YOUR GAS HOT WATER HEATER

Serving Your Home For The Duration

Your present Gas Hot Water Heater must continue to provide hot water for you day in and day out until new ones can be manufactured following an Allied Victory. To get the best service from your Gas Hot Water Heater, and to conserve gas—which is so essential in the production of war equipment—follow these simple suggestions.

- * Set thermostat at 120 deg. F to 140 deg. F for general purposes.
- Remember a small amount of hot water will warm a large amount of cold water.
- Don't let hot water run continuously as in rinsing dishes.
- Avoid waste of hot water through dripping faucets.
- Keep gas burner clean.
- If pilot is extinguished, follow manufacturer's directions for relighting.
- * If heater is storage type, drain out a few quarts of water by means of faucet at bottom about once a month to prevent sediment from gathering.

Richmond No. 7 of A Series Recalling the Battle Cries of Famous American Heroes

"We Have Met The Enemy ... and They Are Ours"

COUNDS like Midway, or the Bismark Sea, yet the story is 133 years old. At 2:30 P. M., crushing disaster; at 3 P. M., smashing victory.

The outcome of the Battle of Lake Erie, in September, 1813, was due to the dauntless determination of a man who wouldn't give up despite terrific odds. The English sank his man-of-war, but in a small open boat . . . fragile target of waves and shot . . . Commodore Perry rowed through a hail of death to renew the fight from another ship.

That famous victory of the past is buried in history books . . . but Perry's will-to-win strikes blow after blow for Freedom and Democracy in the Southwest Pacific today.
