Will Be Held On Roof Garden Of Club On Wednesdays And Saturdays

Weekly informal dances on the roof garden at the Carolina Beach USO club were scheduled on each Wednesday and Saturday by the Service Men's council and Carolina Beach Dance club last week.

The next formal dance date was set for Thursday, August 6, with an orchestra furnishing the music. Softball league managers of service teams representing Fort Fisher and the Carolina Beach recreation area met with the council in the latter part of the session, and worked out plans for a season of softball.

The season will be divided into two halves, with the winner of the first half meeting in the winner of the second half in a three of five play-off series. The USO club will furnish the championship trophy.

Games between the two camps will be played on a home-and-home basis, with the official starting time set for 6 p. m. Full cooperation was assured the Service Men's council and managers by Colonel Nichols, commanding officer of Fort Fisher, and Lieutenant Colonel Gregorie, commanding officer of the Carolina Beach Recreational area.

TRIAL OF NAZIS PUSHED BY U. S.

Prosecution Announces That It Has 'Practically Completed Its Case'

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(AP)—In a burst of speed, the prosecution presented 14 witnesses against the eight Nazis on trial before a special military commission today and announced it had "practically completed its case."

It was the tenth day of the trial of the alleged saboteurs, landed by submarines on Long Island (N. Y.) and Florida beaches.

A statement from Maj. General Frank McCoy, president of the commission, identified today's witnesses as 12 FBI agents and two "FBI witnesses."

One FBI agent remained on the stand for 2 hours and 20 minutes of the morning session reading a document into the record and identifying clothing, money, and other articles belonging to the Florida group.

Defense attorneys cross-examined the agent "extensively," it was announced. The two identified as "FBI witnesses" testified only briefly.

Eleven FBI agents testified during the afternoon, and other documents were read into the record. Each witness was cross-examined, but the rapidity with which they appeared indicated it was not extensive.

The document read at the morning session, while not identified by General McCoy's statement, presumably was the purported confession of the Florida group that they were trained saboteurs sent to this country by Germany.

The prosecution completed its case against the New York group yesterday, and presentation of evidence against the Florida group started immediately.

SALESMEN SEEK ENOUGH GASOLINE

Charlotte's Traveling Men Instruct Group To Seek Audience With F. R.

CHARLOTTE, July 18.—(AP)—Charlotte traveling salesmen today instructed a committee to seek an audience with President Roosevelt in an effort to obtain enough gasoline to serve their territories under the ration plan effective Tuesday.

E. B. Vosburgh, who presided over a meeting Friday at which the traveling men appointed the committee, said that he had telegraphed Rep. James P. Richards of the Fifth South Carolina District asking the Charlotte's group be included in a hearing Richards was attempting to arrange for South Carolina and Georgia complainants.

Meanwhile, meetings similar to the protest gathering here were arranged elsewhere in the Carolinas. Salesmen in Winston-Salem, Greensboro and High Point will meet Wednesday night.

Vosburgh said that an organization to look after the interests of the traveling men during the emergency probably would grow out of the meetings.

RENEWALS PLEA WASHINGTON, July 18.—(AP)—Senator Maybank (D-SC) said today he had renewed his plea to the OPA and the oil coordinator's office to have more gasoline allotted traveling salesmen and others in South Carolina whose normal livelihood is dependent upon travel by automobile.

The senator said he had been assured his plea "would be taken under consideration."

He pointed out that increased use of the long distance telephone system for defense calls made it vital that traveling salesmen, wholesale grocery concerns and similar agencies be permitted full gasoline allowances for business travel.

Medical Care

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

All of our senses—sight, hearing, smell, feeling and taste itself combine to make a meal taste delicious. You go home at night and hear something sizzling in the kitchen and the sense of hearing gives you an anticipatory feeling of pleasure.

The famous experiments of Pavlov, the Russian physiologist, proved that the sight of food caused digestive secretions to start to flow when the sight was pleasurable and also dried them up when the spectacle was disgusting. Smell probably enters into taste more than either of these senses—in fact, it is almost a part of taste itself.

Just exactly what taste is, is quite as much of a mystery as what any of the other senses are. According to the physiologist there are four primary tastes, sweet, sour, salt and acid, and it can be proved by blindfolding a person and dipping a pledget of cotton in solutions of sugared water, salt, vinegar, and acid, that the tongue is divided into areas which appreciate these tastes and none other.

Mixture of Tastes But for most of us the pleasure of tasting an article of food does not depend upon its primary taste but upon a mixture of all of them. It would be hard for you to say whether such articles as meat and potatoes or bread and butter were sweet, sour, bitter or salt.

Hot chocolate, if it is not sweetened too much, can be analyzed into the four primary taste sensations, but hot chocolate really gives pleasure more by its smell than by any of the elements of the sense of taste.

Nobody is able to taste anything very much unless the mouth is moist or unless the article of food in moist. The taste buds in the mouth are pocketed in little wells and in order to reach them the article to be tasted must be in solution.

The part that taste plays in nutrition, in fact, in life and in civilization can hardly be exaggerated. Criminals and imbeciles are said to lack taste discrimination almost completely. Our senses have made our world for us and we have really investigated little else than what our senses are able to perceive.

Physicists have investigated the nature of light, sound, and weight because we see, hear, and feel. Taste has undoubtedly determined the nutrition of our bodies to the extent that we like the taste of substances which contain vitamins and tire of the monotony and insipidity of the substances which do not contain vitamins and minerals. For this reason I do not worry too much about the pronouncements of the laboratory scientists who think we are likely to get into a bad condition of nutrition because we do not eat the substances that have vitamins in them.

F. K. A.—If a woman has been told that her blood test is absolutely perfect, could she have amelanotic tumor? It seems to me that a cancerous condition in any part of the body would show up in the blood stream.

Answer: Cancer has no influence on any blood tests that are ordinarily given. There is no substance that occurs in the blood in the course of cancer which is diagnostic.

D. L. F.—What is the cause and remedy for car sickness and sea sickness?

Answer: The cause of both is the motion of the train or ship, which moves the fluid in the semi-circular canals of the middle ear about. No remedy is very good, but any kind of a headache powder will help.
