WILSON CITIZENS CLAIM GRICE'S STORE IS VERY FINE SEED HOUSE

WILSON — Grice's Seed Store at 120 South Tarboro Street, Wilson, is headquarters for the best in seeds. This store is one of the largest seed stores in eastern Carolina and is ready to furnish the farmer or the small gardener with seed necessities. At Grice's is to be found a complete line of T. W. Wood's tested garden and field seeds. In addition to seeds, the store carries all poultry feeds, feed, poultry remedies, and anything needed about the poultry house.

DR. SPAULDING NURSING SCHOOL SPEAKER

Winston-Salem — Dr. C. C. Spaulding, President of the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company and probably the best known business man in America has been selected for the commencement exercises of the Kate Bitting Reynolds Memorial Nursing School which will be held in the Free Memorial Auditorium of the Woman's College on Monday night, September 24 at 8:30 P. M.

The store also has an up to date grocery department and meat market which are very popular with the public.

Mr. R. C. Grice is owner and operator of the store, and is a civic-minded gentleman who has the confidence of the public. He is agent for the Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Company and has a line of coverages suitable to meet the needs of the people. He is an experienced insurance man with 16 years of service. He is especially interested in all types of crop insurance of vital interest to the farmers.

Cecil W. (Rat) Lamm is assistant manager of Grice's Seed Store. Mr. Lamm is a lifelong citizen of Wilson County with many years experience in a general store. He has been serving the people in Wilson for a number of years and is well qualified to render the service best suited to the people, most of whom know him personally.

At Grice's you will find Mr. J. H. Grice, Oscar T. Grice, and Fred Lamm salesmen. All of these gentlemen are well known to the public of this section, and they have had previous experience in the trade and are capable of advising about any type of seeds.

The following students will receive diplomas: Misses Julia Campbell, Ella Dula, Lorraine Hainstock, Grace Gist, Mary Gooden, Quester Moss, Louise Perkins, Vera Purvis, Miriam Raynor, Sylvia Rogers, Louie Scott, Ruth Scott, Elizabeth Staniel, Gladys Tomlinson, Vashli Waldron, Liberty Williams, Helen Wynecoff and Mary Livingstone, Catherine Alston.

Sunday evening, August 31, 1946, there will be a women's service held in the nurses' home. The guest speaker will be Mrs. Verda M. Welcome, Mrs. Verda Welcome is the guest of Mrs. Emma Oliver of this city at 1045 W. 23rd St.

Mrs. Verda Welcome is a graduate of Morgan College, Baltimore, Md. She has her master's degree from N. Y. University. She is a former teacher in the city school system, Baltimore and the wife of a prominent physician, Dr. H. C. Welcome, a surgeon, President hospital, Baltimore, Md. She was representative for the National Council of Negro Women which held its 25th anniversary of the Coteries of Social Workers, Trinidad Tobago.

JURY PROBLEM TO AFFECT JUSTICE IN TENN. RIOT CASE

LAWRENCEBURG, Tenn. — As the trial of 25 Columbia, Tennessee, Negroes charged with attempted murder moves into its second week in Negro-hating Lawrenceburg County, it is becoming increasingly evident that it will be impossible to pick a non-prejudiced jury. After three days of questioning, only two jurors have been accepted out of 46, all of whom admitted, in one bigoted statement or another, that they could not give a Negro a fair trial.

One juror, W. E. Starks, a 64-year-old white farmer, told the court he wouldn't give the same credit to testimony offered by a Negro as he would to that of a white man. He told Maurice Weaver, NAACP attorney for the defense, that he believed in separate types of justice for Negroes and whites and added that he thought some of the principles of the Ku Klux Klan were "very good." After unsuccessfully moving for Starks' rejection for cause, lawyers for the defense surprised the court by accepting this biased man as the first juror. Possibly Starks' presence on the jury can serve later, in the event of any of the defendants' conviction, as a major reversible error and cause for a retrial.

Veteran's Aid

By W. R. TWEEDS

A few weeks ago in the book review section of a widely read newspaper, there appeared an interview which Richard Wright had with a forenoon French author, Gertrude Stein, concerning her views of the American G. I.'s.

When our boys were in France, Gertrude Stein had personal conversations with American soldiers and she feels that she very well knows him by now. She stated that every G. I. of her acquaintance, and she knew thousands of them, had some deep seated fear. Some were well founded, such as fear of battle, of the welfare of their "home folks," of their future, etc. Others had fears just because American G. I.'s were supposed to possess such. She did not criticize those soldiers she only attempted to boil down their feelings and actually get them to see in the final analysis, they really did not have a real earthly worry.

But the part of the interview that offered most interest was her praise of Ex-servicemen, saying that the average G. I. of the only type of citizen who does not wait for someone to make a job for him, that most veterans shortly after discharge begin looking around to see what channels are open to new business and endeavor; and does not expect industrialism to give him a job and make him secure for life.

And so we see that even foreigners have noticed our initiative and with the aid of the G. I. Bill, the average ex-serviceman will soon make a record for himself in spite of the recent criticisms that we are leeches, sucking the public of all that we can obtain and that as long as the doles of $20 per week are pushed at us, we will be complacent.

We should be thankful that the number of which the critics speak is a minority.

ON THE LIMB

WITH GEORGE LYLE, JR.

For the NNPA News Service: Kenny Washington broke into the lineup in the game in which the Los Angeles Rams took that 16-0 lacing from the College All-Stars. Contrary to a lot of opinions, however, Kenny is not the first colored player to play pro football.

Back in the 20's Fritz Pollard, Duke Slater and a couple others whose names slip me now, played in the old American League.

Pollard, always a colorful character, will always stand out in my memory as one of the greatest in those days as he paced the Canton Bulldogs to many wins.

