BEST DOUBLE PLAY COMBINATION

Phil Rizzuto takes base from Joe Gordon, who circles behind him, forces Glenn McQuinn of Browns at second and whips ball to Buddy Hassett at first to nip George McQuinn. Baseball's slickest double play combination was broken up temporarily when Gordon was forced out of Yankee lineup with wrenched back.

WHITNEY ENTRY WINS BIG RACE FOR FAMED SIRE

By SID FEDER
CHURCHILL DOWNS, Louisville, Ky., May 7.—(AP)—A dramatic came true along Churchill Downs' heart-breaking stretch today when the chocolate son of a great chocolate daddy dropped out of the clouds in the last quarter mile to win the richest Kentucky Derby of them all.

A dozen years after a last minute breakdown robbed his daddy, Equipoise, of his chance at the prized necklace of roses, the new chocolate soldier—Mrs. Payne Whitney's Shut Out—ran his heart out in a mighty stretch struggle. To win for his famous father.

All the long-way down "heart-break boulevard" he went all out, and finally he hit the wire 2 1/4 lengths in front of Alsab, the fine little juvenile champion of last year, who came back a long way toward his two year old heights with today's driving effort.

It was a double-barreled triumph for the "bum" of Mrs. Whitney's fashionable Greentree stable, whose name was wished on him because of the fact his owner is a Brooklyn Dodger fan. For, even as the field of 15—largest since War Admiral whipped 19 others in 1937—paraded to the post and the traditional hush fell as "My Old Kentucky Home" drifted out, the Greentree stable boss still re-garded Ekky's son as only its second best bet, not nearly the horse his mate, Devil Diver, was.

And the bettors, who poured $631,198 into the mutuel machines on the derby alone, made the two-part entry favorite at $5.80 for $2 virtually exclusively because of what they thought of The Diver.

But in the final pull, only Shut Out and Alsab survived, and The Diver and all the rest of the top contenders in this widest field in history found out why they all it "heartbreak road," this longest stretch in America. That last quarter mile got him, and he faded to sixth place, trailing not only the first two home, but also Valдина Orphan, who faltered to third and the high-speed pneumatic With Regards, who set the early pace, then wound up fourth.

And back of the Diver, came such other high-and-mighty pre-Derby standard bearers as the imported Hollywood in ninth place, and handsome Apache in eleventh. Far down the track at the finish and all but out of sight came the little fellow from deep in the heart of Texas, Requested, who never got in it and was eased up to 14th place.

But despite the defeat of all these, the flying son of the chocolate soldier warmed the hearts of a crowd that apparently felt the touch of war. They knew, every one of these hardboots and "invaders" in the get-together variously estimated at 80,000 to 100,000 that this "spitting image" of the big boss of another generation was winning this one for daddy.

They knew that just 11 years ago, Ekky came up as the "big boss" in the Derby for Mrs. Whitney's nephew, Cornelius (Sonny) Whitney. He was the glamour boy of a dozen horses on the grounds of this picturesque racing plant for the 57th Derby. It was to put a fitting touch to a career that ranks him among the greatest horses of all time.

Then the morning of the race—11 a. m. to be exact—word came that he couldn't make it. There he was in his stall, ailing with a kidney trouble that comes to horses from over-eating. To a tearful accompaniment, he was scratched. It didn't matter that his stable-mate, Twenty Grand, went on to win the big heat, Ekky didn't have the chance. And later, when it was found that he had a blind quarter crack as well, even the handlers of other horses joined in the sadness.

But today Shut Out evened things up. And, ironically, once more, Eddie Arcaro guessed wrong. A contract rider for Mrs. Whitney's stable, the swarthy little Kentuckian, generally regarded as the best jockey in the business, had his pick of Devil Diver or Shut Out, because he thought the chocolate galloper was the best of the two. But in most cases, the Diver stole the honors. Throughout this last pre-Derby week, he hesitated between the two.

Finally, yesterday, he chose the son of St. German's, who already had sired two other Derby winners in Twenty Grand and Bold Venture.

