

INDUSTRIALIST DIES AT TRYON

Father Of Eight Hour Day Will Be Buried Saturday

DETROIT, April 17 — (AP) — Funeral services for Andrew H. Green, Jr., 81, colorful industrialist who died Tuesday at his winter home in Tryon, N. C., will be held Saturday.

Green, who was credited with introducing the eight-hour day to Detroit, startled industrial circles at the turn of the century with his management of the huge Solvay Co. plant in downriver Delray.

A native of Syracuse, N. Y., he started with Solvay as an office boy and on the urging of his superiors went to Cornell university for study in engineering. After receiving his degree, he returned to Delray and became manager of Solvay's Delray plant, then in a protracted slump.

Green introduced drastic changes in operation, engineering huge loans and put the plant back on its feet.

Over the protest of his employees, who warned "if it doesn't work, you're through," Green insisted the eight-hour day — and lived to see it become the working unit of virtually all industry.

Roger B. Taney was appointed an associate justice of the U. S. Supreme Court in 1835 by President Jackson, but the Senate refused confirmation. Next year Taney was named chief justice to succeed John Marshall, and was confirmed by the Senate with, however, strong opposition from Henry Clay and others.

Lewis J. Hardee has imported a boat builder from Florida, and materials from Georgia, and plans the immediate construction of several boats to be placed into service before the shrimping season closes.

Special Appeal To Cut Housing Prices Planned

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(AP)—The next step in the administration's anti-inflation campaign will be a special appeal to the construction industry to cut housing prices, a source close to the White House revealed today.

President Truman's economic advisers were said to feel that price cuts in such a key industry would lead to lower prices in other fields.

The administration's appeal will be made to industry leaders at a series of private meetings to begin soon, this source said. The president's advisers will rely on "moral suasion" to convince the industry it should cut prices voluntarily.

Mr. Truman already has made similar appeals to industry as a whole. The administration does not feel that the response thus far has been satisfactory although several firms have announced price reductions.

Meanwhile Sen. Robert A. Taft, R., O., told a reporter that he "fully endorses" Mr. Truman's campaign for lower prices. However, he questioned the president's statement of last week that another round of wage increases would be justified if prices are not cut soon.

Bill To Set-Up Bureau Passes Second Reading In Assembly

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 17.—(AP)—The House of Representatives whipped a bill for a State Bureau of Investigation through vital second reading today while the Senate battled over passage of the general appropriations bill and revenue additions.

It was an exceptionally busy day for both branches of the General Assembly and the Senate even found time to devote a few important matters other than the appropriations-revenue measure.

The proposed bureau of investigation would supplant the governor's (state) constabulary and take over the annual appropriation for that agency.

It would be, Reps. Cuttino of Sumter and Spigner of Richland said, a "small group of trained men" under a $6,000 a year director appointed by the Governor with Senate approval.

Cuttino and Spigner, co-authors of the bill and both former Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, said the intent of their measure was to establish a central statewide clearing for criminal records and fingerprint files furnished by local law officers, to whom the bureau's services would be available. Additionally, a technical crime laboratory would be maintained.

The bureau would "supplement" local law enforcement "not supplant it," Spigner said.

"There was no objection to the bill, which was called up out of order on the House calendar."

A bill providing for local option elections on the question of continued legalized liquor sales was introduced in the House by Reps. Gaines of Spartanburg, Galloway of Abbeville, Hudson and Gresham of Greenville. Elections could be held one every two years on petition of 10 per cent of a county's registered voters.

GOLDSBORO DOCTOR BACKS TEACHER PAY

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(AP)—Dr. David J. Rose, of Goldsboro, N. C., said today teachers must have more money and more fun if American children are to get the best education.

And, in order to attract boys and girls into the teaching profession, he said, their salaries must be on levels comparable to those in business and industry.

"We now have the opportunity of taking leadership in the world in education and government," the president of the national council of state school boards associations said in an address prepared for the nation-wide citizens' conference of the National Education association.

Dr. Rose said the only way to give equal education throughout the country is to get funds from the federal government.

"It is shortsighted," he said, "to continue to spend the least money for education of rural children who will have the most children. According to the state's ability to educate children, the children of Mississippi, South Carolina and Arkansas are literally born without an equal opportunity."
