ROURK FAMILY REUNION HELD

Shallotte Homestead Scene Of Annual Gathering Of Clan Sunday

(Special To The Star) SOUTHPORT, Aug. 17.—The old Rourk home at Shallotte, probably one of the oldest occupied homes in Brunswick county, saw the gathering of descendants of the Rourk family in a family reunion, last Sunday afternoon. The home is now owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Rourk, a son of the Judge.

Present were sons and daughters of Judge and Mrs. Rourk, together with their families. These were Mrs. E. G. Andrews, Portsmouth, Va.; Mrs. Bryan Marlowe, Tabor City; Peter Irvin Rourk, Wilmington and U. L. Rourk - Leland, and Chandler Rourk of Shallotte. Wives, husbands and children of these members of one of the county's pioneer families were also present.

In the early afternoon the gathering visited various places in and near Shallotte, linked with the Rourk family of old days and in the Cool Run cemetery, where Judge and Mrs. Peter Rourk are buried, along with other ancestors of the Rourk clan. A picnic supper, spread under the great oaks on the lawn of the old Rourk home added the finishing touches to the day.

Through many generations the Rourk family was prominently identified with the manufacture of naval stores at both Shallotte and Supply. In general merchandising, farming and water commerce. They built and operated turpentine stills at both Shallotte and Supply. Branches of the original Rourk families are now widely scattered, but most of the descendants of Judge and Mrs. Peter Rourk still live in or nearby to Brunswick.

Some Hints For Teacher

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 17.—(AP)—What's the matter with teacher? Prof. Paul A. Witty, director of Northwestern university's psycho-educational clinic, said today he had put the question to several thousand grade school pupils, and their written replies mentioned the following undesirable traits:

Ill-tempered, intolerance, unfairness, favoritism, lack of interest in the individual pupil, unreasonable demands, gloominess, unfriendliness, sarcasm, inconsistency, instability, impatience, inflexibility, talking excessively, talking down to the child, being overbearing, conceit, and lack of humor.

Professor Witty said some of the pupils used rather general terms, including "old grouch," "crab," and "sourpuss."

A mentor who "doesn't take everything too seriously," or "doesn't think school is all work and no fun," would win an A in deportment without doubt, if students issued report cards. Professor Witty declared.

In his analysis of the survey, the psychologist said that "the mental health of the teacher is an important consideration."

One of the most important keys to getting along with children in the classroom, he added, is the ability to discard "infantile reactions and emotional compulsions."