Philadelphia A's Beat Chicago Sox, 7 To 6

PHILADELPHIA, May 7.—(AP)—Hal Wagner, who seemingly has ousted Frankie Hayes for the Philadelphia Athletics' catching assignment, took a stronger hold on the job today when he blasted a single with two out in the ninth inning to give the A's a 7-6 triumph over the Chicago White Sox.

Wagner's hit scored Bob Johnson from second base. Johnson had doubled off Orval Grove to set the stage for the winning marker.

Bottlers And Shipyard Semi-Pros Meet Today

Virginia Nine Beaten By Carolina, 5 To 2

Tar Heel Varsity Cops 10th Victory In 13 Starts By Bowing Rivals

CHAPEL HILL, May 7.—(AP)—North Carolina's varsity baseball team notched its 10th victory in 13 starts this season by beating Virginia 5 to 2 here today in a renewal of the South's oldest collegiate diamond rivalry.

The victory was the Tar Heels second over the Cavaliers this spring. The winning run in the lucky seventh came when Mack Morris walked, took second on Catcher Claude Myers' sacrifice, and scored on Pinchhitter Jack Hussey's sharp single through the pitcher's box.

FRAT TEN LEADS HANOVER LEAGUE

Star-News Team Second In Loop Race; Hugh Griffith Is Hitting Leader

As the third week of play ends and each team has completed six games, the Hanover league is in full mid-season swing. Senior Fraternity is still leading with five wins and one loss, closely followed by Star-News with four wins and one loss.

Friday's Star-News-Senior Fraternity game was the year's first crucial game as the Frats won, 6 to 5. The Firemen are secure in third place with an even split in six games.

Little Hugh Griffith, Star-News' flashy shortstop, overtook A. C. L.'s Holloman in the hitting parade as he clubbed out five hits to raise his average to .454. The next five best clubbers are: Brinson, .437; Holloman, .437; Jordan, .388; Padrick, .384; Owensby, .384. Holloman homered again last week to run his year's total to three, and is followed by Griffith and Powell with two each.

Bill Bowen and Wheeler with three each set the pace in doubles. Dave Smith smashed out two triples last week to tie up with Butler. McCall of Senior Frats has scored the most runs, nine, and Powell leads in the number of hits with eight, followed closely by six men with seven to their credit.

Planner of the Frats took over the pitching leadership as he won another game to send his total to three—he has suffered but one setback: Roy Cook and Padrick both have clean slates with two wins, while Bell and Owensby can boast of two wins but have tasted defeat.

Last week's results:
Firemen 12; Senior Frats 11.
Star-News 20; Phalanx 4.

Phalanx 11; A. C. L. 9.

DAVIS GRID TEAM TO PLAY CITADEL

Arrangements Started On Nine-Game Schedule For Coast Artillerymen

Football schedules are usually arranged in the off-season, and frequently two or three years ahead. Camp Davis is unable to get that much of a jump on its games, but it is right now engaging in working out a series of games for this fall.

The commanding general has assured that there will be a football team this year. Lieut. Henry A. Johnson, camp athletic officer, hopes to have it play nine games. They can not all be announced at this time, but contracts for three of them have already been signed.

The opener will be played in Charlotte, N. C., against The Citadel, Saturday afternoon, Sept. 26. The other "away" game will be played in Norfolk, Va., against Fort Story Oct. 31, also a Saturday. The Fort beat Camp Davis last year in Wilmington by 7 to 6.

The third contest already scheduled will be against the First Marines of New River. The Army took this one last year, 12 to 0. Lieut. Johnson is looking for a game with a team representing the Navy to complete the inter-service series.

Two open dates are left, including the one to be filled with a naval engagement. Arrangements now call for two games to be played away—The Citadel and Ft. Story—three games on the post-Sunday afternoons with no charge for soldiers, and four games in Wilmington at the Legion stadium. Three of these will be played against Carolina colleges.

