

David Harriss' Entertain Sunday With Cocktail-Luncheon At Club

Mr. and Mrs. David S. Harriss charmingly entertained a number of their friends at a cocktail buffet luncheon Sunday at the Cape Fear club, Second and Chestnut streets, from 12:30 until 3 o'clock. The upper floor of the club was brilliantly decorated with southern smilax, numerous poinsettias, and red candles.

Mrs. Harriss chose for her party a modish frock of black crepe with touches of lime green and a shoulder corsage of purple orchids. The dining room the long banquet table was covered with a beautiful maderia cloth and had a center arrangement of poinsettias with two five-branched silver candelabra holding burning red tapers. Large silver trays containing a varied assortment of luncheon delicacies completed the pretty picture.

Around one hundred guests were present.

Nancy Byrd Green, Author's Daughter, Weds In California

Miss Nancy Byrd Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Green of Chapel Hill and Santa Monica, California, and Samuel Owen Cornwell, Midshipman, USNR, son of Professor and Mrs. Oliver K. Cornwell, of Chapel Hill, were married on the afternoon of Christmas Day in the patio garden of the bride's parents in Santa Monica, California. The Rev. Kenneth Worthington Cary was the officiating minister. The professional and recessional wedding music was played by Mrs. Nancy Kendall-Robinson, former piano teacher of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore the wedding gown of her maternal grandmother, Mrs. George W. Lay, and the veil worn by her grandmother and also by her mother. The gown, of ivory corded silk was fashioned in the style of the period with long fluted leg-o-mutton sleeves, high collar and flaring skirt extended into a train. She carried an old-fashioned bridal bouquet of cream roses, sweetpeas and gardenias. Her ivory tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms.

The bridesmaids, Miss Betsy Green and Miss Janet Green, sisters of the bride, wore identical replicas of the bridal gown, carried out in pale sea-blue taffeta. They carried bouquets of pink camellias and sweetpeas.

The bride, preceded by the bridesmaids, came down the outer stairs into the patio garden where the ceremony took place against a bank of pine and Victorian box, decorated with white candles and tall vases of white chrysanthemums.

Following the wedding, the small group of relatives and intimate friends gathered in the poinsettia-decorated studio of the bride's father for the cutting of the bride's cake. Then the couple left for a short trip to Idylwild and Palm Springs. For traveling the bride wore a hyacinth blue suit with black accessories, a black hat trimmed with white fur banding and the gardenia corsage from her wedding bouquet.

Mrs. Cornwell is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and a member of Phi Beta Kappa. The bridegroom also graduated from the University where he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He was in training in the Medical Corps, USNR, at Chapel Hill and at the Cornell Medical School. He has recently been discharged from the Naval Reserve.

The couple will make their home in New York City where Mr. Cornwell will finish his training at Cornell Medical school.

Informal Party Given By Jones And Creekmores

Mr. and Mrs. C. David Jones with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver M. Creekmore, delightfully entertained a few friends informally on Saturday, from 5 to 7 o'clock at their home, 210 Ann street.

The hosts and hostesses received their guests in the prettily decorated living room, and in the dining room, Mrs. T. F. Smith presided at the punch bowl.

The dining room table was attractively arranged with red gladioli and white chrysanthemums in a silver bowl flanked by four silver candlesticks holding red candles.

Tempting refreshments were served to around 50 guests who called during the cocktail hours.

During a total eclipse of the sun, the sun is virtually blacked out because the moon, which comes between the earth and the sun, has no atmosphere to bend the sun's rays.

FOR THE

New Year

With Mutual Confidence . . . .

We think of our customers as neighbors in whom we have complete confidence and who have complete confidence in us.

We believe the merchandise you buy at Todd's gives full satisfaction, that it is exactly what you expected to get for the money you spent.

We like to think that our service pleases . . . that you receive equal courtesy and attention, whether you buy a small table, a dinette suite, or a full house of furniture, that this is your friendly furniture store.

We feel that the size of your purchase is secondary to your coming here to make your purchase. This is the bone and sinew of our existence.

We think of this store as part of the community. To serve cheerfully, to profit reasonably, to feel that everything delivered "to your home from ours" creates mutual good will . . . these are the ideals on which we are trying to build our business.

"Mutual Confidence" is more than a phrase with us—it is part of our business policy.
