MENDOTA TO ARRIVE AT BOSTON JULY 12

Special To The Star

U. S. CUTTER MENDOTA ON ICE PATROL, NORTH ATLANTIC, July 10—On Sunday, July 6, the Mendota found the long sought-for berg after receiving a report of its position in the morning from the SS William Wheelwright.

"This berg had drifted around the tail of the banks and considerably farther to westward than our computations had allowed for. Since then we have drifted with the berg, warning passing ships, and have watched it steadily calve and melt until it is now only a fair sized growler, but still a very solid hazard to navigation," the cutter reported.

The Mendota will be relieved on ice patrol by the cutter Spencer. The Spencer comes out from Argentina having just completed a weather patrol. The Mendota will arrive in Argentina tomorrow, pick up service passengers and some cargo, then proceed to Boston, arriving there on Saturday, July 12.

The Mendota will stand by in Boston pending termination of the surface patrol and release, if this occurs before July 20. Otherwise the Mendota will resume the surface patrol relieving the Spencer on July 23.

LIFE MAGAZINE WITH LOCAL SAFETY SHOW PICTURES SOON OUT

The July 14 issue of Life magazine, to hit the newsstands soon, will carry pictures and a story of S. Davis Polvogt, of Wilmington, and his death-defying bicycle act.

Seven of the pictures, made by a Life photographer at a safety show held at the Legion Stadium here and sponsored by the police department and MacMillan-Cameron Company, appear in the national magazine. Most of the pictures show Polvogt, 28, tire salesman, suspended in midair after a collision with an automobile.

Entitled "How not to ride a bicycle in traffic," the story of the local boy is used in connection with a bicycle court for kids in California.
