We Also Serve Our VICTORY ARMY

NAVY HAS PLANS The Navy Recruiting Service has announced plans to make that day go down in history as another challenge to our unscrupulous enemies across the seas. On July 4th, another mass of young America will hold up their hands to accept the Navy's oath of enlistment, and eligible men of New Hanover and surrounding counties are given their chance to take part in the challenge.

This is a call to men who face military duty anyway; this is a call to younger men, who are ready to do their part but who are not yet on the rolls of the draft board. The United States Navy needs men with the intestinal fortitude, better known as "guts," which has set the present Navy down in the annals of history as the best in the books.

Back on June 7th, 36 men from New Hanover and vicinity held up their hands in a pledge to slay the Japs, axe the Axis, and just laugh at the simple little Italians. There are plans for an equal number to be enlisted here on July 4th.

GOOD OPPORTUNITY But, while men who volunteer now will be doing their country a great service, they also will be helping themselves as individuals. Right now, the Navy is prepared to advance those men who volunteer just as fast as they are qualified—and men who are trained in almost any trade may come in with pay enough to justify their enlistment before "their time."

Married men no longer need hold back for fear that their families will go unheeded. They are invited to drop by the Navy Recruiting Station in the postoffice building here, and learn the details of how they may arrange to care for their families. It's no news now that married men are about to be re-classified for Army duty, and it's a cinch that most men can better themselves more rapidly through the Navy's broad educational system.

SCHOOL FOR ALL Every man who enlists in the Navy is offered a chance in a trade school, and the Navy points with pride to the men who have joined since war began. Skilled men, ready to tackle any man's job after the war is over, have learned their trade since joining the Navy.

The Naval Reserve, as it is called, releases its members after the war is over. The Reserve is wide open now, and it costs nothing to get information at your nearest recruiting station.

HOME ON LEAVE Robert S. Matthews, Jr., First Class Petty Officer, USNR, now stationed at Charleston, S. C., is spending a few days in Wilmington, and was accompanied here by his wife, the former Miss Louise McClammy. While here they are visiting Mrs. Matthews' parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. McClammy of 423 South Front street.

Before enlisting in the Naval Reserve, Matthews was a reporter on the Wilmington Star-News. But Matthews is not to be outdone by his pretty wife. She is working in the Supply Department of the Sixth Naval District headquarters at the Charleston Navy Yard. Navy family, we'd call it.

RECOVERING Friends of Owen C. Fillyaw, USNR, son of Mrs. Robert S. Hall of 1611 Ann street, Wilmington, will be interested to learn that he is recovering from pneumonia at the naval hospital at San Diego, California.

Young Fillyaw has done quite a bit of travelling since he enlisted in the Naval Reserve last year, and he sends his best regards to all of his friends in Wilmington. Persons wishing to write to him will address his mail to the Naval Base Hospital, U. S. Naval Base, San Diego, California.

NAUTICAL HOROSCOPE The stars today indicate that sailors born under these signs will do brilliant things, especially if they use their own money to buy special brightwork polish ashore. If the skipper finds 15 empty bottles under their bunks, these sailors always have a bright remark, such as: "No, sir I was just saving them to sell to the junk man."

Sailors born on this date are destined to climb far in the Navy, maybe as far as the sky, control. They have a great capacity for work and other things, like beer, so long as somebody else does the work—and buys the beer. If you were born today, sailor, you are rather young to be in the Navy. You have a mathematical mind, and are always good at figuring out angles. You are quick at figures—the instant a good figure heaves into sight, you are off to see how things add up. You prefer blondes, but then, a chicken on the arm is worth two in the next block.—(From "Our Navy"). 2

Enforcement Officers Meet Here Thursday CHARLOTTE, June 20.—(P)—Three conferences for law enforcement officers will be conducted cooperatively by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Institute of Government in the state next week, Edward Scheidt, special agent in charge of the FBI field office here, announced. The conferences will be held at Raleigh, Tuesday; Greenville, Wednesday; and Wilmington, Thursday. 4

COLORFUL MOMENT

Navy Notes

BY JESSE HELMS Sp. Lc. (R) U.S.N.R.

VICTORY DAY You won't hear any firecrackers proclaiming the event, but your Uncle Sammy is making plans to celebrate the Fourth of July this year just as elaborately as he did back in the days when the only fighting Americans knew about was in the history books.

