Senate Faces Long Session

Taft, Wherry Confident Congress Can Adjourn Sometime Saturday

VASHINGTTON July 20-((AP))-Senators Taft (R-Ohio) and Wherry (R-Neb) expressed confidence today that Congress can adjourn Saturday, but the threat of all-night session tomorrow hung over the Senate.

Taft, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy committee, told reporter he is sure that "all major legislative matters" can be sent to the White House before Wherry, who I'nes up G. O. City vote fraud case.

This proposal was advanced by Senator Kem (R-Mo). He has accused Attorney General Tom Clark of whitewashing election frauds in the 1946 Democratic primary in Kansas City.

Wherry told reporters the allnight session idea "is not a threat but a demand that we get down to business." Taft, while supporting Kem and Wherry, said the actual decision will rest with the boys. If they agree to stay to get wote, we'll be there."

Loss Of Paint Cans Worries Recluse More Than $20,000

DAVENPORT, Ia., July 20—(U.P.)—William H. Davis, 68, said today he wasn't surprised when police found more than $20,000 in bonds and cash in his junk-littered home.

"I knew it was there all the time," he said. "I just didn't know how much there was."

Police who were searching the house, jammed to the ceilings with junk, said they didn't know either. They expected to find more money.

Davis, described by police as an eccentric and frequently accepted handouts of food from hospitals here, was more troubled about three cans of paint he had "misplaced" than he was about money.

"I left that paint somewhere around the house," he told police, "I hope you can find it, please. I want to paint the house. Don't you think it needs it?"
