frederick on the night of Aug. 16, and during the trial heard several state witnesses tell the court that he had attacked Frederick; a negro, without warning and that the victim made no attack whatsoever on him and had no weapon on his person.

Andrew Johnson and James Hankins, entered pleas of guilty when arraigned before Judge Walter J. Bone and drew county farm terms of 18 months each at hard labor. Ruth Fisher was sentenced to three months in the woman's division of the county farm, when she pleaded guilty to a liquor law violation.

The day's session closed with the case of Wanda Byrd and Dorothy Dale still being presented. Court was recessed until 9:30 this morning at which session Judge Bone expected to complete the docket.
