Commissioners Delay Action On Columbus School Bond Election

Special To The Star
 WHITEVILLE, Nov. 6—The Columbus county board of commissioners Monday decided to delay further consideration of calling a million dollar school bond election asked by the board of education pending the new administrative term to begin in December when three new members will become members of the board.

The education board had requested that the bond election be called in order to expand the county's educational equipment. Consensus of opinion among the commissioners was that since three new members will be on the board within 30 days, they should be given a voice in the decision.
