

Episcopal Young People To Hear Charles Thomas, Society Director

The Episcopal church's work among colleges and universities will be presented to a group of interested people in the Great Hall of St. James' parish house, Friday night, May 8, at 8 o'clock.

The speaker will be Charles Edward Thomas, executive director of the Church Society for College Work which maintains its headquarters at the National Cathedral, Washington, D. C.

secretary of the board of regents of the University of the South for five years. He has been executive director of the Church Society for college work since its administrative organization was set up in January, 1940. The Church Society for college work is a cooperating agency of the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal church, and was organized in 1933 to support and aid the church's work in colleges and universities. The Society's funds collected voluntarily, are spent entirely in the field, grants being made through the National commission on college work toward the salaries of college chaplains, clergy and women workers in college and university centers. The Society sponsors conferences on the ministry, Christian vocational conferences for women and conferences for college clergy, faculty members and school matters. The Society's funds are now assisting in the support of college work in every province of the church. Grants are now being made toward the church's work at Duke university, Clemson college in South Carolina, the University of Virginia at Charlottesville and the Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Blacksburg. The first grant ever made by the Society was made in 1936 toward the work at the East Carolina Teachers' college in Greenville.

Mr. Thomas is especially anxious to meet recent graduates of colleges and the parents and friends of college and high school students. Bishop Darst will preside at the meeting.

Tileston School Red Cross Unit Proves Success

Junior Council Was Formed In February And Conducts Weekly Meetings

The Junior American Red Cross Council at Tileston school has made long strides towards becoming one of the foremost organizations in the school with its aim of making boys and girls independent and ready to shoulder responsibility in times of disaster.

The council was formed Feb. 8, 1942 to plan Red Cross work for the entire school. It meets each Wednesday afternoon. Two representatives from each classroom, fourth through the eighth, were elected to serve on the council. Mrs. Dale Spencer and Mrs. W. E. Stanley were invited to be faculty sponsors.

Mrs. Spencer tells the story of the effective work the council is sponsoring at Tileston:

"Although newly organized the council immediately launched a campaign for St. Valentine's Day. Instead of the usual valentines we suggested an exchange of defense stamps. In our check up two days later we found that $37.75 in defense stamps had been exchanged.

"In connection with the present 'war on waste' we have asked each boy and girl in Tileston to collect for us old newspapers, magazines, and other papers. These are collected by council representatives in each homeroom and turned over to grade 5a. This grade, under the supervision of Mrs. Mitchell, was carrying on this work before we were organized. They in turn give the papers to the Brigade Boys club. We hope to make all pupils 'paper-conscious' and save on school paper and art supplies. They have been asked to use both sides of all paper.

"For Easter the Junior Red Cross asked the art classes to work with us in making place cards for the hospital at Camp Davis. These cards were originally designed by the children and painted with water colors. A total of 500 cards were sent. Later we received a letter from Capt. Giber saying that the cards were used not only in patients mess, but also in the Medical Detachment and a d officers' mess.

"In March we put on a Cleanliness Campaign in our school. Posters were made by members of the council and placed in the rooms and halls. Committees were appointed to be in charge of the yard, rest rooms and cafeteria. This drive was to remind pupils of regulations for school cleanliness.

"For several weeks we have been working on model airplanes to be used by the army in instruction schools. Tileston boys are making 10 Boeing 17-E Bombers. These are better known as the Flying Fortress. All these are wood models and are to be painted black. We were delighted to hear that our planes are to be used at Camp Davis. Making these planes gives us a feeling of doing our bit for defense. We feel that the time is well spent; first, because the planes will be used by our army; second, it enables our boys to study and be able to recognize the various types of planes; third, it gives practical training in handicraft.

Recently the Council sponsored a chapel program to put before the entire student body the purpose and work of the Junior Red Cross organizations. The play, 'The Boy Who Thought He Knew,' was especially written for the Red Cross and fully explained how the money for the organization was collected and the various ways in which it was spent.

Last week one thousand leaflets were distributed in the school on 'Accident Prevention in the Homes.' Each teacher was given a pamphlet on 'Preventing Accidents' to use supplementary to her health text. This material is distributed yearly by the Red Cross. This year Tileston school class-membership in Junior Red Cross rooms have a hundred per cent membership in Junior Red Cross. Since our council has been organized we have cooperated with school authorities in planning and carrying out defense work. We are endeavoring to make boys and girls independent and ready to shoulder responsibility in times of disaster.

Next year we hope to make our council the most active organization in Tileston school. We are making plans to organize classes for seventh and eighth graders in first aid, disaster relief, and Red Cross home nursing."
