To Prevent Being Called 'Bossy Woman'

By Ruth Millett

If you don't want people to say, "She certainly runs that family," don't do any of these things:

Use the word "my" instead of "our," when you are talking about the children, the house, or any of its furnishings.

Accept an invitation for your husband without consulting him first.

Volunteer his services. Or say carelessly, "I'll have Jim do so-and-so," instead of, "I'll ask Jim if he will do so-and-so."

Say, "I have decided," when talking about some decision that concerns both you and your husband.

Always be the one who decides when it is time for you and your husband to leave a party.

Keep your husband jumping to wait on you.

Point out your husband's duties as a host in front of the guests.

Make it clear to everyone that you handle the finances in your family.

Object when he corrects the children.

Tell everyone how good your husband is about helping you around the house.

Criticize his clothes, his haircut, his grammar or his manners in front of other people.

Say how Jim wanted to do so-and-so but you insisted on doing such-and-such and it was a good thing you did, too.

Teen-Age Tattler

By Beth Harris

Of special interest around town lately, is the fast approaching Teen-Age club Christmas dance this Friday night at the Community center. Persons will not be admitted without proper dress—coats and ties for boys and evening dresses for girls. Bobby Haas and his band will provide the music and special entertainment has been planned. The officers of the club have a big secret in store for those at the dance and is arousing much curiosity. This is one of the few dances to be held during the holidays and with all the capable planning of the Teen-Age club officers it is sure to be a huge success. It is, of course, too late for those in town to join, but all boys and girls returning home for the holidays from out-of-town schools may join any time this week. Only members will be allowed to enter so bring your membership card along with you. It's going to be fun!

Thursday night at Catherine Solomon's cottage on the sound, Mr. Chases physics and chemistry classes will spring a large party to celebrate the coming holidays. The party will begin at 7:30 and last until—well, you know how it is. The members of his classes will be allowed to bring one guest, Punch and sandwiches will be served and there will be music for dancing. This is the first party for the season and is causing much excitement.

Friday night Mrs. Bellamy's first and second year Spanish classes will have a party in the IB gymnasium. The gym will be decorated with "Pinatas" and each member of the classes will come dressed in a Spanish costume. Only members of her classes will be allowed.

On December 26, Miss A. H. Josey will entertain her dancing classes with a formal Christmas dance at the Community center. Dates have been placed and the crowd will include both of her classes.

participating in the affair.

Last to mention, but certainly not least is the basketball team. After shoving the Oake Grove marines off the court in a 51-33 tangle, they must feel pretty proud. There was not as large a crowd at the game Monday night as everyone expected, but maybe they're waiting for the "hot" games. Among those boys doing their stuff were Toddy Fennel, Louis Collier and Weenie Brown, all first string returnees from last year. Others were Charlie Smith, Mike Austin, Bob Lewis, Johnnie Crowley, A. C. Gregg, Denny Raye, Sonny Taylor and Jimmy West. These boys on the basketball team showed the public they were in there again this year and that we would be seeing some more quick ball handling.

That about has it for now, but more later.

If oysters are immersed in carbonated water for five minutes they are much easier to shuck.
