Paris Pinned Down

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
 NEA Staff Correspondent
PARIS—(NEA)—Ranking favorite with many French designers this year is the separate bright jacket which doubles in brass. It teams up now with a slender black wool sheath dress, later on with light silk frocks. Dramatic example is Jacques Fath's cyclamen pink wool jacket, left, which swings into spring in a burst of sunray pleats; is faced at lapels and front openings with black velvet.

 As favored for spring is the cape jacket, a new idea in toppers sponsored by Alix, who combines one of beige and brown plaid with a beige jersey skirt. The short skirt of the cape-jacketed suit, right, is proof of Alix's strong individualistic stand for hemlines that just cover the knees during a season when designers are lowering skirts all the way from mid-calf to ankle.

WE, THE WOMEN

Ten Ways A Man Can Surprise His Wife

BY RUTH MILETT
 Want to surprise your wife? You can, and it won't cost you a cent. Just try:
 Doing a repair job the first time she asks you, and finding the tools you need without her help.
 Saying, "You drive," next time she meets you down town, and start to slide out from under the steering wheel.
 Asking her opinion about world affairs instead of telling her what to think.
 Paying the monthly bills without wondering out loud where all the money goes.
 Saying once on your day off,

Miss Symmes, Miss Christie Entertain

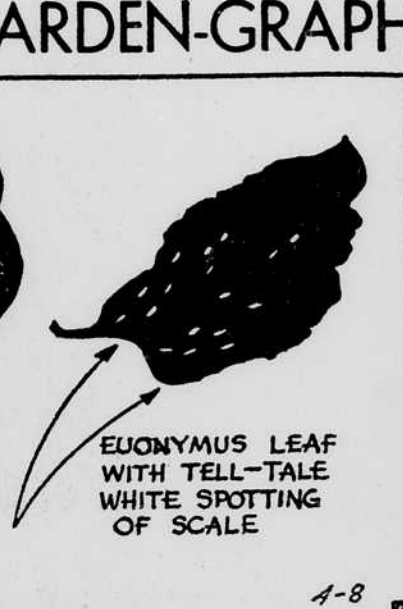

Miss Mary Symmes and Miss Mary Jean Christie were hostesses this past weekend honoring Miss Byah Thomason and fiance, Sanford Doxey, Jr., at a cocktail party at the home of Miss Symmes, 22 Mimosa Place.
 Around 30 guests were invited to call at 5 o'clock and included members of the wedding party, relatives and close friends of the young couple.
 The color note of yellow and white was carried out in the floral arrangements and refreshments.

Keep An Eye Out For Euonymus Scale

BY DEAN HALLIDAY
 Distributed by Central Press Association
 If you have euonymus bitter-sweet, pachysandra or lilacs growing in your garden inspect them this spring for signs of what is known as "euonymus scale."
 If the scale is present you may find the stems and leaves of these plants covered with white specks, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. The white specks are the male scales. The female scales look like dark brown oyster shells.
 Eggs, which have wintered under the female shells, hatch in late spring and by May or June yellow crawlers will be visible if you look closely. Sometimes a second generation hatches out in late summer.
 If this scale is allowed to remain unchecked it may cause the plants to die. When a euonymus vine becomes too heavily infested with this scale it may be best to cut it back almost to the ground. Burn the vine cuttings.
 To control euonymus scale spray the affected plants early in April using a miscible oil. This first spraying may not reach all parts of the foliage and a supplementary spray may be necessary. Since the eggs hatch between May 15 and 30 this is the best time for the follow-up spray which will thus catch the crawlers. A mixture of nicotine sulfate and soap should be used for this spray.
 Infestations of euonymus scale are especially dangerous to pachysandra plantings because they predispose them to attacks of a fungus disease. The fungus causes large brown blotches on the leaves and cankers on the stems. The plants affected by the fungus are killed in circular areas, showing spread by rain-splattered spores or by direct contact of infested foliage with healthy leaves. This fungus spreads rapidly and becomes serious only when the pachysandra plants have become weakened by attacks of scale or are otherwise injured.

Large Crowd Dines At Club As Easter Season Opens

Hurrying in Easter and spring social activities, 144 members of the Cape Fear Country club and their guests gathered in the ballroom and dining room Saturday night for the first big social dinner in many weeks.

Twenty-one tables were laid for the elaborate dinner for parties ranging from 2—16 in number of guests. Each table was centered with a crystal vase of narcissi, flanked by white burning candles.

Guests present for the occasion were: Miss Rachel Cameron, Hugh MacRae, II, Miss Douglas McKoy, Robert R. Bellamy, Miss Lillian Bellamy, Fred Whitman, Marguerite MacRae, Laurence Gray Sprunt, Miss Charlotte Sprunt, David R. Murchison, Miss Betty Blue Davis, Cummins Mebane of Raleigh, Miss Midge Strange, Thomas L. Morton, Miss Mary Bellamy, and Sam Nash Sprunt.

Reservations for the supper, which lasts from 7-9 p. m., must be made by Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock, by calling the club numbers, 9163 or 4652.

Some of the special dinners, which have gone over well at past Thursday night affairs are chicken barbecue, Italian spaghetti with mushroom sauce and country captain. Besides the main dish, a green salad and dessert is served.

Continuing the week's activities, the club will entertain at its weekly dinner Saturday night. Reservations can be made by calling the above mentioned numbers by Friday evening at 6 o'clock.