No thundering skyrockets will roar into the sky this year, bursting into a mass of color to remind folks that the United States is having a birthday of freedom—but there's going to be a celebration, and a brand new one.

Independence Day never before has ever found us engaged in such a life and death struggle with forces of evil; never before have the fundamental precepts of democracy been so endangered throughout the world—and never before on Independence Day have Americans been called on to give, and give, and give.

In North Carolina, they're calling July 4th Victory Day. It has been proclaimed by Governor Broughton, and various organizations are planning their individual celebrations—without the use of precious gunpowder, tires... and the eating kind of sugar.

SCHOOL PROBLEMS WILL BE STUDIED

Committee Named To Deal With Matters Expected To Arise In Assembly

RALIGH, June 20.—(P)—The executive committee of the North Carolina Education association, meeting here today, authorized President John C. Lockhart of Charlotte to appoint two committees to study school problems expected to arise in the next general assembly.

One of the committees will study compulsory attendance laws and the other will make an investigation of the teacher-turnover caused by the war effort.

Lockhart said he expected to name the committees next week. The executive committee re-elected Fred W. Greene secretary-treasurer, and also re-elected Jule B. Warren, editor of the NCEA magazine and fiscal agent of the association.

An appropriation of $200 for disseminating information concerning the constitutional amendment providing for a State Board of Education was approved.

The committee accepted the resignation of Miss Mary Langston, field worker, who is to be married in July.

An appropriation was included in the budget to provide the benefits for federal old age security and unemployment compensation for members of the NCEA headquarters staff not eligible for teachers retirement. 2

CANDIDATES FAIL TO FILE REPORTS

Henderson Expects Statements To Be Presented Early Next Week

Several candidates for office in the May 30 primary failed to file their expense and contributions report before yesterday's deadline as required by law and seven waited until the last day before making their statements.

Clerk of Superior Court T. J. Henderson, with whom the accounts are filed, said last night that the missing reports will probably be made early this week. Penalties for not filing within the specified time, he said, are usually not made.

Those who reported yesterday were: J. E. L. Wade, candidate for state senate, $68 expenses and no contributions; J. A. Orrell, county auditor, no expenses since previous filing; Sheriff C. D. Jones, $426.89 and no gifts.

Clayton Holmes, candidate for state representative, $110; J. A. Bodine, Republican candidate for county commission, $5; W. A. Cannon, seeking the office of Masonboro justice of the peace, $5; and R. M. Kermon, nominated to house of representatives, $407.80. 2

North Carolina Legion Sets Membership Mark

ASHEVILLE, June 20.—(P)—The North Carolina Department of the American Legion broke its 23-year record today with a total membership of 19,003.

Department Commande R. L. McMillan of Raleigh, here for the department's 1942 convention, said last minute reports pushed the total beyond the 1931 peak of 18,949, and topped last year's total of 17,353 by almost 2,000.

Raleigh Post No. 1 led the department with 682 members, followed by Asheville with 658, Winston-Salem 590, Oteen 557, and Greensboro 531. Charlotte, Fayetteville, Durham, Kinston, and Wilmington were next in order.

Buncombe county led the counties in membership with a total of 1,273. 2

Ensign Randolph Coone Is Killed In Action

ASHEVILLE, June 20.—(P)—Ensign Randolph Coone, formerly of Asheville, has been killed in action with the United States Navy Air Force in the Pacific, it was learned here today. He was 28 years old.

Coone was the son of Mrs. B. R. Cooner, now of Washington, D. C., and the late Mr. Cooner. He came to Asheville to reside when he was a small child, attended public schools here and later Asheville school.

He graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1937, and entered the Navy Air Corps as a flying cadet in December 1940. He received his commission in September 1941. At the time of his death he was attached to an aircraft carrier. 2

NEGRO MANPOWER SERVICE

WASHINGTON, June 20.—(P)—Chairman Paul V. McNutt announced today that a negro manpower service had been established within the War Manpower commission, in an effort to assure full use of negroes in war industry jobs. Dr. Robert C. Weaver, advisor on negro affairs to the Interior department, has been appointed director of the service.

NAMED SPORTS EDITOR

FORT BRAGG, June 20.—(P)—Pfc. Joseph McCarthy, script writer for the radio section of the Public Relations office here, has been appointed sports editor of "Yank," new Army newspaper, it was announced today. Before his induction into the Army, McCarthy was a writer for the Boston Post.
