

BADGE SELECTED FOR CHEST DRIVE

'Little Red Feather' Will Mark Subscribers To Financial Campaign

The "little red feather" will be the "style" in Wilmington for the next two weeks.

The red feather, and red feather stickers, will be given to each subscriber to this year's War Chest campaign, and they will be urged to wear the feather and place the sticker in their windows.

Campaign leaders suggested yesterday that all early subscribers wear the feathers and display the stickers which have been selected as "badges of distinction for the all-out united campaign."

Plans for the campaign are progressing on a schedule with the intensive effort set to get underway Tuesday night, when Chest workers, officials, members of agencies, boards and agency staffs participating in the chest will meet in Thalian hall for the kickoff meeting.

Plans for the Tuesday night program are nearing completion. There will be a master of ceremonies for the program, which will get underway at 8 p.m., following the Community and War Chest parade, starting at 7 p.m. Harriss Newman, general chairman of the drive, will address the rally.

ELECTED

GREENSBORO, Nov. 14.—Miss Estelle Mitchell, of Greensboro, was elected secretary-treasurer of the North Carolina chapter of the American Association of French Teachers at the organization's fall business meeting held this morning at 9:30 o'clock in the Students building of the Woman's college.

Miss Mitchell will replace Miss Ruth Shaver, on leave from Woman's college to serve with the Waacs.

Sunday School Lesson

Text: Genesis 27:30-35; Matthew 5:31, 32; Luke 12:13-15
By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

The things that mar family life are mostly the things that mar life in general and in all social contacts. But there is, this difference: in general if we do not like people we can avoid them, or if people do not like us and are irritated by our ways and words, we can also avoid them or they can avoid us. But within the family we have to live together whether we like it or not, unless we are willing to face some crucial disruption.

Accordingly, family life calls for a greater measure of wisdom, restraint, and considerable conduct than is called for in one's general life and contacts. Most of the trouble in family life comes from the failure to take these things into account. The whole condition of family life makes much forbearance necessary as well as a large amount of constructive kindness.

Our lesson consists mainly of the story of Jacob and Esau. Jacob in his dealing with his brother was inordinately ambitious and selfish to the point of meanness and criminal deception. What he did, in our day, would be indictable in the courts of law. Esau was easy-going and slack. But both brothers, as we saw in a few lessons ago, turned out a great deal better in later life. Jacob's energetic ambition became tempered by a sense of responsibility while Esau's easy-going slackness developed into a rather fine and beautiful magnanimity.

But why spend too much time upon a story, the points and teachings of which stand out so plainly? Why not get to some application to facts and cases of family life today?

Here the New Testament helps. One portion in our lesson deals with that vexed problem of marriage and divorce. It is too large and too difficult a question to deal with here, but one bold, clear fact stands out, viz., that there can be no happy marriage where there is not loyalty between husband and wife. One might say that love comes first, but there are times when duty and loyalty will tide over a situation and give anchorage and safety when love is tested and strained.

The other passage deals with the old questions of quarrels about financial advantage and inheritance. Brotherhood is often tested where there is a sense of being treated unfairly, or where on in a family has profited to the disadvantage of others. It is better to be brotherly than to be resentful. There is no other way of avoiding quarrels and disruption. Paul expresses the law of the Christian life and a good interpretation of the Christian way in happy family life: "Love seeketh not her own."

TO AVOID THE RISK OF DISAPPOINTMENT SHOP EARLY FOR CHRISTMAS BECAUSE THESE ARE WAR TIMES

For many years Belk-Williams has urged you to shop early for Christmas, because you could shop more leisurely and satisfactorily. But this Christmas we urge you to shop early for the good of the country as well as yourself.

Among the many problems confronting us this Christmas is the problem of delivery and transportation.

Rubber, gasoline and every wheel of transportation must be conserved for the war effort. Curtailment of delivery is no longer voluntary with us. It is now an order from the Office of Defense Transportation, that delivery truck mileage be substantially reduced under these circumstances. Usual delivery service will be impossible.

Therefore, CARRY EVERY PURCHASE HOME WITH YOU THAT YOU POSSIBLY CAN AT THE TIME OF PURCHASE. Gift wrap each present yourself. This is a personal touch you'll be able to give that can't be duplicated. By gift wrapping your packages you will be helping to alleviate the acute man power problem which all of us face this Wartime Christmas.

Again we urge you to Shop Early this Christmas, for a great deal of early buying will make it possible for us to give everyone better service, even under Wartime conditions.

The Postoffice requests mailing not later than December 10th on Christmas parcels.