Philly's entry in the loop, the Frankford Yellowjackets, was one of the few teams in the league which did not have a colored player. Green Bay, if my memory serves me correctly, was another.

And now, twenty years later, a pair of dark-skinned footballers are back in the limelight as Washington and his running mate at UCLA, We draw Wilson Strode, don the moleskins for the pro champions, the Rams.

According to Bert Bell, proxy of the loop, there will be no dissenting voice from his office if colored players are signed by any, or all, teams in the National League.

Speaking of interracial sports teams, there has been formed recently a basketball league which will operate in a number of cities on the Eastern Seaboard.

Eddie Gottlieb, who will coach the Philadelphia team, will be overlooking a good bet if he fails to sign Zack Clayton, a local boy who made good with such teams as the Rens and Tattie Cooper's Bears and was reputedly the highest-paid colored player in pro basketball last season ($700 a month). He played with Abe Sperstein's Globetrotters last season.

Zack is now a Philadelphia fireman and should be available for duty with the new combination.

Other cities in the loop could bargain for the services of stellar performers like Dolly King, former Long Island University captain; Pop Gates of the Rens and the peerless 'Puggy' Bell, a trio of players who would be an asset to any quintet.

Reports have reached this desk that George Stewart, Panamanian racket swinger is one of the hottest to be seen in many years. He had little trouble in winning the New York Open match held several weeks ago and went to the semifinals of the Nationals at Wilberforce, where he bowed to Lloyd Scott, defending champion, in four sets.

Thus Stewart, a newcomer on the tennis scene, joins those others of his compatriots who have carved a niche in the world of sports. They include the baseball sensation, Frank 'Junior' Austin, 1944 batting champion of the Negro National League, currently with the Phil Stars and Pat Scantlebury of the New York Cubans.

Speaking of baseball, it seems that the Newark Eagles, under the guidance of Raleigh "Bles" Mackey have at least come through with a pennant for their owners Abe and Effa Manley.

PHYSICIAN — Dr. O. B. Williams, Charlotte physician.

above, is shown making a routine inspection of the health of young Charles Beatty, student of the Plato Price high school in Mecklenburg County. Prof. G. E. McKeithan, principal of the school, insists that every pupil in his school have complete medical care during the school term.

The collegiate football picture is a little cloudy at this writing but with the return of many men from the armed forces the loop teams should put on some thrillers for fans this season. But more of that anon.

Save Your Waste Fats!!!

FURNITURE FASHIONS by Frances Ainsworth

During these warm summer days nothing could be nicer than a view of the lake. But with or without a lake view there is a trick to decorating a bay window to make it look and feel as cool as possible. To retain the beauty of the window, keep the draperies back so that they frame the window and yet allow all cool breezes to come your way. To keep your room 10 to 20 degrees cooler be sure to draw your shade to the sill during the hot part of the day. Taking up heavy winter rugs makes the room look cooler. Psychologically, that's also a help.

T.E.W. — I am married. I love my husband and he tells me he loves me but he acts like he doesn't even like me at times. I was in love with a boy and he went into the service. Will we ever meet again? Somehow, I can't keep from thinking of the boy I was in love with before I met my husband.

Ans: Which is perfectly natural, but nothing to be alarmed about. It is foolish though, for you to torment yourself with thoughts and day dreams involving this other fellow. He jilted you abruptly if you remember back and he'd do it again. Meantime, your married life will stay confused until you cleanse your mind of this boy and center your thoughts and affection on your mate.

H.A.J. — I have some money saved up and my brother and I are planning on going into business. Will I be successful enough if I invest my money in it or will I do better working like I am? Answer thru the paper.

Ans: Throwing up your job and opening up a business for yourself is a big step, my friend. It would be unfair to you for me to give you a yes or no answer without fully analyzing your case. Please write to me privately. State the nature of your new enterprise, the past experience of you and your brother in this work, the amount you intend to invest and whether you will invest equally. I want to help you, so go into detail when you write back.

F.L. — I am writing you these few lines to let you know how much I enjoyed my 1946 Guide Book. I think it is simply wonderful. Whenever I feel in distress, I just read it. You don't know how much it has helped me. I wouldn't be without it for anything in the world. I can't thank you enough. Whenever I need advice about anything, I certainly will write you.

Ans: The world is full of successful men and women who had the craving you have and who worked their way thru college. It can be done and you can do it. Your parents will not hinder you if you prove your earnestness and sincerity. A year of hard work and saving then part time jobs while in school and during vacations, and before you know it, you will have accomplished your ambition.

J.B. — I have a friend girl I like her very much, furthermore I am jealous of her. She says she loves me. Will she ever have a private affair with me as she should? Answer in this week's paper. She seems to be a nice girl.

Ans: She is a nice girl Jack and nice girls don't indulge in private affairs until the wedding night. The answer to your problem lies in these magic words "Will you marry me, sweetheart?" It's your move brother.

H.E.M. — I am married, have been for eleven years. I'm the father of six children. I have a nice job and earn a decent living. My wife is a nice person, but there are things she doesn't do which to my nature is all that I ask for. I play ball a great deal. This she detests. She refers to me as sociable. I like activities of all sorts. Pretty working. My wife is nice enough looking but she fails to add glamour. I love romance, lots of jive and flattery. So tell me what I may do in order not to hurt her or have my children think me a no good?

Ans: You are fortunate in having a level-headed wife who believes in doing things in moderation. Jive, flattery, sports and social climbing is fun, it's true, but taking it in too big doses has wrecked many a happy home. Suppose your wife did pitch into your way of living 100 per cent. What about the kiddies? Would you drag them along or leave them behind to take care of themselves? Enjoy a reasonable amount of social fun, but don't put it above your wife and family.
