

HESS TOLD SIMON OF PEACE OFFERS

NUERNBERG, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Rudolf Hess told Viscount Simon during a three-hour conference in Wales June 9, 1941, that Adolf Hitler had approved the peace proposals which Hess brought to Britain, it was learned today.

Although Hitler did not know of his deputy's intended flight to Britain, Hess obtained his agreement to each point of the peace plan through carefully phrased conversations during the preceding 11 months, he claimed.

A certified 71-page stenographic record of Hess' conference with Simon revealed that the then British Lord Chancellor, acting in the name of the British government, went to the Abergavenny war prison detention camp especially to interview the former deputy fuhrer.

Hess told Simon that Hitler hoped the war would bring England and Germany closer together. "We all believed we could conquer England sooner or later," the record quoted Hess. "I was of the opinion we must demand from England restitution of goods such as the value of the merchant fleet which was taken from us at Versailles but the fuhrer contradicted me on that point."

"He was of the opinion that the war could possibly lead to closer rapprochement between the two countries and said even if victorious we should not impose any severe conditions on a country with whom we desired to come to an agreement."

"Therefore, I thought if the people of England knew this we might possibly arrive at an understanding."

Over The Airways

By BEN McDONALD

There is a real treat in store tomorrow night for those radio listeners who cannot take in the March of Dimes ball at the Cape Fear Armory. For the first time in this area the affair will be remoted over WMFD. One full hour of a "blow by blow" description of the highlights will come over the air waves between 10 and 11 p.m. Personalities will bring a bit of chat—the Lejeune band will give out with the music—the shangles and dangles of the lady guests will come in for their share of the miked description of the festivities,—and it is hoped to be able to announce the total sum of the contributions from New Hanover county. Oh yes this feature comes to you through the cooperation of the Drive committee, Post No. 10, American Legion, and the management of station WMFD.

DO YOU REMEMBER

The A. C. radio replaced the cat whisker and the one dial control took over from the three or four dial job. . . . Yes it's been a long time. . . . Yet counted in years it is hardly yesterday. . . . The swap-over from a whole cabinet full of batteries. . . . (A) batteries, (B) batteries and even (C) batteries cluttered up the house and were the cause of many a headache when they decided to go dead in the middle of a favorite program. . . . and when a grateful public were introduced to a strictly all-electric radio, then the skeptics decided that radio was really here to stay. . . . It was about that time that Wilmingtonians were introduced to their second radio station. . . . The Federal Communications commission granted the Wilmington Radio association, a non profit corporation, a fifty watt station and assigned the call letters WRBT. . . . The station was located in the Calvary church building on the corner of Fourth and Brunswick streets. . . . This was quite an improvement on the first installation, and Wilmington really opened its radio doors to messages and music broadcast on a limited schedule,—for those were the days when most radio stations had a special schedule. . . . It was a rarity to find a station broadcasting during the entire day. Rather the various stations would have a schedule in the morning, another around noon, then return around five thirty or six for the night. . . . Networks were only for the larger stations, then usually five hundred or a thousand watts. . . . So at the end of a broadcast schedule the announcer would sign off for a few hours. . . . Of course that was quite an item in the economic operation, and in those days of scarce commercials, the economic problem was a shall we say problem. . . . Advertisers doubted the value of radio and radio men lay awake at night trying to cook up methods of convincing them that the value was there. . . . Well WRBT had an eventful life, presenting to Wilmington most of the local talent available at that time, and relying a great deal on phonograph records to entertain its listeners. . . . However several notables were presented during the life of this station including Gene Austin and Sigmund Spaeth the tune detective. . . . Old timers will remember that the afternoon Gene Austin was presented over the local station, it was necessary to call out a special police detail to handle the thousands of interested spectators and the hundreds of cars that jam-packed north Fourth street. . . . In fact some wisecrack made the remark that Austin had more live audience than radio listeners that afternoon. . . . Be that as it may WRBT had a long and useful life as will be outlined in another of these epistles in a future "Over The Airways."

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Samuel C. Epes of Richmond, Va., convicted here last September of the murder of his wife, today was granted 60 more days in which to prepare an appeal to the State Supreme court.

The additional time was granted by Chief Justice Gordon D. Baker on the request of Epes' attorney, Edgar A. Brown, president of the South Carolina Senate. YOUNG COLONEL VISITS IN CITY

Colonel Post Loisel, 29, one of the youngest full colonels in the ground forces of the U. S. Army, has returned to Wilmington on terminal leave after nearly five years service with the Anti-Air craft command.

Entering the Army March 1, 1941, from Wilmington at Camp Davis, Col. Loisel went on active duty as a first lieutenant in the South Carolina Senate. He was promoted to lieutenant colonel Jan. 26, 1944, and placed in command of the 9th Airborne AA battalion at Gusap, New Zealand.

In June of the past year he was given command of the 945th AAA automatic weapons battalion at Leyte, in the Philippines, where staying for the projected invasion of Kyushu, Japan, was underway. Col. Loisel said that the invasion date had been set for November 1, 1945 when the war ended.

The 9th Army corps then selected the 945th to be trained as military police for the occupation of the island of Hokaido, north of the main Japanese island Honshu. Col. Loisel left headquarters in Asahigawa for Kokohoma shortly afterwards and sailed from that port Dec. 1. His terminal leave began December 25, 1945. Prior to entering the service, he was connected with the Quotations bureau of the freight traffic department of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad and returns to that department on March 1. He is a native of Anderson, S. C., coming to Wilmington in 1937. He wears the New Guinea and Northern and Southern Philippines battle stars on his Southwest Pacific campaign ribbon and awarded the Philippines Liberty medal.

More than 12,000,000 U. S. people enter contests every year, 900 of whom are professionals.
