

Miss Thornton Will Take Part In Textile Show

RALEIGH, April 21.—Miss Frances Thornton of Wilmington, student in St. Mary's school, will be one of the 73 girls participating in the 16th annual Style Show which the State college Textile school will present April 29.

The girls, representing seven North Carolina colleges, will model clothes made by themselves from fabrics designed and woven by students in the Textile school. Dean Thomas Nelson, head of the Textile school for 42 years, originated the style revue in 1928 to boost the use of cotton in feminine wearing apparel.

Samples of the fabrics are submitted to the college stylists, who make their choice and then work on their garments as part of their studies in home economics. Many types of costumes, ranging from riding habits to play suits and bridal outfits, are modeled at the Style Show, which always attracts a capacity crowd to Pullen Hall.

Participating colleges this year, listed with the home economics teachers who will accompany the girls to the Style Show, are Greensboro college, Miss Helen Louise Roberts; St. Mary's school, Miss Elizabeth Bason; Peace Junior college, Miss Bertie Lee Whitesides; Louisburg college, Mrs. I. D. Moon; High Point college, Miss Ada B. Johnson; Meredith college, Miss Jennie M. Hanyen; and Flora Macdonald college, Miss Katherine Cameron.

Girls entering the Style Show represent 53 North Carolina communities and five other states: Virginia, South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee and Texas.

Beauties' Hints Boys In Uniform Want Girls To Be Good Listeners

MRS. MOORE, USO Leader.

By ALICIA HART You modern charmers, who want to be popular with the boys in uniform, would do well to follow the old-fashioned rule: be a good listener.

So says Mrs. Maurice T. Moore, leader of a half million young women volunteer hostesses in USO club and units, who has found that faithful followers of this rule never run the risk of being wall flowers.

The girl who not only listens but looks interested in what her partner has to say, finds plenty of young men wanting to cut in on her all evening long.

"That doesn't mean a girl has to be perennially stricken speechless," Mrs. Moore wants it understood. "But knowing how to listen intelligently and keep the conversation going, will make her much more popular than trying to command and force the conversation."

War Kitchen Waste Is Treason Even In Kitchens

BY MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX Jellied left-over meat, fowl, or left-over raw or cooked vegetables make substantial luncheon and supper dishes. They present food the second time in a new guise and with different flavor. That is why these recipes are important in the war kitchen where waste is a form of domestic disloyalty.

Jellied Meat Loaf (Served 4-6)

One envelope plain unflavored gelatin, 1 1/2 cup cold water, 2 bouillon cubes, 1 1/2 cups boiling water, or 1 1/2 cups boiling clear stock, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup chopped meat, 1/2 cup chopped celery, 1/2 cup diced left-over vegetables, or 1/4 cup each chopped celery and shredded raw carrot.

Soften gelatin in cold water. Dissolve bouillon cubes in boiling water, or use boiling clear stock. Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add lemon juice. Cool, and when mixture begins to thicken, fold in chopped meat and chopped celery (or left-over vegetables or chopped celery and shredded raw carrot). Turn into 1-quart mold or loaf pan that has been rinsed out in cold water first. Chill. When firm, unmold onto salad greens and serve with real mayonnaise.

Jellied Vegetable Salad (Serves 4-6)

One envelope plain unflavored gelatin, 1 1/2 cup cold water, 1 cup hot water or vegetable liquid, 1 1/4 cup mild vinegar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 or 2 tablespoons sugar, dash of pepper, 1 tablespoon finely minced onion, 1 1/2 cups diced or shredded vegetables, cooked or raw.

Soften gelatin in cold water. Dissolve in hot water or vegetable liquid. Add vinegar, lemon juice, salt, sugar, pepper and onion. Cool and when mixture begins to thicken, fold in diced or shredded vegetables. Turn into molds that have been rinsed out in cold water first. Chill. When firm, unmold onto salad greens and serve with real mayonnaise or French dressing.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit, hot cross buns, coffee, milk. LUNCHEON: Jellied vegetable salad, lettuce, mayonnaise, wholewheat toast, jam, tea, milk.

DINNER: Fried fish, tartar sauce, parsley, new potatoes, asparagus, hot mock Holland.
