

RUBBER CAMPAIGN CONTINUES HERE

Collection Of Scrap Through-out County Passes 100,000-Pound Mark

The collection of scrap rubber in New Hanover county yesterday passed the 100,000-pound mark. There must be 25,000 or more pounds still unaccounted for being scattered among the eight oil districts in the county, Alex Sprunt, chairman of the county salvage committee, said. Considerable more is expected to be collected next week.

SCRAP RUBBER COLLECTION

Little Miss Barbara Hatcher, standing before 6,000 pounds of scrap rubber at MacMillan and Cameron company, is shown handing a rubber toy to B. B. Cameron as her share towards the scrap rubber salvage campaign being conducted in New Hanover county. To the right of Mr. Cameron is Alex Sprunt, county chairman of the "Salvage for Victory" drive. Smiling onlookers are, left to right, Private Joseph Marks and Private Chester Taylor, of the Wilmington Army Air Base.

B. B. Hoy, American Oil company's manager, has given his men hundreds of car stickers bearing this reminder, "Take your scrap rubber to any service station. Victory Rides on Rubber." The sticker is red, white and blue. At each of the Amoco stations large signs stating, "Get into the Scrap-official Scrap Rubber Drive."

P. Brinson, of the city, is credited with giving more than half of the 2,000 pound collection at Shell company.

Texas Oil reports 4,400 pounds of scrap rubber and Raney Chevrolet company has 3,000 pounds.

Tom Murrell is providing the trucks which stands laden with tires before the Wilmington post-office, to publicize the county-wide scrap rubber campaign.

Henderson NYA Office Closes Next Wednesday

HENDERSONVILLE, June 20.—(AP)—The Henderson county NYA office will suspend next Wednesday after nearly six years of operation in this county, it was announced by County Commission Chairman D. G. Wilkie.

Mr. Wilkie's announcement was made following receipt of a letter from Leo H. Manley, Asheville, NYA director for this area. Manley explained that all NYA work in the state is being brought to a stop with the exception of 16 residential centers which will be used solely for training young people for war work. The nearest of these centers will be in Asheville.

Five-year-old Ethel Heddie recently climbed with his parents to the summit of Cede. Idris mountain, 2,914 feet high in England, and is said to be the youngest climber on record.

Orlando Faces Shortage Of Electrical Power

ORLANDO, Fla., June 20.—(AP)—The Orlando Utilities commission declared after a special meeting today that an electrical power emergency exists here because of a shortage of fuel oil to operate the electrical plant.

The commission said that no street lights would be lighted after today and that there was a possibility traffic lights would have to be cut off Monday.

The commission said surplus fuel oil would operate the plant only seven more days and that the Standard Oil company at Port Tampa, which normally supplies the oil, had sent word its supply was exhausted and future deliveries problematical.

BIDDLE DISCUSSES U. S. WAR EFFORT

Attorney General Speaks At U. S. Judicial Conference In Asheville

ASHEVILLE, June 20.—(AP)—An address by Francis Biddle, U. S. attorney general, featured this morning's concluding session of the annual Federal Judicial conference for the Fourth circuit, which opened here Thursday.

Many of the jurists attending joined in terming the conference presided over by Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone, the most successful and significant in the 12 years the judges of the circuit have met in Asheville. It brought here for discussions of judicial problems many of the most noted minds in the legal profession.

"There comes a time when the enemy will crack, physically and mentally; that time has not yet come, of course, but things are moving favorably for the Allies," the attorney general declared.

Devoting most of his address to the war effort as it concerns the Justice department, Mr. Biddle dwelt at some length on the problems of Aliens and propaganda.

All aliens had already been classified, with reference to possible danger to the United States, before the war started, with the result that those classified as dangerous were under arrest within four hours after the President signed a special proclamation on the subject, the attorney general said.

Through local alien boards the cases of other aliens have been investigated to determine disposition. Pointing out that there will be an acute labor shortage this fall and that many aliens are skilled workers, Mr. Biddle remarked that "Hitler has eight or ten millions of people in countries he has captured working in war industries, while we fear in this country to allow persons who have been residents for many years to work in our industry."

