Wilmington Art Museum Makes Change In Hours

The Wilmington WPA Museum of Art will remain open to the public from Monday through Friday until 9 p.m. On Saturday it will close as usual at 6 p.m. This change in hours has been arranged especially for the soldiers, many of whom can come to the museum only in the evenings. A group of soldiers from the Air base is starting a class in painting which will meet in the studio of the museum each night during the week. At the end of this month an exhibition of their work will be placed on display in the gallery for the general public to enjoy. The soldiers at the Air base have few recreational facilities and the officials of the museum wish to extend to them every service possible, it was said. The general public also is invited to visit the gallery at the evening hours. There is no admission charge.
