

Carolina Beach Is Ready To Greet Many Visitors

Resort Is Headed Toward Another Great Season, Says Mayor Fergus

It is a dimmed-out but glamorous Carolina Beach which vacationists will visit this summer. But there are only eight hours of the dim-out per day—and 16 of bright, glorious sunlight in which to enjoy fishing, sunbathing, surf bathing, bicycling and real beach living.

The visitors at Carolina Beach this year will be urged to head for the boardwalk during the twilight hours so that they won't miss a trick caused by the dim-out of the fun-way. None of the stores or rides will be affected at night on the ocean front boardwalk.

In spite of transportation problems, Carolina Beach is headed for another great season, Mayor R. C. Fergus declared.

At the beach resort, which boasts not a single life lost in 10 years, 50 per cent of the cottages are already occupied. Many building permits were issued during the winter and about 20 cottages have been built since last year.

While there may be such things as tire and gas rationing, Carolina Beach officials are reporting business rushing at a mid-June clip and judging by the early season crowds, record breaking in size, the dim-out is one of the best attractions and the ration cards are tickets to the fun.

The war has not changed the desirability of a vacation to Carolina Beach this year. As a consequence more effort than ever before will be made by the resort's leaders to make the guests welcome and to provide for the time of their lives.

In keeping with the new mode of doubling up to fill the autos, house parties will be a feature of the coming season. Families will pool their gas cards and six and eight vacation-bound folks will pile into the automobile for a lengthy stay at Carolina Beach.

Along the boardwalk the vacationist will find plenty of bowling alleys, a modern theatre, billiards, souvenir shops, games of chance and skill, quick lunch pop-ins, a number of thrilling rides, dancing under the stars—the complete bag of fun-making tricks.

There is nothing in North Carolina which equals the gay Mardi Gras spirit which prevails for three solid months along Carolina Beach amazing midway. By chance or by unusual foresight on the part of the town's early fathers, the heart of Carolina Beach is at the midway.

Shipyard workers and their families, and servicemen are expected to take over Carolina on week-ends and throughout the seven days of each week this season. Most visitors are expected to spend their entire vacation at the beach resort, Cliff P. Lewis, prominent beach realtor, said.

Vacationists at Carolina Beach this summer will have the use of one of the only municipally owned sewerage systems on any beach in the south, according to Mayor Fergus. The system will cover the whole of Carolina Beach. A total of $187,000 of both WPA and beach funds is estimated to be expended in the project.

The new Town Hall, built at a cost of $40,000, is completed and is one of the most beautiful buildings on any beach south of Atlantic City.

Value Of USO Stressed By B. F. Sutherland

To further the interest in the coming U. S. O. campaign for operating funds, B. F. Sutherland, associate general chairman for the New Hanover War Fund Campaign for U. S. O., made the following announcement.

"We, of the civilian population who have not yet tasted real sacrifice, should deem it a privilege to contribute funds to the United Service Organization.

"The U. S. O. is designed to replace some of the things given up by the men in uniform so that they can make our homes and our families secure."
