

Fannie Cooper, Lieut. Pou Wed In Greenville

St. Paul's Episcopal Church Scene Of Ceremony, Bride Well Known In City

GREENVILLE, June 29.—In a simple but impressive ceremony on Thursday afternoon, June 25, at 6 o'clock in Saint Paul's Episcopal church in Greenville, Miss Fannie Cooper of Greenville, became the bride of Lieut. Edwin Smith, Pou of Raleigh and Denver, Colo. Only members of the immediate families and a few intimate friends witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. John S. Armfield in a setting of palms, ferns, white gladioli and cathedral candles.

A program of music rendered by Miss Marie Smith, cousin of the bride, at the organ and Mrs. J. Proctor, cousin of the bride, who was also soloist at the marriage of the bride's parents, included Schubert's "Serenade," Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," and Elizabeth's "Prayer" during the ceremony. Mrs. Proctor sang "Silent as Night" by Palm and "Beloved, It is Morn," by Alward.

Robert Davis of Farmville, and Bryan Carr of Wilson, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, acted as ushers.

Miss Mary Smith Cooper, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor and carried red roses. Lieut. Pou entered with his father, State Auditor George Ross Pou, best man. The bride was accompanied by her father, Lewis Ginter Cooper, who gave her in marriage.

Immediately following the ceremony, an informal gathering of friends was held at the home of the bride, where a wedding cake was cut, and refreshments served. A color scheme of green, pink, and white was carried out.

Immediately following, Lieut. and Mrs. Pou left for a short wedding trip after which they will go to Denver, Colo., where Lieut. Pou is stationed with the Air Corps, United States Army.

Mrs. Pou is the daughter of Lewis Ginter Cooper and the late Mrs. Cooper of Greenville and is a direct descendant of Chief Justice John Marshall and Governors Spotswood of Virginia. She was educated in the city schools, Fassifern, and National Park college.

Lieut. Pou is the son of State Auditor and Mrs. George Ross Pou of Raleigh and was formerly stationed at Miami Beach, Fla.

Why Charge Your Uncle Sam For That Old Junk Rubber?

BY RUTH MILLETT

NEW YORK, June 29.—There was a mountainous pile of old rubber in front of the filling station. Tons of old tires, mats, galoshes, balls, high boots.

It was an impressive sight. Asked if many of the folks who had brought the rubber in had wanted money for it, the filling station proprietor said: "Most of 'em did!"

That was just one station in one town—and so by itself it isn't important. But if it happened all over America it is important. Not because of the cost to Uncle Sam. But because it shows there is something wrong with us, something wrong with our attitude.

We know our government needs old rubber—needs it desperately. It ought to be a privilege, then, to rummage around our houses from attic to cellar and out to the garage to find every bit of old rubber we have and to take it down and turn it in—free.

Giving Uncle Sam our old rubber ought to give us a lift, make us feel for a little while that we are helping in a small way.

But if the majority of Americans took their rubber down and sold it to Uncle Sam—that's something else again. That doesn't show any enthusiasm, and joy at being able to be of some little help. That doesn't show any spirit.

The very idea of letting Uncle Sam pay for junk that is of no use to us—but vitally important to him. As long as we have that attitude we are just sitting around thinking of the government as something apart from us, and assuming that it is somehow up to the government to win this war for us.

It is all right for Uncle Sam to offer to pay for our old junk. If he didn't there are some folks who wouldn't bother to save it and turn it in. But if most of us are taking pay for the stuff we can no longer use, just because Uncle Sam needs it so badly he is willing to pay for it, then there's something radically wrong with our spirit and our attitude.

Let's hope that one filling station proprietor's experience wasn't typical.

MIND YOUR MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. When you ask a friend to buy tickets or some article for you, should you give him the money at the time or say, "I'll pay you later?"
2. If you borrow a trifling sum of money from a friend or fellow worker, should you make a point of paying it back promptly?
3. Should a woman who smokes never trouble to take her own cigarettes, figuring there will always be someone at hand to keep her supplied?
4. Should a house guest who plans to visit for a week or more take his sugar or his rationing card with him?
5. Should a house guest help with the work if the hostess does all or most of her housework?

What would you do if—
You go visiting with a very small child not used to eating at the table with grownups—
(a) Ask the hostess if you may feed him before the others eat?
(b) Put him up to the table beside you?

- Answers
1. Give him the money, as having to advance the money might inconvenience him.
 2. Yes.
 3. No. She should carry her own.
 4. Yes.
 5. Yes.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—

Cook Fruits Before Canning And Save Sugar For Uncle Sam

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer
"STRETCH your ration of canning sugar to the limit," Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Home Economics, urges America's homemakers.

"The special sugar allowed for canning fruit has been issued you in trust," she continues, "so that you may keep good food from going to waste. Every jar of fruit you put up helps lighten the load on commercial canneries and helps relieve overworked transportation facilities.

SUGAR-SAVING TIPS LISTED
Dr. Stanley gives these sugar-saving suggestions for the 1942 canning season:

Sweeten the fruit slightly and cook it in an open kettle, then pack it hot into jars in its own juice. That way you'll need much less sugar than if you pack the fruit cold, then cover it with a sugar-and-water syrup.

Packing fruit hot into containers accomplishes two other purposes. The precooking shrinks the fruit and makes it possible to make more economical use of limited jar space and rubbers. And it also cuts down on the time you have to process fruits in the water bath to kill the bacteria that may cause riles, for instance, need be processed only 5 minutes. Berries spoilage. A quart of precooked berry-packed raw and covered with hot syrup need 20 minutes processing in a water bath.

(See Wednesday's column for some more useful hints on fruit canning.)

Advertising Council Announces Intention Of Salvage Campaign

NEW YORK, June 29.—The Advertising Council announced today that a national advertising campaign to promote a national salvage program in cooperation with the government would be started July 13 through more than 11,000 newspapers.

The Council, a volunteer group composed of newspaper, magazine, radio and advertising representatives, said the petroleum, rubber and automotive industries would set up receiving centers to collect junk—such as old rubber, rags, rope, burlap bags and waste fats—needed by the government.

In addition to newspaper advertising, magazine pages and radio announcements would be used to "sell" the idea of salvage as a continuing effort for the duration of the war.

The Council said a $2,000,000 appropriation had been obtained from 362 industrial leaders who compose the American Industries Salvage Committee to finance the program as a patriotic contribution to the war.