The skill of many aliens may well be used in the war effort, he indicated, but "when there is the slightest doubt, we never take a chance."

CRIPPS PROMISES ATTACK ON HITLER

force to Europe in the teeth of German resistance. Nazi Marshal Erwin Rommel's threat to Tobruk and Egypt, which thoroughly doused British hopes, also has had a profound effect on the British point of view.

Many who talked optimistically a few weeks ago of opening a second front are now speculating on the necessity of concentrating British and United States forces in Egypt.

The War office announcement that all civilians were being cleared from the thickly settled villages and farms of the large area in East Anglia restored a strong tone, however, to "second front" talk.

The announcement said the area was intended for "realistic training" for troops. But skeptical observers wondered if the army would deliberately have chosen a place so exposed to German aerial observation and bombing for pure maneuvers.

Having Effect (If this was part of the war of nerves, it apparently was having its effect. The German radio devoted the equivalent of columns of speculation from all points of the compass on the possibility of a second front. Nearly all of it pooh-poohed the possibility of an Allied invasion.)

Cripps spoke at a mass meeting in Empress hall, which was packed by almost 7,000 persons gathered to observe the anniversary, June 22, of the German attack on Russia. Included in the audience were Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky, Rear Admiral Alan G. Kirk, chief of staff of United States naval forces in European waters who represented Ambassador John G. Winant, and representatives of all other Allied governments.

"With the help of the United States and its industrial forces added to our own and the Soviet Union's productive resources, we should be able to launch a great and successful attack upon Hitler in the west," he said.

He warned against a premature venture leading to failure, however, and said "when we strike, let us strike hard and with determination to march through to Berlin before we call a final halt."

"It may be sooner or later, though Hitler has apparently guessed that it may not be too far ahead. As we make our preparations, so no doubt, he will try to make his too, and this in itself may influence the time factor."

Then he added significantly: "This matter, as you know, was discussed with Molotov (Soviet Commissar) when he was in England and I can assure you he knows much more about it than I can tell you."

SCOTS FIND ANCIENT HUTS Huts within a round fort of massive stones have been unearthed at Kildonian Fort near Argyll, Scotland. Pottery found shows that the buildings were inhabited in the Second century. The discovery is considered important because it proves that in Roman times the district was not barbarous.

Photos Reveal U. S. Bombs Demolished Japanese Cruiser

WASHINGTON, June 20.—(AP)—Bombs from carrier-based planes of the U. S. Navy virtually demolished a heavy Japanese cruiser in the Midway island battle, official Navy photographs disclosed today.

Gun turrets were twisted, plates buckled, airplane catapults were blown to bits by the bombs which left the ship listing, gutted and wholly disabled during the battle in which at least 17 enemy vessels were sunk or damaged. One gaping slit just above the cruiser's waterline gave evidence that a torpedo plane might have participated in the attack. Other jagged holes showed evidence of bombs detonating powder magazines beneath the gun turrets.

Just what was the final fate of the 8,500-ton cruiser of the Mogami class and its complement of 850 men was not disclosed. But one naval expert said the damage was so severe that only by towing could it have been moved from the battle scene.

The Mogami class cruisers first joined the Japanese fleet in 1936. They are armed with 15 six-inch guns; eight five inch anti-aircraft guns and 12 torpedo tubes. In addition they carry four aircraft launched from two catapults. The photographs were taken by an enlisted man assigned to a carrier. Their angle indicated they were taken from an airplane.

N. Y. Paper Warehouse Damaged By Big Fire

NEW YORK, June 20.—(AP)—A five-alarm fire fought for four hours today by 34 fire companies caused an estimated $800,000 damage to a paper warehouse in downtown Manhattan.

Fifty firemen were overcome by smoke and 25 more were treated for injuries caused by debris. For hours the Greenwich Village district was overcast by dense smoke rising from tons of paper stored in the seven-story building of the Great Atlantic Paper company on Washington street.

Firemen were kept busy rescuing fellow fire-fighters from collapsed walls and the smoke-filled interior until the final "washing down" was accomplished shortly after 2 p. m. (EWT).
