

16 Nurses' Aides Complete Course At James Walker

Mrs. Sandy Marks Instructor, New Classes Will Be Started Here Shortly

Sixteen volunteer nurses' aides received certificates Friday following completion of the 80-hour course in nursing and will commence their volunteer work in the James Walker Memorial hospital and the Baby hospital at Wrightsville Sound.

All nurses aide graduates are eligible to work in any hospital where nurses' aides are accepted and a number of new volunteers are needed in Wilmington. A new course will be started shortly as soon as a quota is completed and all interested persons are asked to call the Red Cross office in the customhouse. It is hoped that the local women will take advantage of this course.

Friday's class was under the instruction of Mrs. Sandy Marks. Those receiving certificates include:

Mrs. E. R. Beckwith, Mrs. Ellen Crawford, Mrs. E. J. Conely, Mrs. E. C. Craft, Jr., Miss Florence Pearsall, Mrs. Platt W. Davis, Jr., Mrs. R. E. Drury, Mrs. Catherine Ensey, Mrs. Roy W. ### Doctors Ponder New Problem: Rationing Vs. Invalids' Diet

By BETTY MacDONALD WASHINGTON, May 28.— Because so many doctors have appealed to OPA for aid in dealing with special invalid cases under the rationing program, a committee of physicians and specialists has been formed to decide dietary policies keyed to needs of invalids and special diseases. Included on the committee are experts in internal medicine, surgery, obstetrics, pediatrics, dermatology and diabetes.

Wartime Rule: Don't Waste Others' Time

By RUTH MILLETT If you want to be popular in wartime, be a time-saver. Nearly everybody is busy and overworked these days, yet it is surprising how many people go right on wasting other people's time.

There is the man who stops for a personal conversation with a clerk while others stand in line to be waited on.

There is the woman who still has to look in every store in town before she makes a small purchase.

There is the woman who uses the telephone for frequent "nice long talks" with busy friends.

There is the long-winded talker who can't make the simplest business transaction without telling some over-worked, hurried person all about himself.

And, of course, there is the woman who can't make up her mind whether to buy this or to buy that, even when the choice is no more important than between two cans of corn. She almost always debates with herself out loud while the other customers stand and wait.

"EARBENDERS" Then there is the man who loves to hear himself talk and so has something to say on every matter brought up in a business meeting. He can delay any meeting a full hour, when he isn't even in top form.

And there are the women who never have bus fare ready, and who have to dig around in the bottoms of their handbags when ever they pay a check.

They are all time-wasters, and the sad part of it is that it is time belonging to other people that they insist on wasting. Once their time-wasting was just a slight nuisance. In wartime it becomes a serious offense.

Housework Is Duty Of Entire Family

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX The wife and mother who works in a war plant and also runs her home deserves help from other members of the family in preparing meals. Ida Bailey Allen is very emphatic about that in her new book "Double-Quick Cooking."

"Every home presents different problems, so each woman must plan a schedule for herself," she writes. "Right here and now I would like to say emphatically that if the pay envelope is being turned into the family exchequer, or is being saved toward a home, or used for the paying of family debts, she should not be expected to do alone the work of a housewife."

From "Double-Quick Cooking" come these recipes:

Dropped Soy and Oat Cookies One egg, 1-2 cup melted shortening, 1 cup brown sugar, or 1-2 cup granulated sugar and 1-2 cup molasses, 1-1-4 cups enriched flour, 1-2 cup soy flour, 1-4 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cups rolled oats, 12 cup salted soy beans.

Separate the egg; add the yolk to the melted shortening and sugar and beat well. Sift the dry ingredients together and add to the first mixture, together with the rolled oats and salted soy beans. Fold in the egg white, whipped stiff. The mixture will be quite stiff. Drop by small teaspoonfuls onto an oiled cookie sheet, keeping the cookies an inch apart; bake in a hot oven (375 degrees F.) 10 minutes.