AMOCO TO PLAY GROCERY SQUAD AT HILTON PARK

Undeclared Pepsi-Cola Nine Tangles With Progressives At Legion Stadium

By R. J. POWELL
Unbeaten Pepsi Cola clashes with the second-place Progressive club from the shipyard at Legion stadium this afternoon while the A. L. King nine plays the improved Amoco Cannoneers at Hilton as the Cape Fear baseball associations first half struggle enters the fourth week of action.

Both tiffs promise to be bang-up affairs as all teams are rapidly rounding into first-class shape for the tough sledding ahead. Last Sunday's games, best all-around so far, proved that Pitchers had their say for the first time as three of the hurling brigade served low-hit diets to the opposing batters. Several double plays and a seldom-seen triple execution add weight to the above contention.

Pepsi Cola will likely call on either Jack Shoaf or Snag Allen to face the shipyard sluggers this afternoon. Allen muzzled the Kingers on four singles last week and appears ready to fire away at the Progressive clubbers although Shoaf's experience and dependability may get him the nod. To keep power in the lineup the infield will likely remain as is with Edens at first, S. McKeithan at second, Rowan at short, and Dempsey at third. With Yates Hawkins out with a lame ankle, the outfield will fall to Carter, Benson, and R. Farrow, Nethercutt will catch.

The shipyard outfit is still on the hunt for a catcher, although a guy by the name of Smith looked okeh with the mitt last Sunday. The Progressive infield of Lambert, DeJarnett, Jordan, and Meade seems to be filling the bill as is the garden patrol of Manager Urban, Davis and McCord. Of the three leading shipyard chunkers—Brosman, Edwards, and Holland—the first mentioned has been the most effective and he will likely toe the rubber against the league leaders today.

Two problems meet over on the Hilton diamond when the Cannon-eers and the Grocery boys tee off this afternoon. Batting punch, that essential item in winning ball games, has been sorely needed on both teams since the opening round and today's get-together has been designed by both managers to re-capture some of that lost power. Skipper James of the King-team hinted that some of the sub-players would have to be handed pink slips to make room for the new material recently signed. Some of that new blood will be injected into the King lineup today with most of the changes due to occur in the outfield where only Oscar Flowers is playing par ball.

The inner defense of Horton, Singletary, Tyler and Shands is holding up well and no immediate change is in view. The catching department is bulging with defensive giants, but the hitting is something else. In Johnnie Wilbourne, King has a pitcher, the bid fan is to become one of the best in the Cape Fear and he has two able assistants in Gore and Jack Allen. In looking over the Amoco team, the battery section is what holds the attention, for Clemmons has a dependable flinging corps in Head-on Piner, Lefty Brew, Biggie Jenkins, and Jim Bullock. Charley Beatha is a manager's dream of a catcher and San West works well behind the bat too. The Amoco infield as of last Sunday, Sandlin, Hood, Pattinian, and Anderson, with a little more work, should prove a capable one. With more base hits, the Cannon-eers, like the Kingers, should be right in the thick of the pennant fight.

Records
According to averages just re-l eased covering the regulars in the first three games in the book, the Pepsi's veteran Snag Allen is leading the Cape Fear in just about everything. . . . Rowan of the PC's is next in batting with average of .466. . . . Davis and McCord, from the shipyard team follow with .400 marks, and the King's Oscar Flowers trails with .364. . . . In slugging the Pepsi pitcher has a double and a triple, while Edens of the same gang has two doubles and a three base knock. . . . Snag Allen is also the leading pitcher, winning two games while allowing one run or five hits and whiffing 16. Edens has fanned 18 in thirteen innings. . . . Umpires today are Brown and Parker at Hilton and Casteen and Eagles at the stadium.

NEW YORK, May 7.—(AP)—A two-run homer by Rudy York, his second four-bagger of the game, broke up a pitching duel between Tommy Bridges and Maris Russen in the ninth inning today and gave the Detroit Tigers a 3-1 victory over the New York Yankees for a sweep of the two-game series.

Bridges hurled five-hit ball for his second triumph against one loss, but missed a shutout by walking two men in the third inning when the Yanks scored their lone tally with only one hit.
