

AIR HERO TELLS ABOUT INVASION

A description of the invasion, from the standpoint of a fighter pilot, was given by a Wilmington air hero Major John A. Carey, from Allied Supreme Headquarters in England Sunday over NBC's "Army Hour".

Major Carey's wife lives at 27 Jackson Drive, Lake Forest. He is squadron leader at an American fighter base in England.

The officer served in the African theater of operations from June 1942 to August, 1944, and has participated in four invasions. He was presented the Silver Star for landing behind enemy lines in Tunisia and capturing 97 Germans and Italians.

Major Carey also is the wearer of the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Purple Heart with one cluster and the Air Medal with 21 clusters. He went overseas for the second time Christmas and in March was sent to Italy where he took part in the Cassino action. He recently was returned to England to fight in the invasion.

Cuba Intends To Buy Many U. S. War Bonds

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—A $10,000 war bond was purchased today in the name of Fulgencio Batista, retiring president of Cuba, and a war finance committee spokesman said it was the "forerunner of a substantial amount to be purchased by the republic of Cuba."

William Richmond, deputy executive manager of the war finance committee, said President Batista informed him of Cuba's intentions in a telephone conversation yesterday.

The $10,000 bond was bought by Roberto Hernandez, consul general of Cuba, who said President Batista "feels that because of Cuba's participation in this war alongside of the Allies that he wants to do his share in cooperating."

Bond headquarters for $50,000 for the purchase of bonds yesterday morning.

The Wilmington Furniture company more than doubled its goal by selling over $6,000 worth of bonds yesterday. Firm officials said that the 10 employees of the company expected to meet their $3,000 goal daily until the campaign is closed.

Three Bluetenthal fighter pilots, Lieut. Col. Andrew J. Reynolds, Capt. Robert J. Weaver and Lt. MacArthur Powers, stressed the importance of having equipment on the fighting fronts to turn the odds in favor of the Allies when they addressed employees of retail stores in the Bailey theater yesterday morning at the opening of the drive.

Walter J. Cartier, speaking on behalf of the merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce, reminded the employees of the tremendous importance in opening of the war loan drive on a successful basis.

Lt. Col. N. W. Haner, acting district engineer of the U. S. District Engineers, Wilmington division, issued a bulletin to his employees emphasizing the Service Command goal of $12,000 for the Engineer department during the months of June and July. He stated, "I am calling on you to meet this challenge, to show the same courageous spirit that you have manifested in the past, and answer the call of the Fifth War Loan."

Major J. C. Bell, of Camp Le-jeune, made an appeal to the employees of the North Carolina Shipbuilding company to support the invasion by building more ships and buying more bonds at the opening of the Fifth War Loan drive at the shipyard.

Major Bell, war bond officer at the huge Marine establishment in Onslow county, declared he wanted the workers "to know that the boys over there realize the importance of the home front in achieving victory." He added that the fighting forces appreciate the important work being done in the country's war plants and shipyards today.

Officials of the shipbuilding company disclosed that its goal has been set at $250,000 in extra bonds in addition to the regular purchases through payroll deductions.

Moore's Creek Park May Be Enlarged

Donation of not more than 100 acres of land to add to the Moore's Creek National Military park has been proposed in congress, it was learned here today.

According to reports, the house has passed and sent to the senate a bill authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to accept the donation.

The Interior department reported that several interested in the proper development of the park have offered to acquire the additional land and donate it to the government.

Three-Year-Old Girl Launches Bond Drive By Opening Piggy Banks

ASHEVILLE, June 12.—(AP)—A blonde three-year-old girl launched the Fifth War Loan drive in Asheville and Blandcombe today when she opened two piggy banks in the Bank of Asheville and purchased $10 in war stamps.

She was Barbara Anne Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond M. Robinson of 62 Fifth Avenue, West Asheville. She has been saving since November, and she hasn't bought a piece of her dearly loved candy since that time.

ABC Officer Declares Bootlegging On Increase

Eleven illicit distilleries were uncovered and destroyed here during the month of May, it was disclosed yesterday by Earl S. Bland, chief of ABC police. That number far exceeds any recorded for a monthly period during the past two years, Bland asserted, and is an accurate indication that "bootlegging is on the increase" in New Hanover county.

All the stills destroyed last month by the ABC officers, with the assistance of Alcoholic Tax unit police, "were mashed in with sugar mash, showing that the bootleggers are obtaining their sugar from illegal sources," Bland added.

Thrusts below Cherbourg, it added.

The drive on Cherbourg and the west coastal roads were facilitated by the securing of additional road crossings over coastal inundations made by the Germans, the communiqué said. The seizure of Carantan and its sluice gates also will enable the Americans to drain off large areas flooded by the Germans.

Confirming field dispatches which said the Germans had not yet shown any sign of mounting a major counterattack with reserve forces, headquarters said the enemy "is unable to take his armor out of the battle to rearm for a large attack because he apparently lacks infantry to hold the ground."
