VFW AIRS PROTEST ON HOUSING SETUP

Hanson Says No Refusal Made Because Matter Not Near Decision

HIGH POINT, Sept. 28 — (AP) — State headquarters of the Veterans of Foreign Wars issued a statement here today saying it had protested to the Federal Public Housing Administration against its refusal to sell a 584-unit surplus FHA development at Wilmington to a group of World War veterans organized as "Veterans Homes, Inc."

The statement quoted Omar B. Ketchum, national legislative director of the VFW, as charging that the FPHA action was "discriminating against our non-profit veterans group" and not in line with the intentions of Congress in providing for disposal of surplus property.

NO REFUSAL

A. R. Hanson, of Atlanta, assistant director of Real Estate and Disposition of the FPHA, said last night that no refusal has been made to anyone regarding the proposed sale of the Lake Forest development.

Yugoslavia Threatens Not To Sign Accord

ence Monday when the question of the statute under which the proposed free city of Trieste shall be governed will come before the Italian political commission, scene of today's hostilities.

The threat to reject the Italian Peace Treaty was made by Yugoslav Foreign Minister Edouard Kardelj who said flatly that if the conference approved the French line:

"The Yugoslav delegation has no other choice but to state in the name of the government that it will not sign the Peace Treaty with Italy and will not withdraw its army from northwest Istria."

He charged that Yugoslavia had worked hard to get an unanimous

Sen. Tom Connally, (D., Tex.) branded the Yugoslavs as truculent and undemocratic and said the prestige of the conference was at stake if it approved the Yugoslav proposal under Kardelj's threat.

He said the Yugoslav attitude "does not frighten anyone."

on expectations that fall runs of cattle and hogs will get under way soon.

"As to the arguments of critics that restoration of price control has brought about the present meat situation, the OPA official said: "Price control on meat does not reduce the total supply that will be available to consumers until the end of the short supply period."

"On the contrary," it should actually increase the total amount. With predictable prices farmers and ranchers will be able to plan for better herds and droves."

Dardanelles Demands Renewed By Russians

Two of the Russian note's sharp-est passages were these:

(1) If Turkey should take military measures with non-Black Sea powers after refusing Soviet proposals, "this, of course, would run directly counter to the interests of the Black Sea powers."

Further, the Russians charged, Turkey had reacted these conclusions about its sovereign rights "without and concrete considerations from the Soviet government . . . and has not even made an attempt at joint examination of the Soviet proposals."

Then according to radio Moscow and dispatches from Moscow, Russia pledged non-fringement of Turkey's sovereignty in return for a tight Soviet-Turkish defense of the Dardanelles, Turkey's continued refusal to submit to joint defense of the strait, it said, "deprived the Black Sea powers of the possibility of guaranteeing the security of this area."

"The Soviet government declares that its note of Aug. 7 is in full agreement with the principals of the United Nations and not only answers the full interests of international trade but creates conditions for the maintenance of security of the Black Sea powers, thus contributing to the strengthening of world peace," the Russian reply said.

government took a stand it could never retreat in any major particular.

The Turkish note to Russia, rejecting Russia's initial proposals on Aug. 22, was based on American and British assurances of support. The best opinion here is that Anglo-American envoys in Ankara will have reaffirmed this support automatically in response to the new Russian action, but that formal reassurances to the Turks may be expected by late next week.

PITTSBURGH POWER STRIKE CONTINUES

streets were deserted and gloomy, although on Saturday night they are usually flooded with laughing amusement-seekers.

Call On Mayor

Tonight executives of the bus and trolley unions announced that if pickets are removed permanently, their men would return to work. They asked Mayor David L. Lawrence to find a way to make Mueller withdraw his pickets.

Ironically, these same unions joined in the wage labor protest when the city tried to employ an anti-strike injunction to prevent the power union from walking out.

An overflow mass meeting of the union tonight voted against acceptance of the company wage and pension offer, and as a result, Mueller said, "the strike is still on."

He explained that the company pension plan provided that the union members contribute up to 2 per cent of their earnings to the plan, thus making the wage increase only 3 per cent.

An estimated 50,000 persons had been made jobless by the strike, and losses in wages and production were believed to have run as high as $100,000,000. However, basic steel mills, which produce their own power, were planning to operate next week at 103 per cent of theoretical capacity.

The Duquesne Light Co. has maintained from 30 to 40 per cent of its normal power output, but could not promise to provide that much beyond Sunday.

The AFL street car operators union, which had vacillated yesterday and the day before, finally voted unanimously today to respect the Independent Union's picket lines. The million daily passengers of the Pittsburgh Railway Co. (a Duquesne affiliate) would be without their regular transportation for the duration of the strikes.

John T. Morgan, business agent of the 3,500 motormen, told them before the vote: "Mueller (president George L. Mueller of the power workers) is not a competent or responsible labor leader and we do not recognize his union, but do not cross his picket lines."

ACCUSED SWINDLER ARRESTED BY FBI

Davis and the bond set was that requested by the U. S. district attorney. A further hearing will be held next Wednesday morning. Fernandez was picked up at Miami International airport last midnight by FBI agents.

The FBI said he was expelled from Venezuela Sept. 18, and came here from Curacao, Dutch West Indies, where Dutch officials put him on a plane for Miami.

"I was not expelled from Venezuela," he said. "I was arrested in Caracas by two policemen and the chief of police. They locked me in a private house outside of the town and kept me there. I had a $10,000 check made out to me and they put a gun to my head and made me endorse it."

Fernandez exhibited a cable from the Royal Bank of Canada purporting to show the check was cashed by one L. Bujanda on Sept. 19. Fernandez said Bujanda was one of the policemen.

Asked if he had a criminal record or was known as "The Frog Man" or "Kid Tiger" blurted out a positive "no." He said the first word he had of the swindling charge came at today's hearing.

Fernandez told Davis he wanted legal counsel for Wednesday's hearing and even asked reporters to recommend an attorney. Davis gave him the names of several who practice here.

THE HORSELESS CARRIAGE. The first "horseless carriages" of the late nineteenth century were considered the last word in transportation, speed and style. The insurance of that day was up-to-the-minute too — but both the automobile and property protection have since taken great strides in keeping with their vigorous and imaginative beginnings. Today, you can obtain a variety of policies designed to fit your own individual requirements — to protect any or all of your real or personal property. But make sure that your coverage has kept up with the times by having it checked by your agent. You might well find, for example, that despite the continuing rise in value of your belongings, you have not increased the face amount of your insurance to cover replacement costs.
