

WALLER IS DENIED STAY OF EXECUTION

Negro Sharecropper Under Sentence To Die On July 2 For Slaying

WASHINGTON, June 27—(P)—Four Supreme court justices today at separate times a stay of execution for Odell Waller, Virginia negro sharecropper under sentence to die July 2 for murder of John F. Finerty, attorney for the condemned man, was turned down in succession by Chief Justice Stone and by Justices Black, Jackson and Frankfurter. They were the only members of the court in Washington. Any member of the court has the power to issue a stay. Justice Frankfurter, the last to act, asserted: "As a Federal judge I am unable to find any justification for summary interference with the orderly process of Virginia's courts of justice."

Finerty immediately left Washington for Richmond to appear before the governor of Virginia at a commutation hearing on Monday. The attorney said he sought a stay of execution to permit a new appeal to the supreme court, now in recess until October, on the question of whether the negro was deprived of his constitutional rights because non-payers of poll taxes were barred from the juries which indicted and tried him.

A review of the case was denied by the Supreme court last May 4. Waller was convicted of slaying Oscar Davis, his white former landlord, in Pittsylvania county, Va.

Rubber Disks Salvaged From Old Ship Donated In Campaign Here

G. C. McKeithan, of the Woodburn community in Brunswick county, has turned over three rubber disks salvaged from the Confederate blockade runner, "North Heath," to the New Hanover scrap rubber campaign.

Four disks were recovered from the blockader, each measuring about 15 inches in diameter and five-eighths of an inch thick. McKeithan loaned one to the New Hanover County Museum.

The "North Heath" was sunk in the fall of 1864 just north of the present site of the North Carolina Shipbuilding company. The blockader remained there some 68 to 70 years until Government engineers found it about eight years ago while working to deepen the channel.

S. L. Burris, brother-in-law of McKeithan, helped raise the wrecked boat and found the disks, which he gave to the Brunswick man. They had been used as pump packing on the vessel.

The rubber is in good condition even after a watery grave of more than three score years. It is estimated each disk weighed about five pounds.

Huge Supply Of Scrap Rubber Discovered In Hanover Mass

HANOVER, Mass., June 27—(P)—Discovery of 3,000,000 pounds of scrap rubber, which transformed this normally quiet, rural community into a "boom town reminiscent of the gold rush days," was reported today by the Massachusetts Salvage committee.

The committee said that the rubber—"literally acres of it"—was found on the site of the abandoned Clapp Rubber Co., which sold its machinery and wrecked its buildings in the days when there were "limitless crude rubber supplies and there was no market for scrap."

There apparently is enough scrap, the committee added, to meet Massachusetts' entire quota under President Roosevelt's salvage program. A survey by David Lundquist, War Production rubber specialist, indicated a considerable quantity was very valuable.

After discovery of the scrap by one of its employees, an oil company undertook the task of carting it away but hundreds of residents, including enterprising children, had the same idea, and the company turned over the project to the salvage committee.

The "mine" is located on the same site where the first plow in the United States and the anchors of the historic Frigate Constitution, now enshrined at the Boston Navy yard, were forged.

"Word of the rubber mine spread through the town like wildfire," the committee reported. "Hanover children raided the place and carried away hundreds of pounds to the nearest gasoline stations for a penny a pound."

When the committee stepped in it obtained options on some of the rubber, but allowed owners, who refused options, to sell the scrap on their land. They were not allowed to remove it, however, until the Rubber Salvage company of the Reconstruction Finance corporation issues shipping instructions.

35,200 Pounds Of Scrap Rubber Collected In Brunswick's Campaign

SOUTHPORT, June 27—(P)—The first week of the drive for scrap rubber in Brunswick county netted 35,200 pounds, with not all collection points heard from.

The work is continuing this week with expectations at least 30 tons having been collected. R. D. White, prominent automobile dealer of Shallotte, heads the drive committee, the members of which are appreciative of the general cooperation. The Coast Road Service station at Shallotte led all places in Brunswick in the amount of rubber on hand at its first report. At Bolivia, the Elmore garage took the lead and at Supply Elbert Kirby's store stood at top place. McNeil's garage took the lead in collecting at Southport.

Considerable Interest Shown In New National 4-H Competition

Thirty-nine New Hanover county 4-H club girls have entered the national "O" girl contest, Miss Ann Mason, county Home Demonstration agent, said Saturday.

This is a new contest for the 4-H club girls. Every 4-H club, in the states accepting this contest, may enter a member to compete for county, state and national awards. An "O" girl is an outstanding, all-around 4-H club girl.

The following New Hanover girls have entered the contest: Shirley Robinson, Evelyn Bender, Katherine Piner, Anna Lee Skipper, Jean Bostian, Ruth Bostian, Peggy Ridaught, Isabelle Lewis, Ruth Hoyle, Barbara Loadholt, Grace Hammond, Evelyn Futrelle, Harriette Gray, Mary Lou Eskridge, Mary Louise Galphin, Mary Frances Villa, Bettina Marable, Sara Katherine Jordan, Bettye Lou Leonard, Peggy Lee Nigh, Arlene Blohm, Myrtle Brittain, Lois Sly, Rebecca Ann Burnette, Martha Ellen Pate, Carolyn Shirer, Mary Glenn Manning, Jean Ammenhauser, Gay Cameron, Theda Davis, Mary Alice Borcell, Lena Clanton, Helen Gymtruk, Claire Barnes, Jane Hobbs, Doris Fales, Connie Porter, Ann Johnson and Jean Clemmons.

The objectives of the "O" contest are: to gain a broad understanding of the major phases of home making; to appreciate those factors that make for a happy family life; to participate in home activities as a member of the family group; to develop and maintain optimum physical and mental health; to learn to buy wisely and use intelligently farm and home resources to the end that family income may be well utilized and family goals attained; to develop those housekeeping skills and managerial abilities that make for a comfortable, satisfying home; to attain those desirable individual and social satisfactions involved in home-making.

Defense work and other projects have kept New Hanover 4-H and Service clubs busy during the past few months. In February and March every 4-H member promoted the 4-H Mobilization drive and many new members were added to the clubs.

During the past two weeks, 4-H club members have entered the scrap rubber campaign. The Myrtle Grove Senior 4-H club presented the best report in that drive. Orville Robinson and Harriette Vines, chairmen of the rubber campaign in their club, are said to have done a fine job on the rubber drive. Scrap iron and paper were also collected by members.

Many members who entered the Victory Garden Contest are now finding them profitable, according to Miss Mason. Practically all of the members of each club have a Victory garden.

Clubs are now being instructed in canning and the following vegetables have been canned by most of them: corn, butter beans, string beans, peas, beets and peaches.
