What To Do For That Sluggish, Down-and-Out Feeling

Remember the time when you could eat like a horse, bubbled-over with energy, felt happy as a lark? Was it not because you liked to eat—didn't know what ingestion was, felt strong as an ox? As age advances the "old stomach" and the "ever-changing blood" need help. Now you may again release vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloating and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Swim Star Was Once Poor Girl

BY RALPH DIGHTON
HOLLYWOOD, April 26.—(P)— Esther Williams and Ben Gage haven't much room for entertaining in their little $10,000 cottage. But that's all right—they don't entertain very many people anyway. Esther and her radio announcer-husband definitely are not cut to the Hollywood pattern. For one thing, their interests are limited to each other, swimming, each other, golf, each other, their house, each other, five records, each other, their work, and each other.

Their conversation, naturally, reflects their interests. The Hollywood variety of quick, clever patter is never heard around their house unless some guest tries to introduce it. The guest usually bows to the inevitable after a time.

The only difference between the Gages and that nice respectable couple down your block is the $10,000 a year. Esther and Ben collect between them.

Around Hollywood they say Ben's ego is as big as his six-foot five frame, but that's wrong. Actually his ego is just about equal in size to Esther's driving ambition.

If you're tired, the Gages are comfortable people to be around. But Hollywood just can't slow down to the Gages' pace. What the Gages think of the film colony in return is indicated by the fact that their home is about as far away from Hollywood as you can get and stay out of the ocean.

They live in a two-bedroom, stained-shingle cottage clinging to a raw hillside. A block away, it looks like a shack. On the inside, it's obvious no high-priced decorator ever set foot in the place.

The neighborhood is far from swank. The pavement in front is rutted and broken. Many a department store clerk lives in more luxurious surroundings.

But there's a reason. Esther Williams was a poor girl. Things never will be that way again, and you can bet Esther's sizeable bank account on that.

"My mother and dad, says Esther, "taught me the value of a dollar." To Esther now, a dollar is worth about 8 cents after taxes and agents. "They taught me a lot of other things, too. One of them was to always keep my head above water, and they didn't mean only in swimming."

Esther was the youngest of five children of a commercial artist. Her folks still live in the little house in south Los Angeles where Esther was born 25 years ago.

Even when Esther won prominence through her aquatic prowess—she holds a dozen national women's titles—she was short of pocket money. So she went in for modeling.

What it takes for modeling Esther's got. In addition, she has that driving ambition. It was only a matter of time, therefore, until she and Film Producer L. B. Mayer came to terms.

Very busy being a success, Esther only recently took time off to get acquainted with her husband. "I haven't had a breathing spell for five years," she says, "and when the studio told me I didn't have to do anything until April, I squealed like a pig."

Shorten the cooking time for cabbage. Less cooking means less odor and more food value.

A Message To SOUTHERN BELL EMPLOYEES

The following are answers to questions which are frequently being asked the Company—

QUESTION
Does the Company want employees out on strike to return to their jobs?

ANSWER
Yes, we have stated publicly that we are anxious for our employees to return to their work. Nearly 4,000 employees have returned since the strike began. The Company feels that all employees, management and non-supervisory, have a duty and obligation to render adequate telephone service to the public. The Company tried to avoid this strike. It made an offer before this strike began to arbitrate wages by allowing an impartial group of citizens in the South to determine whether or not Southern Bell wages compare favorably with other wages in this region, with both sides to abide by the decision. That offer is still open to the Union.

QUESTION
Have those employees who have returned since the strike begun suffered any loss of seniority or break in the continuity of service?

ANSWER
No. Those employees who have returned have done so without any loss of seniority or break in service.

QUESTION
What is the position of the Company on the Union Shop?

ANSWER
The Company has publicly stated its position that membership or non-membership in a Union should not be a condition of employment and has stated its policy as being that of opposition to any form or Company-Union agreement under which membership in a Union, or payment of dues to a Union would be a condition of employment. Moreover, the Union Shop is unlawful in some southern states.

QUESTION
Will employees who return to work after the strike, occupy a more favorable position with respect to seniority, continuity of service, wage progression, or otherwise, than those who return to duty during the course of the strike?

ANSWER
No.

QUESTION
Does the Company have an agreement or does the Company expect to make an agreement with the Union under which the Company through payroll deductions will collect fines that may be assessed against individuals by the Union.

ANSWER
The Company has no such agreement with the Union and its policy is opposed to the making of such an agreement. Since there is no Union Shop or other form of agreement making Union membership a condition of employment the assessment and collection of fines is a matter between the Union and the employe.

So long as there are jobs available those employes out on strike who feel a sense of duty to the public, as well as to themselves and to the company, will be cordially welcomed back to their work.
