War Need Not Spoil A Bride's Reception Plans

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer
Despite the war, Spring brides should plan to have a delightful reception. It need not be expensive, but it should be lovely.

An afternoon reception, around four o'clock, is smart, convenient and probably the least expensive according to Margery Wilson, authority on etiquette.

"Make it a stand-up affair, with finger food. You can easily accommodate fifty guests at surprisingly low cost," adds this author. "The Woman You Want To Be," a guide to successful living and entertaining. "Have pink and white for your color scheme in both food and decoration. For the wedding cake, have a spray of roses surrounding the cake, placed on a piece of cardboard right on the top of the cake itself."

HAM PASTE
(for sandwich filling)
Take two or three ham ends (for economy) or shoulder. Boil and strip the meat off. Put it through the grinder three times. Add two tablespoons of mayonnaise—which, with the fat in the ham itself, helps to give a pasty consistency. Season with 1-2 teaspoon celery seed and 2 teaspoonful onion juice, 2 tablespoonful lemon juice and 1 tablespoonful of brown sugar. Add Worcestershire sauce to taste.

CHEESE PASTE
(for sandwich filling)
To keep this all-pink, you can color your cheese paste by putting in a few drops of red cake-dye purchased at a confectioner's. Use one pound of store cheese—any kind. It can be as cheap as you like.

Add one pound of crisp bacon powdered. (To powder, cover with cheesecloth and beat with knife.) Season with 1 teaspoonful onion juice and add Worcestershire sauce to taste. The paste may be made the night before the wedding and left to stand covered with a damp cloth (not in icebox). Cheese paste is delicious spread on small crackers or on thin, crisp toast, as well as in sandwiches.

TOMORROW'S MENU
BREAKFAST: R h u b r j juice, cornbread, syrup, coffee.
DINNER: Potato and spring onion soup, hard enriched rolls, sliced oranges, tea, milk.
SUPPER: Veal chops baked in tomato sauce, baked potatoes, lettuce and radish salad, figs and strawberries, cookies, coffee, milk.