Home-Made Fruit Juice Delicious fruit juices may be homemade from strawberries, a combination of strawberries with rhubarb; raspberries; cherries; currants; a combination of pears and plums; or peaches with plums grape juice or apple juice combined with any fruit.

MONDAY'S MENU (Eat the basic 7 every day) BREAKFAST: Homemade fruit juices, scrambled eggs with fried tomato rings, toast, apple jelly, coffee, milk. LUNCHEON: Toasted cheese sandwiches, watercress with salt and pepper, dropped soy and oatmeal cookies, tea, milk. DINNER: Tomato juice, minced leftover chicken with chopped olives on wholewheat toast, potato cakes, green beans, bread, butter or fortified margarine, stewed rhubarb, soy and oatmeal cookies, tea, milk.

ENGINEER AIDES BUY MANY BONDS

Employees At District Office Put Much Money Into Securities

Employees of the Wilmington district U. S. Engineer office, in addition to handling the many duties connected with the construction of the Army camps and airfields throughout the state, are helping to win the war by making substantial war bond purchases.

Since last October, $71,339.75 in cash purchases of war bonds have been made by approximately 350 government employees. In addition, many of the Engineer office employees have elected to purchase war savings bonds via a payroll deduction plan, a total of $54,343.90 having been invested in the series E type of government securities. In April, $7,800.00 in war bonds were purchased via the payroll deduction plan, exclusive of cash sales of $21,723.40 made to the U. S. Engineer office employees during the same month. The totals to exceed those of April.

The bonds have had a value ranging from the popular $25 maturity value to the $1,000 class. An increasing number of employees are electing to make their war bond purchases through the payroll deduction plan, it was pointed out.

The majority of bond purchasers among the U. S. Engineer personnel usually elect to name a beneficiary rather than a beneficiary when signing up for the bonds, it was learned.

For the convenience of employees wishing to make cash purchases of war bonds and stamps, sales are made from the desk of the Engineer office receptionist, located on the third floor of the Customhouse building. Visitors are also welcome to make any desired purchases, though such sales are not counted in the total of the district office.

TAXICAB STRIKE SEEMS AVERTED Drivers Call On Mayor To Ask For Parking Space In City

What apparently threatened to be a widespread taxi strike here Friday morning seemed to have been averted by the city's reiteration of a promise to provide space for taxis at the union bus terminal and the railroad station.

Mayor Edgar L. Yow said that a large delegation of taxi drivers called on him Friday with a petition asking for space for taxis at the two stations.

He said he told the delegation of men, who apparently left their taxis to make a formal call on the city government, that the council last Wednesday had approved the allocation of parking space to the taxis and that the spaces would be marked off within the near future.

Operators of the larger taxi companies here said their drivers had not struck, although one declared that his men "had taken time off to organize."

The taxis were back in operation Friday afternoon.

TEACHER NAMED FOR RIFLE TEAM

V. L. Smith Adult Instructor For Sons Of Legion Group

Succeeding J. B. Dubois, who has moved from the city, V. L. Smith of Wilmington has been named adult instructor for the Sons of the American Legion Rifle team. It was announced Friday by Edmund McLaurin, certified instructor of the National Rifle association.

Smith, a former Boy Scout official, and McLaurin, who has long been interested in the training of junior marksmen, will jointly conduct small arms training schools on Wednesday night of each week in the exhibit building of the stadium for the purpose of teaching teen age boys of potential draft age the fundamentals of rifle marksmanship.

Classes have been underway since the first of the year, when McLaurin and Dubois first organized separate groups of interested boys and began qualifying the trainees under the war time training program of the National Rifle association and the War Department. To date, members of the groups, using rifles of the 22 caliber class, have earned numerous medal awards and diplomas. Several qualifications are expected to be completed shortly.

The junior riflemen fire on the indoor range of the Wilmington Rifle and Pistol club, senior unit, through the courtesy of that organization, McLaurin said.
