A Street In Cairo

WILMINGTON, N. C., MONDAY. JUNE 29, 1942

A contrast in ages is furnished on a street in Cairo, Egypt, when this fast jeep, driven by Master Sergt. Kindle Walston, of Louisville, Ky., passes a donkey cart loaded with natives. The men in the jeep are just a few of the U.S. troops stationed in the middle east under Maj. Gen. Russell L. Maxwell. Note that the natives carry umbrellas to shade themselves from the burning sun while the soldiers don't seem to mind it.
