242 Navy Cadets Begin Pre-Flight Work At UNC

CHAPEL HILL, May 28.—(AP)—Selected in rigid tests from hundreds of applicants on the basis of physical and mental fitness, 242 trim, smart-looking young men arrived at the University of North Carolina today as representatives of the first group of 1,875 cadets to be enrolled during the coming months in the Navy's Eastern Pre-Flight Aviation school.

All of them college men, and many of them graduates, the cadets came from the New England states and New York and New Jersey.

In each war production area where the job freeze is applied, a local committee of labor and management representatives will be established to advise, hear and make recommendations on appeals by workers or employers, he explained.

McNutt pointed out that there always would be some cases where a worker would be justified in changing his job and an employer would be justified in hiring him even through the worker already was employed in a war industry.

ever, a case involving an effort to cancel the American citizenship of William Schneiderman, Russian-born state secretary of the communist party in California, on the ground that he had concealed his communist affiliation in seeking naturalization.

Bridges has denied consistently any membership or affiliation with the party. He freely acknowledged working with the communists in his labor activities among longshoremen and other groups on the west coast and once opposed adoption by a central labor council of a resolution repudiating communist organizations.

Bridges is 40 and a native of Melbourne, Australia. He reached San Francisco in 1920 and never returned to his native country. He has been active as a labor organizer since entering the United States and held a high post in the International Longshoremen's Association (AFL) before that group was ousted from the parent body. Then he rose in the CIO ranks.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Katie Z. Davis of Wilmington; and one aunt, Mrs. Lillie Clowe of Wilmington.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Andrews mortuary.

MRS. J. R. ROSE

WALLACE, May 28.—Mrs. J. R. Rose, wife of J. R. Rose died at her home in Wallace this morning at 11:15 a.m. after several weeks illness. Funeral services will be held from the home Friday afternoon at 3 p.m. and burial will be in Rochford cemetery. The Rev. W. P. M. Currie and the Rev. Marian Murray will officiate.

Louella Gurley Rose, daughter of Calvin L. and Ellen Price Gurley, was born Oct. 7th, 1876 in Wayne county. She was married to J. R. Rose who has been connected with the Atlantic Coast Line since 1908. They moved to Wallace in 1922 where they have lived since.

Mrs. Rose was truly one of the land marks in her home town. No man, woman or child, colored or white who made their home here for any length of time could help but know her. Where there was a semblance of activity Mrs. Rose could be found whether it was sickness in a home, a Presbyterian circle meeting, something of vital importance to the public school, a club meeting or a social function.

She was a charter member of the Betterment Association which was organized in 1908 and in 1912 was reorganized as the Woman's Club. She is a past president of this organization and has served on many important committees, her work mainly centering around Public Welfare and Public Health activities. She was an active member of the Book Club and took great pride in the establishment and growth of the Wallace Public Library. Perhaps loyalty was her outstanding characteristic. Until the last two months, no member recalls her being absent from a club meeting.

During World War Number 1, Mrs. Rose had charge of the knitting group. She took an active part in the organization of First Aid and Home Nursing Classes of which she was an active member. After a slight stroke a year ago she refused to give up and continued her active life and interest in all that went on around her. In March, 1942, when First Aid Classes were being organized for work during World War Number 2, Mrs. Rose was among the first to register and attended every class. Truly with Granville Hicks we can say—"One had to die, but one did not have to waste life thinking of death."

Mrs. Rose is survived by her husband, her children, Mrs. H. P. Miller of Flushing, N. Y., Mrs. J. A. Watson, Greenville, N. C., Mrs. Bill Harper Ippock, Wallace and Mrs. J. R. Rose, Jr., Wallace; her sisters, Mrs. R. L. Fitzgerald, Pine Level, Mrs. W. E. Aycock, Fremont, and her brother, C. C. Gurley, and her grandchildren, Bob Watson, Mary Rose Miller and Annette Louella Rose.

MEXICO JOINS ALLIES IN WAR AGAINST AXIS

of the line carried in the campaign of 1867 which ended the French attempt to set up a Mexican empire under the Hapsburg Maximilian.

Recognize Limits

"We recognize the limits of our military resources," the President said "and we know that given the enormity of the international masses now in battle that our role in the present conflict will not consist in war outside the continent.

"But we shall respond to the aggression of our adversaries, collaborating energetically in safeguarding America."

His address was greeted alternately with grave silence and tumultuous shouts of "Viv Avila Camacho!"

The attitude of Congress was at once revealed by Emilio Gutierrez Roldan, president of the Chamber of Deputies and presiding officer of the joint session, who said:

"We shall give all the support necessary to our government regardless of sacrifices and privations to make safe the honor of our fatherland."

Avila Camacho's address, carried throughout the nation of 20,000,000 persons, lasted 24 minutes. More than 5,000 soldiers, as well as sailors, marines, military cadets and police, lined the route the president took to and from the Chamber of Deputies.

He characterized recent Axis submarine attacks on two Mexican vessels—the tanker Petro del Llano and the freighter Faja de Oro—as "outrages to our national sovereignty."

Condemns Attacks

Cheers halted him when he declared that "the disloyal, sneaking and cowardly attacks" had brought his government to decide to "accept valiantly the realities" of the world situation and ask for a declaration of war against Germany Italy and Japan.

In requesting suspension of constitutional guarantees and the granting of decree powers to the executive, Avila Camacho promised there would be no "unjust persecutions" and that the country's internal life would be altered only as needed to reinforce the spirit of national defense.

"I am the first to appreciate the effort the situation will require of the country," the president said. "But if we do not make this effort, will we not lose, perhaps, something infinitely more valuable than our tranquility and our lives: The honor of our fatherland, the unsullied name of Mexico?"

Lines of troops for blocks around the building held back crowds of wondering, barefoot peasants, alert government clerks released for the day, and grim ordinary spectators long before the session opened. There were 170 of the 172 deputies present and 53 of the 58 senators. United States Ambassador George Messersmith sat beside Dr. Francisco Castillo Najer, Mexican Ambassador to the United States, in the diplomatic gallery.

LONG MAY HER PERMANENT WAVE!

HE: Hello... that you, Helen? Listen, I forgot to tell you to send the car over for greasing and an oil change.

SHE: Oh, all right Bob, but what about the tires and the battery and all the other things it might need?

HE: Right... everything should be attended to. Gosh!... can't you take some responsibility for the car?

SHE: All right, smarty... I have taken the responsibility. I joined the Once-a-Week Club today.

HE: Great Caesar's ghost! Another club! Didn't we just agree last night to cut out unnecessary expenses?

SHE: That's exactly what we are doing. This is a club without any dues, fees or anything.

HE: I'm listening... proceed with caution!

SHE: Well, you know that nice Conoco station over on Myrtle Street? I went in there this morning and Mr. Blevins, the Mileage Merchant, told me he would go over our car every Thursday morning; check the tires, the battery, water... in fact, everything... and if he saw anything needed, he would write it down for me.

HE: Atta girl! This war will make a business woman out of you yet!

SHE: Oh, yeah? Well, I may be a business woman, my dear, but I'm going to get a permanent this afternoon just to prove I'm still a female... and the price will be charged up to the extra life of our car and the savings we're going to have because of that Conoco Once-a-Week Club.

Pick up your phone or drive by and tell Your Conoco Mileage Merchant to let you in on his Once-a-Week Club. Ask him about changing to his Conoco Nth motor oil, to give your engine the great big change to OIL-PLATING. Continental Oil Company
