Housewife Says Odor Dulled Sences As Silver Is Taken

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug 9 _(P)-Police were asked today to look out for a dark-complexioned woman smelling of citronella oil who, a Huntington housewife said, seemed to have bewitched her into parting with her silverware.

The housewife, Mrs. Pearl Hayes told police "I couldn't bring myself around to stopping" the woman whose oros of aromatic salve and citronella 'seemed to get into my nose and stay

The woman Mrs. Hayes said, appeared at her front door, and after much conversation asked if she would "like to have her fortune told and her valuable bless-

Then the unbidden guest whipped out a handkerchief exuding the strange perfume and, in Mrs. Hayes' words, "I just let her in; I didn't seem to have the power to keep her out."

She remained powerless when the visitor asked to "bless" the silverware promptly picked it up and, along with a large supply of bathtowles from the bathroom, disappeared.

Mrs. Hayes said not until some event did she realize what had

It also announced that its Chicago and Oak Ridge, Tenn., "offices of directed operations" will be "activated" August 31 and September 1 under its "plans for a decentralized organization."

Light Plane Race Promoters Get Their Way

CLEVELAND, Aug. 9-(AP)-Rac ing pilots who clamored last year for a "light plane" event in the national air races are going to have it this year, and it probably will resemble a swarm of angry hornets in double-time.

In air race terminology, a "light plane" is practically anything that will fly, powered with an engine of not more than 190 cubic inches displacement.

Currently being built and tested in all parts (the country are about 30 of these little speedsters, Rourk, all of Shallotte, one son, and air race officials say each of the backers is putting pet ideas into his design, with the result that each ship is "highly experimental" in performance. Or in the pilots' lingo, "hot to handle."

The event will be raced for first time this year, to be known as the Goodyear trophy race, with a total of $25,000 in prizes.

RHODES CASE

The Asheville police are said by Sheriff Dalton to have taken, also, be evidence, namely the 'chock' taken from in front of the wheel which Rhodes is reported to have of an airplane, and thrown at Calton, and the gun used by the watchman in the shooting.

Meanwhile Henderson county coroner, Bruce Cox has scheduled a coroner's inquest into the death of Rhodes, young Mars Hill college student, and former Wilmington youth, to be held this Friday at 2:30 p.m., Sheriff Dalton said. A prelimiary hearing in the Henderson county seat has been set for August 25, for Calton, who is charged in a warrant with the death of Rhodes. He has been freed under $2,500 bond.

Sheriff Dalton said that he would direct that the death gun, the check, and persons and other evidence he could find, be taken back to Henderson county for the inquest scheduled for Friday af-
